ALL HIGHWAYS WILL LEAD TO TOPEKA JULY 23

Landon Notification to Lure Motorists.

BY HAL FOUST.

Topeka, Kas., will be the nation's parking lot on July 23. For on that day Gov. Landon will be officially notified of his nomination as the Republican candidate for the presidency. And to that end touring authorities everywhere began yesterday with their plans for the easy and continuous movement of thousands of automobiles over the highways to Kansas.

Thousands of automobilists will be seeing with a newer and keener interest those neighborhoods which Tammany Jim Farley contemptuously called the "prairie states."

Thousands of automobile tourists will be skimming over middle western highways toward the Kansas capital which in the language of the late Proctor Knott in his eulogy of Duluth "is so precisely in the center of the known universe that the sun comes down at exactly equally distant points all around it."

Organize Network of Roads.

The organization of this network of highways leading to Topeka was begun yesterday by Robert M. Owthwaite, president of the Topeka Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Owthwaite opened an office in the Republican campaign headquarters in the Railway Exchange building which will be the nerve center of information for the thousands of touring bureaus which in turn will direct trafic to Topeka.

There is no danger of clogging the highways. There are too many of them in the prairie states. There is no danger of a lack of parking space. The whole state of Kansas will be thrown open to the visitors from coast to coast. There is no danger of a lack of hospitality. Every citizen of Kansas has thrown away the latch key.

The Chicago Motor club, urged by a cloud of requests from members, is organizing caravans, after the style of the old time conducted tours. Every tourist will be assured of comfortable eating and sleeping stops. Caravans are being organized in all central cities with branches in surrounding territory.

Not a Partisan Movement.

"This is not a partisan movement on our part," said Joseph J. Cavanagh, manager of the Chicago Motor club. "We are merely delivering service for which there is a demand, just as we gave maps and other information to some who drove to the Democratic convention in Philadelphia."

Topeka is an easy two days' drive from Chicago. It is 586 miles by way of Springfield Ill.; Hannibal, Mo., and St. Joseph, Mo. It is 619 miles by way of St. Louis and Kansas City, which might afford more hotel accommodations.

The July 23 ceremony, according to Republican leaders, will be a historical event worthy of a special trip to Topeka. This viewpoint will attract thousands. In addition, there will be festivities of interest to tourists. Indians of twenty tribes in native holiday regalia will be camped in the Topeka fair grounds. There will be a pageant portraying development of the west. Throughout budget balanced Kansas, communities are arranging programs to appeal to tourists.

On Well Traveled Routes.

Topeka is either on or not far off main routes to popular summer vacation areas in Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. It is not far out of the way in driving to the Texas centennial exposition at Dallas.

THE TRIBUNE roadster, at the request of the Topeka Chamber of Commerce, was dispatched for Kansas late yesterday to advise in parking and trafic systems to operate while this city of 66,000—about the same size as Evanston or Oak Park—is entertaining an unprecedented volume of visitors. It will report on attractions and accommodations en route and at the destination.

Insurance Collector's Leg Broken in Flight from Dog

Leo Hurd, 37 years old, 4751 Maypole avenue, an insurance company collector, tripped in hurdling a three foot fence and suffered a broken leg yesterday in fleeing from a dog which pursued him as he approached a house at 4612 South Western avenue.

DEMAND OUSTER OF REBELS IN A. F. OF L. FIGHT

Metal Trades Chief Leads Attack.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—A formal demand that the twelve rebel unions disband their committee for industrial organization or be immediately suspended was flung into the meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor this afternoon by John P. Frey, president of the metal trades division.

Frey's statement, which bristled with charges that the committee on industrial organization was supported by the communist party, was the latest attack upon John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and head of the recalcitrant unions. Lewis has split the federation asunder with his drive for organization of workers by industrial masses. Opposed to him is William Green, president of the A. F. of L., who favors organization by crafts.

Green Holds to Peace Hope.

At the conclusion of another session of the executive council late today President Green declared that the minimum request of labor's high command was "the dissolution of the C. I. O.," although he still held out hope that the breach would be healed. Green mentioned two possibilites that might stave off drastic action temporarily. The first was the possibility that the council might direct the subcommittee headed by George M. Harrison of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks to continue conferences with the C. I. O. officials in an effort to win modification. The second possibility was that the council would postpone final action until its next meeting in September.

Today the Ladies' Garment Workers and International Typographical union declined the invitation. The mine workers and United Textile Workers likewise snubbed the council yesterday. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers and Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers have been invited to attend Monday's meeting.

Frey's demand was prefaced by the history of the C. I. O., which was started by Lewis with a $500,000 treasury chest for the organization of steel workers along vertical lines. Then he launched into the charges of the communist rôle in the C. I. O. movement.

Communists Change Tactics.

"Shortly after the Atlantic City convention in 1935, the communist party in the United States changed its tactics," asserted Frey. "Members were instructed to no longer criticize the A. F. of L., but instead, to join local unions and then work to bring about sentiment in favor of C. I. O., and a Farmer-Labor party.

"As early as January of this year, organizers of the communist party were sent into the steel districts instructed to support the activities of the C. I. O.

"At the convention of the communist party, held in New York City during June of this year, frequent reference was made to the C. I. O., and Mr. John L. Lewis' efforts were praised and uproariously applauded."

Quotes from Speeches.

"While there is no evidence that the C. I. O. has any working agreement with the communist party in the United States, there is a mass of

THE CHANGING WORLD

People managed to worry along perfectly well before the days of the automobile—

—but the luxury of the past has become the necessity of the present. People couldn't get along without autos today.

"HEAR YE! HEAR YE! AN EIGHT POUND GIRL HAS BEEN BORN TO ELDER SMITH"
"DEAR ME! HE'LL BE IN A DREADFUL HUMOR, NOW"
"GREAT SCOTT! TH' MORNING PAPER HASN'T COME!"

"HERE, ABNER, DELIVER THIS NOTE RIGHT AWAY. IT'S VERY IMPORTANT"
"TH' WHOLE TELEPHONE SYSTEM IS OUT OF ORDER. A BLOWOUT OR SOMETHING"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight embarked on a nautical vacation in Maine and Canadian waters.

Mr. Roosevelt boarded a special train at midnight to begin the first lap of his journey to escape the capital's heat. Tomorrow morning he will participate in the dedication of the Triborough bridge in New York City and continue on to his family home at Hyde Park for the week-end.

Late tomorrow afternoon he will attend the wedding of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark, and Capt. Boerge Rohde of Denmark at St. James Episcopal church in Hyde Park, of which Mr. Roosevelt is a senior warden. He will meet with members of the Roosevelt Home Town club, a political organization founded when the President ran for the governorship of New York.

Boards Boat Tuesday.

Monday night he will reboard his special for the Maine coast, where he will take over command Tuesday of the Sewanna, a 50 foot schooner yacht on which he will spend two weeks. Mr. Roosevelt will act as skipper and helmsman of the schooner.

Three of his four sons, James, Franklin Jr., and John, will be members of its crew. The nominal commander will be Elden Colbeth, Maine ship captain. The only other member of the crew will be Joseph Emmerez, a seasoned sailor.

The cruise will carry the President along the Maine coast to Campobello Island, where his mother has a summer home, and off Nova Scotia, where Mr. Roosevelt expects to engage in deep sea fishing.

Three Vessels in Convoy.

A destroyer, the presidential yacht Potomac, and the schooner Liberty, which will carry newspaper men, will trail the Sewanna.

At his press conference this morning Mr. Roosevelt said he was looking forward to an enjoyable rest. He said he also was awaiting with pleasure a visit with Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada, at the latter's summer home in Quebec, on July 31.

The President said he has no idea just when he will return to the White House. He said he might come to Washington directly from Quebec, which would bring him back to the White House about Aug. 3.

ALAN CROSLAND OF FILMS NEAR DEATH IN CRASH

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Alan Crosland, well known motion picture director, was in a hospital near death tonight from injuries incurred in an early morning automobile accident.

He received fractures of the skull and of his right arm and leg when his automobile overturned after apparently hitting an obstruction near an excavation on Sunset boulevard. Police expressed the belief the car was traveling at a high rate of speed at the time of the accident.

Crosland, a native of New York City, has been associated with the film industry since 1912. He has worked on the lots of virtually every studio and has directed Alice Brady, John Barrymore, Al Jolson, and most of the other better known stars.

Ranked as one of Hollywood's most noted directors, Crosland directed "The Jazz Singer," "Beloved Rogue," "On With the Show," and many other screen hits.

TESLA PREDICTS POWER DELIVERY WITHOUT WIRES

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Nikola Tesla, famed inventor, celebrated his eightieth birthday today by making a prediction of an industrial civilization founded on cheap and unlimited electrical power transmitted from a central point to any corner of the globe without wires.

This new system will have its first practical demonstration within a year, Dr. Tesla predicted. He has perfected, after a lifetime of research, the principles which will create the apparatus for generating and transmitting power without wires, he said.

Dr. Tesla said that the chief obstacle has been the difficulty of developing tremendous "pressure" and handling it safely. He said he has met this problem with "a wonderful solution" which will make it possible to develop a pressure of 100,000,000 volts—about six times the force so far attained by man in any laboratory.

Takes Dare to Remove Street Light Bulb; Killed

Louis Giza, 34 years old, 6115 South Peoria street, was electrocuted last night when he climbed a street light pole in front of 615 West 51st street to replace a light bulb which he had removed on a dare from a group of friends. He fell 25 feet to the ground when his hand touched the light socket and his skull was fractured. At the German Deaconess hospital, however, it was said death had been caused by the electric shock.

Richest Sheik in World Made British Knight

LONDON, July 10.—The richest sheik in the world, Sir Hamad ibn Isa al Khalifa, ruler of Bahrein, the island of pearls, is paying the first state visit of royalty while the British court is still in mourning.

He was received by Lord Zetland, secretary of state for India, and then King Edward VIII. dubbed him knight of the Order of the Indian Empire.

This sheik is so wealthy that he soon may become involved in an "international" incident. He claims he is under British protection. Persia denies the claim. Great Britain, in 1928, refused to allow the pretension that Bahrein belongs to Persia.

Find Richest Oil Well.

The finest pearls in the world come from Bahrein. The fishery alone gives the sheik a royalty of $7,500,000 a year. And now, in the 250 square miles of his kingdom, what is said to be the richest oil well in the world has been discovered.

The British navy depends on the Persian oil fields, but the Persian oil fields are vulnerable to enemy aircraft. The oil well of Bahrein is impregnable.

The oil is important. The pearls are more so, and out of the sheik's 120,000 subjects 15,000 are pearl divers. Some of the pearls of Bahrein, taken from the sea centuries ago, sparkle in the British crown jewels.

Persians Harass His Fleet.

Since Britain refused Persia the right to exercise jurisdiction over Bahrein in 1928, gunboats of the Persian navy have constantly harassed the sheik's 1,000 vessels of the pearl fishing fleet.

When Sir Hamad left his kingdom of pearls to come to Britain, he did not travel on any of his thousand ships. He asked for British transport and traveled to Basra, at the head of the Persian gulf, on H. M. S. Deptford. He boarded a British ship because his neighbor, the sheik of Mohammerah, who also claimed British protection, was captured by the Persians and died a captive in May.

Purse Thief Gets $980, Woman's Life Savings

A thief snatched a handbag containing $980 from Miss Julia Harrington, 50 years old, in front of her home at 7026 Vernon avenue yesterday. She told the police the money represented all her savings. Witnesses said the thief escaped in a green-paneled truck without license plates.

Capone's Gang Rises Again in Votes and Vice

Frank Nitti, State Representative James J. Adduci and Louis [Little New Work] Campagna, all notorious members of the murderous Capone gang, have been put under police espionage as leaders in the revived Sicilian camorra to control gambling, prostitution, bootlegging, and all other rackets in Chicago, it was learned last night.

These known gangsters are being investigated in connection with the murder of State Representative John M. Bolton, 2d district Democrat, who was killed by shotgun blasts fired through the window of his automobile early Thursday as he drove west in Harrison street at Washtenaw avenue.

Nitti Brains of Old Mob.

Nitti, business manager and brains of the original Capone mob; ex-convict; Al Capone's first lieutenant before that master gangster was sent to Atlanta and Alcatraz.

Adduci, gangster and hoodlum, vice monger, aide to "Dago Lawrence" Mangano; now serving his first term at Springfield as a Republican from Bolton's district.

Campagna, Al Capone's former bodyguard, who has a long string of gang affiliations behind his name and has been arrested scores of times.

War Declared Again.

More than 500 gang murders were committed in Chicago during the period in which Capone controled most of the bootlegging in the city.

Capone's floods of cash from the floods of booze manufactured and distributed was the gang strength. Wholesale bribery of police and courts kept Capone supreme. This enormous boodle has vanished. The gangsters are hungry. According to police, Nitti and his associates have resumed the old warfare, this time to control prostitution and gambling and the similar vices.

In place of money the Nitti-Campagna-Adduci gang has sought to substitute votes. Political power is to replace direct bribes. Adduci, a gangster, is in the Illinois legislature. The police point out that Bolton was antagonistic. Bolton was murdered.

Alderman Is Boss.

In the near southwest side of the city, where the Capone hoodlums keep headquarters, the political boss of the Italian-Americans is Ald. William V. Pacelli of the "bloody Twentieth" ward. His will is obeyed by most of the Sicilian officeholders, in particular by State Senator Daniel A. Serritella, First district Republican. Serritella was close to Capone and also served as city sealer during a previous city administration.

Second Legislator Killed.

Bolton is the second legislator from this section to be murdered in the last seven months. Preceding him was State Representative Albert J. Prignano, a Democrat from the Seventeenth district, which includes Pacelli's ward. Prignano was shot

The moistureless heat wave that has hung over the middle west for eight days, and now overspreads the entire country east of the Rockies, took on added intensity in some sections yesterday and—according to the official forecast—will continue in its disastrous course at least until Monday.

Outstanding facts in connection with the heat-drouth situation were:

1. Chicago's lake breezes lost much of their potency yesterday afternoon and the mercury, which had halted the three previous days at 95 [a record for 1936], climbed to a searing 102 degrees at 4 p. m. at the University of Chicago observatory. The reading at the airport was 106. New York sweltered at 100, only slightly less than the 102.3 degree all-time high registered there on Thursday. Deaths attributed in part to the continued heat throughout the country were placed at more than 420.

2. States west of the Mississippi, their slender reserves of stock feed and water rapidly diminishing, made new appeals to Washington for help, and President Roosevelt announced that 75,000 WPA jobs would be made available at once to drouth sufferers. Other assistance through the outpouring of federal funds was being planned.

3. The opinion that corn and the spring wheat crops have been, or soon will be, irreparably damaged was reflected in trading on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat rose 3½ cents a bushel on the average for the future deliveries and September closed at $1.09½ a bushel. Corn advanced the limit of 4 cents set by the government for one day's trading, September being quoted at the close at 82⅞ cents.

4. The hasty marketing of cattle and hogs in the regions affected by the drouth caused a glut of the markets and prices fell.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd, after studying his charts and weather reports last night, said that there was no immediate prospect of rain, or of a lessening of the heat.

"It looks as if the conditions in Chicago will be about the same as today's," he said. "The temperature probably will be at or above 100 both on Saturday and Sunday. There has been no break in the heat wave on a broad scale, although it should be a little cooler in the northwest."

It was pointed out that rainfall everywhere in the central west has been extremely meager since the heat wave developed. In Chicago, as an example, only .04 of an inch has fallen since June 30, compared to a normal of 1.14 inches for the period. Since Jan. 1 the city has had only 9.66 inches of precipitation, whereas the normal would be 17.47.

The Dakotas, Nebraska, and Minnesota have been even harder hit. Their percentage of normal rainfall this year has been as low as Chicago's, in general, and their heat wave began earlier and has been of greater intensity. Many of the Dakota cities have had plus 100 temperatures for as many as 12 days in a row.

SIZZLING RECORDINGS

Indianapolis with 105 equaled its heat record for all the years since 1901. Yesterday was the 38th consecutive day in the Hoosier capital without a drop of rain. One Indiana town, Kendallville, reported a hail and wind storm that caused considerable damage.

At Springfield, Ill., the high was 104. This set a record as the seventh consecutive day above 100. Hoopeston, with 107, also had its seventh straight. Carbondale's high was 104 and Rockford's 106.

Eau Claire, Wis., with 107, equaled that city's all-time heat record established on May 31, 1934. Beloit, in the same state, pointed to its 106 as the all-time record there. In both cities the day was the fifth straight with a maximum over 100. Crop conditions in Wisconsin were described as fair, but fears were expressed that forest fires in the north might cause huge losses unless rains fall soon. Michigan also lies under the menace of forest fires.

Suffering in the East.

The east suffered as much as the west, although its highest temperatures were not quite equal to the maxima this side of the Alleghenies. Philadelphia's 104 was the hottest July day there, and Erie, Pa., equaled its all-time high heat record with 98.

So oppressive was the heat in New York that city employés and many workers for the federal government were dismissed and sent to their home. One group of women, sewing on a WPA project in a loft building, had to quit after a dozen or more of them had fainted.

At Troy, N. Y., with the mercury standing at 104, 75 women collapsed while attending the state convention of the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. All were revived after they had been carried out.

U. S. STEPS INTO CRISIS

In Washington, President Roosevelt, in discussing the plight of the farmers of the stricken areas, said that 16,500 of the 75,000 PWA jobs for them had already been filled. Residents of Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming and the two Dakotas are to have 55,000 of the places and the other 20,000 are to be given out in the south and southwest.

The President also pointed out that the AAA has made important modifications in its soil conservation program, with a view to allowing farmers to grow late forage crops and also to get good stands of soil conserving crops going before 1937.

The government is also looking forward to taking a hand in the removal of cattle from the drouth areas, which now officially include 277 counties, nine of which were added yesterday to the list. At St. Paul, Minn., machinery to handle the prospective emergency purchases of such live stock was arranged at a meeting attended by government officials and representatives of five states.

Appeal to Stock Owners.

At the conclusion of the meeting F. R. Wilcox, president of the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, said:

"We urge holders of live stock in the drouth areas to sell through regular markets as long as prices remain near their present level. The government would not be justified in buying at these levels, but we intend to maintain the market at a reasonable point. We will not pay premium prices, but we will not allow the market to sink to a distress level."

REPORTS ON THE DROUTH

Some conception of the conditions in the areas worst hit may be obtained in reports sent through from the various states yesterday. Condensed, these reports are:

NORTH DAKOTA—Gov. Walter Welford declared: "The drouth is increasing in severity. The condition is more critical than I can describe. Self-sustaining ranchers who went through the drouth of 1934 without help are threatened with ruin. Many of them have neither feed nor water for their animals."

NEBRASKA—Cal A. Ward, regional resettlement administration director, estimated at Lincoln that $20,000,000 would be required to meet feed requirements in the Dakotas, Kansas and Nebraska before another crop is produced. He said that 95,000 families in the four states are in dire need. Crop experts said that the corn crop in four Nebraska counties would be destroyed unless rain falls in the next ten days.

Damage Mounts in Missouri.

MISSOURI—Continued heat has augmented the drouth damage and it was asserted an additional 12 counties would have to be added to the 28 now on the government's emergency drouth list.

IOWA—Charles D. Reed, meteorologist, said the prospect for a good corn crop is "growing more unfavorable daily."

SOUTH DAKOTA—Nearly all of the 11,000 residents of the city of Mitchell gathered in churches and prayed for rain. The temperature stood at 104 degrees and there had been no precipitation for nearly two weeks and the accumulated deficiency since Jan. 1 stood at 5.5 inches.

OKLAHOMA—The state's congressmen, who will meet today at Oklahoma City, asserted that crop damage already exceeds $8,000,000. The representatives plan to ask Washington for additional drouth relief.

In Illinois and Indiana the drouth made further inroads, but the damage has not reached the extent it has in states farther west. In most sections farmers asserted that a good crop of corn could still be produced if the rains come. Oats have been a failure and hay is scarce. Lack of good pasture is cutting down milk production markedly.

Heat Over America

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MILWAUKEE.—They have to suffer from the heat like everybody else, but Milwaukee's brewers mind it much less because estimates showed beer sales jumped 75 per cent in the last three days, putting most breweries on a 24 hour schedule.

WAUKESHA, Wis.—Workmen in Waukesha foundries, where high temperatures are the usual thing, offered their heat antidote to the sweltering public. It consists of four salt tablets per day, with their drinking water, to replace the saline substances lost by the body in perspiring.

MOFFIT, N. D.—L. E. Cline declared the heat was so intense that a hen pheasant and her brood shared the water ration of his chickens and 10 rabbits clustered around his well.

MENOMINEE, Mich.—Employés of the Menominee city water station set a thermometer in the sun. The mercury shot past the 120 mark to the top of the glass column, which burst.

RENO, Nev.—Residents of Reno lighted furnaces for the first time since last winter as temperatures during the early morning dropped to 51 degrees.

HELLTOWN, Mich.—A thermometer placed in the sun at this abandoned Keweenaw county mining camp, broke after registering 120 degrees. Helltown got its name as one of the most lawless mining camps in the Michigan copper country more than 65 years ago.

SATAN'S KINGDOM, Conn.—Ninety-eight in the shade, 120 in the sun.

NEW YORK.—Dr. S. S. Goldwater of the department of hospitals, said heat was merely the "last straw" in most cases of prostration. Heart disease, digestive ailments, indiscriminate eating, and the use of "fire water" to cool off were cited by the doctor as resistance lowering factors.

QUINCY, Ill.—The Mississippi river went down to within eight-tenths of a foot of low water mark. It had almost three feet to go to reach the 1934 drouth low.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—Rain broke a three month drouth on President Roosevelt's Pine Mountain valley farm last night, but it was of little benefit to the crops. Otis Moore, manager of the farm, said several days' rain would be necessary to help much.

Screen Actress and Reno Man Wed at Crown Point

James C. McKay, 49 years old, a hotel operator of Reno, Nev., and Mrs. Alta E. Wilson, 28, an actress known on the screen as Barbara Whitney, were married last night in Crown Point by Justice of the Peace John F. Krost. The bride was divorced several years ago from Dr. Eric R. Wilson, a Hollywood physician. McKay's first wife died a year ago. The best man at the wedding was B. A. Sullivan, director of sales for the Drake and Blackstone hotels.

Artist Dives from Rock Into Lake and Is Drowned

Donn Cooper, 24 years old, 852 Sheridan road, a commercial artist, was drowned last night while swimming in Lake Michigan at Roscoe street. A companion, Allan Rutt, 24 years old, 3819 Ravenswood avenue, told police Cooper dived from the rock retaining wall and did not reappear. The body was recovered within a few minutes, but a fire department rescue squad was unable to revive Cooper.

Trunk and $1,000 Contents Stolen from Parked Auto

Mrs. H. B. Hanson, who, with her husband, Capt. H. B. Hanson, on leave from Fort Brown, Tex., is a guest at the Drexel View hotel, 4359 Drexel boulevard, reported to the police last night that a steamer trunk containing clothing and jewelry valued at $1,000 had been stolen out of her automobile while it was parked in Wabash avenue near the Palmer house.

Sets Steel Traps to Catch Children; Fake Coin Is Bait

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Two mothers charged today a neighbor set steel traps, baited with imitation dimes, in a vain attempt to catch their children. Assistant Prosecutor Terrence Boyle, who described the traps as "strong enough to hold a wolf," said they were set in the back yard of the neighbor's home because he objected to the children's going on his property.

PROMISES CITY TO GET PAY FOR RELIEF WORKERS

Legislative Amendment Is Seen by Ward.

Chicago will be able to get money to administer relief within a few days after the legislature reconvenes on Aug. 4, but the city will receive little help at Springfield regarding its total relief shortage of at least $1,000,000 a month. This was predicted yesterday by State Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, Democratic floor leader of the upper house.

Their hands tied by recent relief legislation, city officials are looking to the legislature to provide some way out of the present relief crisis. The new laws make it impossible for Chicago to pay administrative expenses with state relief funds or expected receipts from the property tax of 30 cents per $100 of assessed valuation levied by the city council Wednesday.

Promises Speedy Amendment.

"It will be a simple matter to amend the legislation to permit the city to use money from its relief tax for administration," Senator Ward said. "This can be done in a few days, and downstate members of the assembly will help us.

"However, even after the way relief clients have suffered since July 1, I don't expect downstate legislators or Gov. Horner to be any more sympathetic with Chicago's problem than they have been. Aldermen are seeking another conference with Gov. Horner, but they are wasting their time—he is dead set against using more state funds for relief."

Will Push New Bills.

Nevertheless, Senator Ward said he would attempt to advance the bills, now on third reading in the senate, to devote a greater portion of the sales tax to relief. One bill, to turn over one-half instead of one-third of sales tax revenues to relief, is similar to the measure which was vetoed by Horner last month after its passage.

The Chicago chapter of the American Association of Social Workers issued a statement yesterday criticizing the governor's action in vetoing this bill as "in part responsible for the crisis." The "extreme decentralization" of relief July 1, when administrative duties passed from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to Chicago and 1,440 townships and counties in the state, was also blamed.

"There is apparently nothing for us to do but to fight our way through to Aug. 4 with the hope that the legislature will act," said City Relief Commissioner Leo M. Lyons. Distress among the indigent is increasing daily."

The city's 83,000 relief families are assured food for July, on a reduced basis, but are receiving no rent, fuel, light, or medical allowance.

Ex-Robbins Police Chief Gets 199 Years for Murder

Robert [Riley] Jones, colored, former chief of police of Robbins, a colored community south of the city, was sentenced to 199 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke for the murder of Philip Whaley, 21 years old, on May 26, 1935. Jones was found guilty by a jury June 17. Whaley, son of an auditor, was shot when he resisted Jones in a holdup.

Heat in Chicago

The Chicago weather bureau had more telephone calls yesterday than ever before in its history. From 1,200 to 1,400 persons an hour called, principally to ask what the temperature was.

Officials of the Essaness theaters announced that 24 Chicago and suburban theaters operated by them would remain open all night to allow patrons to avail themselves of the 70 degree temperatures prevailing within by virtue of their cooling systems. No extra charge will be made, patrons may stay as long as they like, and rules of silence will be suspended, it was announced. Anyone who wants to can bring a lunch, according to the announcement.

A 50 per cent increase in the number of tire blowouts was reported by Harold Treichel, head of the emergency truck service of the Chicago Motor club. He explained that the high temperature caused over inflation of tires.

"It's just like State street at Christmas time," sighed an attendant at crowded Oak street beach last night. Of the 100,000 who thronged the beach from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., some 40,000 were still there at 10 p. m.

A group of young Italian boys learned that the waters of Lake Michigan have hot weather possibilities other than swimming. They took a watermelon to Oak street beach last night, and one of their number moored it in the water for an hour. "It's almost ice cold," they cried later, as they dug their fists into the split melon.

The official temperature of Lake Michigan water at the bathing beaches, taken in one foot of water, was 81 at 9 a. m., 92 at noon, and 86 at 6 p. m.

Domestic life went on as usual on the beaches. A bulbous woman in a scarlet one piece bathing suit propped herself against a post and wrote letters. A couple brought deck chairs, placed them under an arc light, and casually read the newspapers.

10,000 ILLINOIS WPA WORKERS MAY LOSE JOBS

Agencies Clash on How to Trim Lists.

Ten thousand WPA workers in Illinois are no longer entitled to their jobs under the recent Works Progress administration edict that only persons in "actual need" should be employed on projects, it was estimated yesterday by an official of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. A brisk verbal battle is under way on the question of who shall enforce the Washington edict—a $120,000 chore.

Howard O. Hunter, regional WPA administrator for the midwest, wrote to the IERC, informing its members it was up to them, but several members have objections to this proposal.

Would Need 600 Employés.

"We might as well hire people to investigate the status of workers in some factory as to spend state money to review WPA rolls," said Omar H. Wright of Belvidere, one member. Two others, State Treasurer John Stelle and William H. Sexton—declared themselves opposed to the proposal also. At least 600 persons would have to be employed to do the job, they said. Frank Z. Glick of the IERC estimated 10,000 WPA workers would be affected.

"If we find which WPA workers are no longer in need, and they are replaced by relief persons, what assurance have we that the former workers will not shortly apply for relief?" Stelle wanted to know.

The only member defending the proposition was Chairman John C. Martin, who said it would result in a net saving in relief costs to the state and local agencies. Attorney General Otto Kerner ruled yesterday that the IERC could use state funds for the task.

New Angle Arises.

Meanwhile, there was revealed the first working out of the other radical change made in the WPA program—payment of hourly wages similar to those paid by private industry in each community. WPA District No. 1, comprising the northern group of counties outside Cook county with headquarters at Rockford, submitted its new wage schedules.

Ranging from a low of 31 cents an hour for unskilled labor to $1.50 for highly skilled labor, the new rates show that the taxpayers will receive about 25 per cent fewer hours of work for the same amount of money. Monthly wages will continue at $40 to $94, depending on the class of employment, but the present 130 hour month will be revised downward to allow for the increased hourly rates.

Rush Hour Fire Delays South Side 'L' Service

Service on the south side elevated lines was tied up for forty minutes during the rush hour last evening when fire, apparently started by a lighted cigaret, attacked the ties on the structure over Garfield boulevard near Prairie avenue. The hot weather added to the combustibility of the grease soaked ties, firemen said. Automobile trafic in Garfield boulevard also was interrupted until the fire was extinguished with small loss.

MRS. EDWARD MENDUN.

Changing her separate maintenance suit to one for divorce, Mrs. Rose Marie Mendun, 21 years old, 221 15th street, Wilmette, was granted a decree by Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Circuit court yesterday, dissolving her marriage in 1933 to Edward Mendun, a salesman. "My husband didn't want children," Mrs. Mendun testified under questioning by her attorney, Norman Becker. "On May 2, 1935, when he learned that I was to have a baby he deserted me." Mendun was ordered to pay $3 a week for the support of the child, Frederick, who is now 9 months old.

STATUE OF CODY GOES UP IN TEXAS DESPITE PROTEST

Dallas, Tex., July 10.—(AP)—The statue of Buffalo Bill took its place in front of the Museum of Fine Arts at the Texas Centennial exposition today—but none of the representatives of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, invited to participate in the hatchet-burying peace ceremony, attended.

The daughters had protested for months that William Cody, famed Union scout, was a spy during the civil war, and no statue of him was entitled to a prominent place at the centennial.

No confederate veteran—only an actor in gray from the cast of the pageant "Cavalcade of Texas"—was there.

PA. LEGISLATURE QUITS WITHOUT RELIEF MEASURE

Harrisburg, Pa., July 10.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's deadlocked legislature quit for the week tonight without providing cash or food for more than a half million destitute unemployed.

For five days no relief has been sent out. Funds are exhausted.

Gov. Earle's administration and the Republican majority in the senate, after an all night session and another brief attempt today, were unable to struggle out of the disagreement over how much money to provide, or how to get it.

With the capitol sweltering in a record heat wave, house and senate shouted approval of motions to adjourn until Monday night.

As the two branches closed their desks amid protests of state relief officials that "thousands are going hungry," the assembly seemed no closer to agreement than when the crisis was reached last week-end with the spending of the last relief dollar.

ENDS LIFE WITH POISON.

Bloomington, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Joseph Welsh, 40, Odell, died of poisoning today after he told physicians he had taken the fatal dose because he had lost his job with the Alton railroad. Railroad officials said he resigned a week ago.

NEW PWA POLICY GETS APPROVAL FROM PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—A new Public Works policy, stressing projects capable of absorbing the greatest number of persons eligible for or obtaining work relief from WPA developments, was disclosed today by President Roosevelt.

Definitly linking WPA and PWA, it was described by PWA officials as favoring small and primarily relief projects rather than heavy construction, such as the $64,00,000 Tri-Borough bridge in New York.

The President said at a press conference that Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant PWA administrator, had handed him yesterday a list of new PWA developments calling for allotments of $50,000,000. But he said he had ordered the projects checked to determine the extent to which relief workers could be used.

PWA officials said they thought the new policy would delay the start of their program, although they had no estimate as to how long the checking process would require.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted, however, that he expected to begin approving projects within a week and that most of the PWA program should be under way this fall.

A. REYNOLDS JR. DENIES SUICIDE PACT WITH BRIDE

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—A banker's son, found unconscious last night with his socially prominent New York bride in their apartment, blamed a heavy overdose of sedatives, taken for the "jitters," after recovering sufficiently today to rush to his wife's bedside. He denied there was a suicide pact.

Released from Central Emergency hospital, Arthur Reynolds Jr. found his wife still unconscious at San Francisco hospital. She is the former Georgia Barmon, daughter of a wealthy New York family, who married Reynolds less than a month ago at Reno. Physicians said her condition was critical.

No Evidence of Suicide.

Police Inspector Harry Husted said he had found no evidence of suicidal intent, but that the Reynolds apartment indicated persons there had been using intoxicants liberally.

Inspector Jerry Desmond said he found in the unpretentious Reynolds apartment a pawn ticket showing the young man had received $25 on his watch a few days ago. The officer said there were notations on the pawn ticket indicating Reynolds had been looking for work.

Reno records showed the couple was married June 11. Young Reynolds said he was 32 and had been divorced from a previous wife in California in 1934. The bride gave her name as Georgia Livingston, age 35, and said she had been separated from her previous husband by a California divorce this year.

Tells of Mixing Doses.

Questioned after he came out of the coma which held him unconscious around the clock, Reynolds told questioners he and his wife had had the "jitters" and had been without sleep three weeks. He mixed the doses of the sedative, he said, making them stiff on the theory that in their condition a normal dose would have no effect.

Reynolds' father formerly was chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago and is now traveling in the orient with his wife. The elder Reynolds left Chicago in 1933 to become vice chairman of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association in San Francisco. Both Arthur Reynolds Sr. and his brother, George M. Reynolds, were leading Chicago bankers for many years.

LOOP PEDDLER HAS $47,000 IN BANK ACCOUNT

Arrested yesterday in the campaign to rid the loop of beggars, John Liston, 60 years old, 537 North Clark street, a legless peddler of pencils, amazed the police by revealing that he has $47,892 in two bank accounts.

"I got most of my money for the loss of my legs in a Missouri Pacific railroad accident many years ago," Liston said. "It costs me about $1 a day for meals and $1.50 a week for my shelter. I don't need many clothes and I have no relatives, and so I save the rest."

One of Liston's bank books shows that he has $44,377 in a savings account at the First National bank. The first entry, made in 1933, showed a deposit of $37,670, and the subsequent record of deposits showed that Liston had saved an average of about $100 a month. A savings pass book from the Drovers Trust and Savings bank shows a balance of $3,515. Liston had more than $100 in cash when he was arrested.

43 BOYS TO STOP HERE TOMORROW ON ALASKAN TRIP

Forty-three boys, beneficiaries of the unique vacation philanthropy of a Detroit coal dealer, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow on the first part of an 8,000 mile Alaskan trip.

The philanthropist is George E. Buchanan, who has started a movement which, he says, "carries itself—no one is asked to put money into it but the boys, the parents and myself." One-third of the trip's cost is advanced by parents, one-third must be earned by the boy himself and the remaining third is advanced by Mr. Buchanan as an "honor debt."

Innumerable ways of earning money have been found by the young voyagers. One 10 year old boy, who is blind, earned his required one-third by weaving baskets. Among the 43 are one boy from Colorado and another from Porto Rico. Any boy from the United States or Canada may enroll for the trip.

The boys will arrive from Detroit at 9:10 p. m., and will have three hours in Chicago before going on to Vancouver, where they board a steamer for Skagway, Alaska.

BELIEVE FORMER CRUISER CHICAGO HAS FOUNDERED

San Francisco, July 10.—(AP)—The former United States cruiser Chicago, decommissioned and renamed the Alton, was believed at the bottom of the Pacific today as its skeleton crew of 20, transferred in a turbulent sea to the Mericos H. Whittier, proceeded to San Francisco.

The Alton, being towed by the Mericos H. Whittier, an Associated oil company tanker, sprang a leak 700 miles southwest of here yesterday and had to be cut adrift, the chamber of commerce marine department reported.

Vessels were warned to keep a lookout for the Alton, which would be a menace to navigation if still afloat.

Built in Chester, Pa., in 1887, the Alton was used in the Spanish-American war.

HOLD MOTHER OF BABIES TIED UP IN AIRLESS ATTIC

Crowd Tense at Story of Infants' Thirst.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 10.—[Special.]—Aroused women spectators threatened and jeered a young mother arraigned in court today on charges of cruelty to her two baby sons. They were found virtual prisoners, one tied with a dog collar and both frantic from heat and thirst.

Magistrate Edward J. Holland had to warn a tense crowd to maintain order during the hearing. A cry of "killer" or "kill her" rang out in the crowded police courtroom as policemen told of the pitiful condition in which they found the babies.

But the demonstration had little effect on the object of the crowd's scorn. The mother, Mrs. Marion Shanks, a small blonde woman of 29, only smiled mirthlessly and remained silent when the magistrate asked for an explanation.

Held with Companion.

The magistrate held her and her companion, William Davis, 39, in $800 bail each for court hearing. Custody of her two children, John, 4, and Charles, 2, was placed with an agent for a children's society who testified that two other children of the woman were being cared for by others.

Sergt. Frank Harkins and Patrolman Herbert Walker told of forcing their way into the airless, top floor room where they found the imprisoned children after neighbors told of hearing their pitiful cries.

Both were in a crib, the policemen said. The older boy was held by a dog collar to which a rope was tied, the end of the leash being fastened near the floor.

Baby Cries for Water.

"As soon as I got in the room," Walker testified, "the older child cried: 'Water, water, gimme a drink.' I got some water before I set him free and both of the babies drank two cupfuls as quick as they could gulp it down.

"Conditions in the room were terrible. There was only one window and that was open a few inches and was covered with chicken wire. It was so hot you could hardly breathe in there."

The policemen said previous complaints had been made of the mother's treatment.

PLEA OF VICTIM'S WIDOW MAY AID THEATER SLAYER

An appeal by the widow of the victim may play a part in winning a new trial for Peter Chrisoulas, 39 years old, who faces death in the electric chair at a jury's recommendation for the murder of Irving Fehlberg, assistant manager of the Midwest theater, 3538 Archer avenue.

When Chrisoulas' attorney appeared yesterday before Judge E. I. Frankhauser in Criminal court to argue for a new trial he presented a request from Mrs. Lillian Fehlberg, 25 years old, that the death penalty be commuted to life imprisonment, saying it "would be a relief" to her. Judge Frankhauser announced he would rule on July 16.

Fehlberg was shot to death on March 14 while questioning Chrisoulas regarding the charge of a 12 year old girl that Chrisoulas had made improper advances to her when in the theater.

2 SERGEANTS DIE AND 1 IS BURNED IN BALLOON FIRE

Anadarko, Okla., July 10.—(AP)—Two army sergeants were burned to death and another was injured when an army balloon from Fort Sill crashed into a thicket near Cogar, Okla., and burst into flames late today.

Master Sergeant Ralph J. Rumple, 46, Milwaukee, Wis., was dead before farmers reached the blazing bag. Sergt. Douglass M. Tucker, 33, Fort Sill, died of burns shortly after he was brought to a hospital here.

Sergt. Joseph Murray, 31, was treated for shoulder and leg burns and was taken to a Fort Sill hospital.

WOMAN FLYER HAS A LUCKY ESCAPE IN 2D MISHAP IN WEEK

Indianapolis, Ind., July 10.—[Special.]—Jacqueline Cochran Odlum, well known aviatrix, who landed her ship in flames here a week ago, today had a second narrow escape from death when the same plane nosed over and ground looped as she was landing.

The 27 year old flyer escaped injury, although the motor was torn from the ship.

Mrs. Odlum asked to have the liner's departure delayed a few minutes while she got a traveling bag, thrown some distance from her ship, and gathered up her belongings. Then she boarded the TWA plane for the trip east.

Shortly before taking off the aviatrix had made formal announcement of her marriage six weeks ago to Floyd B. Odlum, president of an investment trust corporation in New York.

DRIVER HAS FEW SCOTCHES; GETS TEN DAYS IN JAIL

Ten days in the county jail was the sentence imposed on George Eklund, 44 years old, 1931 North Humboldt boulevard, by Judge Edward S. Scheffler, in Safety court yesterday. Eklund was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Sergt. William Hellman and Policeman J. H. Peterson of the park police testified that Eklund, driving erratically, passed a stop light at Sacramento and Washington boulevards early yesterday. They said Eklund admitted drinking "a few Scotch and sodas."

Judge J. M. Braude in Boys' court sentenced George Lorenz, 17 years old, 3237 West 55th street, to three days in the county jail on a charge of reckless driving, reducing Lorenz's penalty from a 30 day sentence entered May 6, on a motion to vacate. The charge was placed against the youth when his automobile struck another car driven by Howard Blume, 23 years old, 3432 West 62d street, at 63d street and Western avenue.

MRS. FREED STILL ELUDES CAPTURE IN POLICE SEARCH

Mrs. Carmelia Freed, sought as the suspected slayer of Audrye Vallette, near north side party girl, continued to elude police yesterday. Mrs. Freed has been in hiding since July 2 when Miss Vallette was shot to death in her apartment at 1211 North La Salle street. Police yesterday were examining records of all plastic surgeons throughout the city on information that the hunted woman may have had her features altered in the manner of the late John Dillinger to avoid capture.

Thomas A. Yawkey, wealthy owner of the Boston Red Sox baseball team, and his wife yesterday adopted an 8 weeks' old girl from the Cradle in Evanston.

Mrs. Yawkey, the former Elise Sparrow of Birmingham, Ala., appeared without her husband before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who signed adoption papers in which the child is referred to as Julia Austin Yawkey. She said that she had come to Chicago from her home in New York on three different occasions expressly to see the baby. She plans to take the child home early next week, she said.

Mrs. Yawkey was asked why she had chosen a girl. "I was afraid," she replied, "that Tom might make a ballplayer of a boy and trade him off."

Yawkey himself was adopted in 1917, when he was 12 years old, by William Hoover Yawkey, lumberman and former president and part owner of the Detroit Tigers, who died in 1919, leaving his foster son $3,400,000.

TELLS HUSBANDS AND WIVES TWIN BEDS ARE BEST

Husbands and wives should sleep in separate beds as a health measure, Nathaniel Kleitman, associate professor of physiology at the University of Chicago, declared yesterday in a public lecture in the Harper assembly room on the campus.

Two in a bed leaves too little room for the sleepers to toss about, he said, pointing out that the average sleeper changes position 20 or 30 times a night.

The ideal marriage, he said, is one in which a man and wife have simultaneous "peak efficiency periods," for then their sleeping hours coincide.

"Efficiency periods," Kleitman explained, "are the times when our minds function best. They are easily determined by means of a thermometer. Our bodily temperature is highest when we are most alert mentally."

HEAD-ON WRECK OF AUTOS KILLS BOY, INJURES 8

Chicagoans Crash Near Mundelein.

Robert Williams Jr., 5 years old, 4752 Magnolia avenue, was killed last night and eight other persons were injured, three seriously, when two automobiles collided headon in the Diamond lake-Half Day road east of state highway 54, three miles south of Mundelein.

The child was riding with his parents in an automobile driven by E. M. Tarpening, 2532 Van Buren street. Robert Williams Sr., 29 years old, was found to have suffered a fractured skull when taken to the Condell Memorial hospital in Libertyville. Williams' wife, Eunice, 29 years old, and Tarpening were less seriously hurt. Two other Williams children escaped injury.

Mother and Baby Hurt.

The five injured occupants of the other car were taken to the Wheeling Emergency hospital. They are Bon C. Mullinax, 26 years old; his wife, Maude, 26; their daughter, Bonnie, 22 months old, and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Phelps, all of 5745 Irving Park boulevard. The baby and Mrs. Mullinax were said to have been seriously hurt.

Sheriff Lawrence A. Doolittle of Lake county ordered a charge of manslaughter placed against Mullinax after witnesses said he had attempted to pass another car and crashed headon into the machine driven by Tarpening.

Car Kills Aged Woman.

Mrs. Margaret Banister, 90 years old, 5418 Schubert street, was struck and fatally injured yesterday at Diversey parkway and Linder avenue by an automobile driven by Vincent Chierico, 37 years old, 5646 Melrose street. Chierico said Mrs. Banister stepped into his course from behind tall weeds at the intersection and that he was unable to stop.

Joseph Trinko, 76 years old, 4723 Dickens avenue, died last evening in the Danish-American hospital from injuries suffered several hours earlier when he was struck by an automobile in front of 2100 North Cicero avenue. The driver, Ross Gerace, 46 years old, 5469 North Menard avenue, told Cragin police that Trinko walked into the side of his car.

Field Escapes Injury.

Joseph N. Field, 35 years old, 3300 Lake Shore drive, son of Stanley Field and director of purchases for Marshall Field & Co.'s wholesale division, escaped injury yesterday when the automobile he was driving was rammed in the rear at La Salle and West Oak streets by a car driven by Lynn Baker, 4069 Kenmore avenue. Mrs. Baker, a passenger in her husband's car, was slightly injured.

Mrs. Elsa Kochs Atherton, 23 years old, 1527 Dearborn parkway, was arraigned on charges of manslaughter and reckless driving yesterday before Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Automobile court for the death of Henry Herr, Glencoe chauffeur, who was killed in a crash with Mrs. Atherton's machine at Cicero and Peterson avenues on Wednesday. The case was continued to July 31 and Mrs. Atherton was placed under bond of $20,000.

The coroner's office reported 507 persons killed in trafic accidents in Cook county from Jan. 1 to 4 p. m. yesterday. Of these 393 were killed in the city. The number of injured within the city limits in the same period was 8,968.

MENTAL TEST ORDERED.

Judge Thomas A. Green in South State street court yesterday ordered a mental examination for Edward Rozskowski, 23 years old, 3123 North Linder avenue, who was rescued on Thursday after he leaped into the lake at the foot of Congress street.

PAINTED LADY UPSETS PEACE IN WILMETTE

A painted lady threatened for a while to disturb the peace in the Indian Hill Gardens subdivision in Wilmette. The trouble with the lady was [1] she was nude and [2] she was painted in realistic colors.

Her cheeks were rouged in brazen fashion, and there were touches of vermilion on appropriate portions of her bosom. She sat in a niche above the front door of the new modernistic home of Ernest Kuhn at 1910 Greenwood avenue. Mr. Kuhn is manager of the Tavern club.

Mr. Kuhn says the lady, representing the bowsprit of a ship, was carved from wood by Edgar Miller and was painted at the direction of Andrew Reborl, architect of the house. The figure is about three feet tall.

"When I saw how it was painted," said Mr. Kuhn, "I didn't like it. The neighbors didn't complain, but I just decided it would look better if it were all white."

A slightly different account of the matter was given by William Wolff, building commissioner of Wilmette. He said many complaints had been received from neighbors, and he went out and looked at the lady with Mr. Kuhn.

The upshot was that the lady was repainted—this time a chaste and chilly white. She looks out upon Greenwood avenue and recalls her lurid past. All the neighbors are happy, and so is Mr. Kuhn.

Mayor to Get Great Lakes Exposition Bid After All

Miss Suzanne Saunders of Toledo, O., "Miss Great Lakes," who tore up Mayor Kelly's invitation to the Great Lakes exposition in Cleveland here Thursday and went home because the mayor had been unable to grant her an interview the day before, wired an apology yesterday and said she wanted to bring him a new invitation.

LANDON AWAITS KNOX VISIT ON CAMPAIGN PLANS

Capper Backs Stand on Farm Program.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Topeka, Kas., July 10.—[Special.]—Gov. Alf M. Landon entered a period of comparative quiet today, with the special session of the legislature out of the way and no important conferences scheduled until next Wednesday, when Frank Knox, vice presidential candidate, is coming to Topeka to talk over campaign plans.

In the meantime, however, his fellow citizens of Topeka are getting busier every day in making plans for the great notification ceremony on July 23, when thousands of Republican notables and delegations from 50 cities are to meet here for the big parade and the Landon acceptance speech. The population of the city is expected to be doubled and arrangements are being made to care for the multitude. A platform is to be built over the south steps of the capitol to hold nearly 1,000 guests of honor.

Capper and Hope Comment.

As an aftermath of the conference on agriculture which Gov. Landon held yesterday with Frank O. Lowden and other farm experts, and in which Mr. Lowden made announcement of his complete accord with the Republican nominee on the farm program of the party, comment was made today of two other participants in the conference, Senator Arthur Capper and Clifford R. Hope, Kansas congressman and ranking member of the house agricultural committee.

Senator Capper, who is a candidate for reelection this year, spoke of Mr. Lowden as one who had grasped the significance of farm problems from the standpoint of the general welfare as early as 1920. He said that the McNary-Haugen bill, if it had been enacted in time, would have saved the country from a lot of grief.

"But there is no use in looking backward to mistakes," he added. "I do not believe that the McNary-Haugen bill is today's solution. Neither does Lowden, judging from what he told us yesterday in Topeka.

Lowden "Expects Election."

"It is my belief that Gov. Landon will be the next President of the United States. That is the belief also of Gov. Lowden. He said so while in Topeka. He knows that Gov. Landon is well qualified for the job. The country is fortunate in the prospect that Gov. Landon may sit in the White House and that he has the advice as well as the support of men like Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

"'The farm problem,' Gov. Lowden said, and I am quoting him now, 'is definitly national, definitly economic, definitly nonpartisan. I want this question out of politics.'

"I am glad to record that Gov. Lowden, like Gov. Landon, like myself, does not believe in opposing a worthwhile program just because it has been put into effect by a different political party than that to which we belong.

Still a Wide Difference.

"But there is a fundamental difference, at that, between the soil conservation program now in operation, through passage of the soil conservation and domestic allotment act by the resent session of congress and the Republican platform. I am in full accord with Lowden's statement on that matter. The present national administration did a great wrong in depriving the states and the farmers themselves of any control of the present farm program.

"Now, I would like to believe, with some very worthy people I know, that if we would just let the farmer alone he would work himself out of his difficulties. But most thinking people, including Gov. Lowden. Gov. Landon, and myself, know better than that.

"A workable soil conservation program will have to be a national program. It will have to include payments to owners of farm lands who retire part of that land from crops, who adopt approved conservation practices. And it will have to be a long time program, a permanent program.

States Must Have Control.

"The largest possible measure of control must be retained in the states and in the hands of the farmers themselves. But a degree of coördination and supervision will have to be retained in a central authority. Also, the program is going to require a certain amount of federal funds every year. Both agriculture and the nation may as well face these propositions."

Mr. Hope said in his statement:

"It was with some amazement that I read the newspaper accounts of the President's press conference this week on the drouth situation, in which he pointed with gratification to a 10 per cent increase in the wheat acreage and a corresponding increase in corn planting. The President gave the impression that these increases were right in line with the administration's program.

"This leads to the question: Just what is the administration's program? Last fall it asked the winter wheat producers to reduce their acreage 5 per cent. Many of them did so, but enough others increased their plantings to bring the acreage up nearly 6 per cent above the 1928-'33 base period. In applying the soil conservation act the administration avowed an intention to remove 30 million acres from corn, small grains and other commercial crops. But, according to the President, enough farmers disregarded the advice to result in a good sized increase in corn as well as wheat.

"All Part of Plan."

"Until the President spoke no intimation had come out of Washington that the administration had any other idea in mind than a reduction in these crops. Now that the drouth is threatening a scarcity of food and feed crops and it appears that the reduction program was a mistake, the President comes forward with the astounding inference that this increased planting was really a part of the administration's plan all along.

"A month ago the farmer who reduced his acreage was the one who was doing the right thing, according to the administration program. Today there are no kind words for that farmer but, instead, the ones who rejected the program are extolled by the President. One is led to wonder if it is now the President's idea that the farmer who increased his acreage is entitled to the payment of benefits rather than the farmer who reduced.

"It will hardly be safe, however, for farmers to count on this, for if the drouth should suddenly break the President no doubt would want to issue another statement to fit the change."

A. N. Fields, editorial writer of the Chicago Defender and former member of the state's attorneys staf in Cook county, and V. J. Washington, business manager of the paper, also called on Gov. Landon today. After their conference they made this statement:

"The election of Gov. Landon would be a step in the right direction, not only for the restoration of national prosperity, but a definite curb on the communistic influences which now are threatening the stability of the government."

HOUSING PROJECT IS OVERSUBSCRIBED BY TENANTS' FOUR TIMES

Atlanta, Ga., July 10.—(AP)—The trials of a landlord multiplied today for Uncle Sam with prospective tenants exceeding 4 to 1 the accommodations available in the nation's first PWA low cost housing project here.

While moving day approached, more than 2,000 heads of families—including two bankers—had applications on file for the 604 newly completed residence and apartment units in the $3,000,000 Techwood development.

From this number are being selected tenants whose income ranges from $1,200 to $1,800 a year. They will pay $7.39 a room, the cost including rent, electricity for lighting, cooking, washing, and refrigeration, and hot and cold water. The lowest monthly cost will be $23.47 for three room apartments, and the highest $38.10 for six room units.

WOMAN SLAYER IN HYSTERICS AS SHE NEARS CHAIR

Ossining, N. Y., July 10.—[Special.]—Faced with execution next Thursday night unless Gov. Lehman intervenes, Mrs. Frances Q. Creighton lies so ill in Sing Sing prison that she may be the first person to be carried to the electric chair in that prison. Her ailment has been diagnosed as "major hysteria, induced by fear of death."

There is an increasing belief among those familiar with her status that if, and when Gov. Lehman learns of her condition and the certainty she would have to be carried to the chair he will likely stay the execution for a few weeks, or possibly commute her sentence to life imprisonment.

Everett Appelgate, her alleged accomplice in the murder of his wife, Ada, in Baldwin, Long Island, and who is to die with her, is reported to be confident that if Mrs. Creighton gets a reprieve or a commutation he will receive the same treatment.

Susan B. Anthony to Be Honored with a Stamp

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The postoffice department announced today a stamp honoring Susan B. Anthony, pioneer leader of the woman suffrage movement, would be issued on Aug. 26. Farley said the stamp would be issued "in recognition of women's share in the development of this country and their social and economic responsibility in our national life."

Czech Industries Placed Under Army Rule by Law

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 10.—(AP)—Virtually all Czech industries were placed under state military control under a law made public today.

MURPHY BACK IN DETROIT TO HELP DEMOCRATS WIN

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—[Special.]—All the amenities having been observed, Frank Murphy came back to his home town today and got down to brass tacks about the proposition of helping the Democrats carry Michigan.

For months the former Detroit mayor, whose reward under the New Deal was the high commissionership of the Philippines, responded coyly, if at all, when it was suggested that he forget the post for a while to do yeoman duty in his home state.

Murphy arrived in Detroit today and made known his plans in a printed statement, handed out to newspaper men at the train.

It was a typical Murphy pronouncement, loaded with what is known locally as "Dewand sunshine," Murphy's private brand of "the more abundant life" which he was urging long before Roosevelt pushed "the more abundant life" on a national scale.

"If I should be nominated and elected," today's statement read in part, "it would be my aim to establish in this state those humane and enlightened social conditions envisioned by the New Deal."

IOWA KEYNOTER HITS DEMOCRAT RECORD IN STATE

Assails Tax Increases and Scandals.

Des Moines, Ia., July 10.—[Special.]—Three thousand Iowa Republicans in convention here today heard Keynoter Berry F. Halden lambast Democratic state and national administrations in a speech as blistering as the 100 degree temperature in which it was delivered.

"During the present administration—during those same three long years—there has been added to the direct property tax bill of this state more than 20 million dollars, with a 3 point tax bill tossed in for good measure," Halden said in attacking the Herring statehouse regime.

Cites State Scandals.

The keynoter struck at Democratic state scandals.

"We have seen our state paraded across the front pages of the nation as scandal after scandal was unfolded to public scrutiny," he said. "We have seen the highest law enforcement office in the state subjected to investigation and indictment, thereby weakening the dignity and authority of that office."

Platform Hits New Deal.

The convention adopted a platform condemning the "reckless, heedless, and undaunted extravagance of Democratic administrations, both state and national."

Convention enthusiasm reached its peak when Senator L. J. Dickinson, New Deal opponent who seeks reelection, told delegates the state would return to the Republican column next November in a campaign with "John Hamilton playing one end, Harrison Spangler the other, and Alf M. Landon carrying the ball."

The state platform of the party condemned "disclosures of graft and corruption in high places and deliberate flaunting of moral and social laws under the present state administration."

On agriculture the party's plank followed closely general lines of the national platform.

The convention demanded that control of relief administration be returned to local governing bodies, condemned "criminal waste of public funds by Washington burocrats," and rapped reciprocal trade treaties.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman's Condition Improving

Plattsburg, N. Y., July 10.—[Special.]—Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, noted clergyman, showed a slight improvement today, rallying to emergency treatments given on Thursday when attending physicians announced he "might not pass the night." After spending an unfavorable day Thursday, Dr. Cadman showed a slight change early this morning and, though he was delirious throughout today, attendants stated he was slightly stronger.

HEAD OF INDIANA BAR FIGHTS CURB UPON HIGH COURT

Holds Rights Safer in Judicial Hands.

Lake Wawasee, Ind., July 10.—[Special.]—The right of the Supreme court of the United States to determine constitutionality of laws enacted by congress was vigorously defended here today by Fred C. Gause of Indianapolis, president of the Indiana State Bar association.

Speaking at the fortieth annual meeting, Gause, former Indiana Supreme court justice, condemned any move that would curb power of the Supreme court or take away from it powers expressly granted by the constitution.

He added that lawyers, whose activities make them familiar with public questions, should be of patriotic service to the country now by taking the lead in impressing on the public generally the soundness of the American constitutional form of government and resisting all proposals to deprive the people of judicial safeguards written into the charter.

Safer in Judicial Hands.

"The constitutional guaranties, obviously, are safer in the hands of an independent judiciary than if left to the will of congress operating under pressure of political influence," he said.

"If the people desire that congress should have power to enact laws of a type which it does not now have, the only remedy is through amendment to the constitution. Regardless of whatever additional grants of power may be made to congress, the necessity always will exist for power in the court to uphold the constitution as the supreme law of the land against all usurpation of power and against all infringements of our constitutional guarantees."

Not only is the power of congress limited as granted by the constitution, he continued, but certain express limitations are provided in the first ten amendments, known as the bill of rights, which prohibits congress from doing certain things. As an example, he said, congress cannot pass a law respecting an establishment of religion or interfere with free speech or a free press.

All Grant Right to Court.

"Individual judges may differ in their opinion as to whether a particular act does or does not conflict with the constitution, but no judge, in more than a century, has ever denied that the court had the power to decide that question, or that such power was necessary.

"As to those critics who assert the court has made erroneous decisions, it might be said that if we assume such decisions have been made, that is no more argument in favor of taking away the court's power than that the power of congress should be taken away because it may have passed some unwise laws."

Townsend Virtually a Pauper, Audience Told

Denver, Colo., July 10.—(AP)—Dr. F. E. Townsend, by his admission, "is practically a pauper." Discussing his old age pension movement before an audience here, the Long Beach physician said: "After three years in this work and a lifetime of service to humanity, I possess at the present time about $200."

COUGHLIN SEES CERTAIN DEFEAT FOR ROOSEVELT

Priest Here to Open Fight for Lemke.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, who has indorsed the third party candidacy of Congressman William Lemke [Radical, N. D.] for President, declared in Chicago yesterday his belief that President Roosevelt will meet defeat in November. At the end of a three hour conference with about eighty district officers of his group at the Congress hotel Father Coughlin made some political forecasts.

"I am positive," he said, "that Mr. Roosevelt will not be reëlected. I have not got that from garages, filling stations, and grocery stores. I'm getting that from behind closed doors.

"Roosevelt to Lose N. Y."

"Congressman Lemke will carry Rhode Island, and in Massachusetts his chances are three to one. He will take Pennsylvania and Michigan. President Roosevelt won't take New York because of his forcing Gov. Lehman into the political picture. Lehman raised taxes in New York higher than federal taxes."

The radio priest declared that Roosevelt might have carried Michigan, but that he has lost that state because of his insistence that Frank Murphy, former mayor of Detroit, resign as high commissioner of the Philippine Islands and enter the Michigan governorship race. In Washington, the theory has been that Murphy through his personal popularity, would take votes away from the Coughlin camp.

"You can't be a dictator any more," said Coughlin. "Any one who tries to play the part of God stumbles before he reaches first base. He's whipped."

Holds Milwaukee Conference.

Father Coughlin left later for Milwaukee to hold a similar conference. He said about 4,000 units of 200 members each of his group are to be established in Illinois. On Aug. 14 to 16 the National Union for Social Justice is to hold its convention in Cleveland to indorse candidates.

"The national union," he said, "will not seek a place on the ballot, but it will support any candidate on the ballot who will support its principles. It will not support Roosevelt. He is ineligible. It will not support any Democratic candidate who supports Roosevelt. The same thing goes for Landon.

"Lemke is eligible for indorsement. I'm not saying the convention will indorse him, but I'd be disappointed if the delegates did not indorse him."

G. O. P. Headquarters Quiet.

At Republican national headquarters, most of the department chiefs were out of town at state conventions or elsewhere, and the day was not productive of much news.

Returning from Wisconsin, Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, assistant chairman of the Republican national committee, declared she found great enthusiasm among the women. "Several Democratic women volunteered their services to help elect Landon and Knox," she said. "The reason is that they are constitutional Democrats and are turning to us to save them from regimented government."

Ericsson Club Indorsement.

At a dinner at the Swedish club in honor of Gotthardt H. Dahlberg, president of the John Ericsson League of Illinois, the John Ericsson Republican Club of Cook county reaffirmed its allegiance to the Landon and Knox ticket and indorsed the state, county, and municipal party ticket.

ELECTION OF BROOKS AND DITCHBURNE HELD ESSENTIAL FOR G. O. P.

Election of Harry S. Ditchburne as state's attorney and Wayland Brooks as governor is essential to victory for the Republican national ticket in November, Roscoe Conkling Simmons, colored orator, declared yesterday at a luncheon of the Ditchburne campaign committee in the Hamilton club.

"My people," Simmons said, "are deeply concerned over the threat of dictatorship and the reality of centralized burocracy. Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas and Col. Knox of Chicago should be elected, but the strength of the national ticket depends on local effort."

Ditchburne spoke briefly, pledging himself to conduct the office of state's attorney as "a law office for all the people." He announced that he is arranging for a special train to take him and his associates to the Landon notification ceremonies in Topeka on July 23. The train will leave Chicago on July 22.

BROOKS APPEALS FOR PRESERVING OF CONSTITUTION

Greenwich, Conn., July 10.—[Special.]—Pleading for the preservation of the constitution and the American form of government, Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, made the principal address here tonight at a dinner and rally designed as the party's opening gun in the Connecticut campaign to swing the state to Gov. Alf M. Landon for the presidency.

"We find less democracy in the world today than there was during the world war," Brooks asserted. "We are struggling against unfortunate and uncertain times which cannot be settled with bayonets, swords, or guns, but only by the ballot.

"It was through the courage of the men and the strength of the women that our constitution was framed, and the powers were divided so that no one could dictate to us, and we became a government of free men. This same government has come on down through the years."

Denouncing attempts to increase centralization of government, Brooks declared that those in congress who seek to destroy the division of powers as provided in the constitution should be removed from office, adding that "this government will live, but it is up to you."

"You have turned to Kansas and Illinois for your nominees for President and Vice President of these United States, and I believe we can come back, if only we have that spirit of Americanism, that American liberty which cannot die."

Planes to Be Bought with $1,236,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—The scanty fifty word announcement of Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation a few days ago that $1,236,000 would be lent to American Airlines, Inc., turned out today to be another plum for E. L. Cord, manufacturer, promoter, and Roosevelt supporter.

Records of the airline company, which is dominated by Cord through his Aviation corporation, show that he had heavy losses in the last two years and that a loan from a private bank on the basis of his earning statements would have been impossible. So Cord went to the RFC as a friend of the New Deal and a loan was granted readily.

Equity Per Share Only $2.37.

During 1935 Cord's American Airlines, including subsidiaries, had a net loss of $748,370, or $2.69 on every share of the 277,755 of common stock outstanding. The equity per share dropped from $5.06 at the end of 1934 to $2.37 at the close of 1935.

The company's deficit was even greater in 1934. According to available records it lost $1,371,392, or $4.94 a share from May 13 to Dec. 31, 1934.

The $1,236,000 loan to the Cord company was the first and so far the only one of this nature made by the RFC. Secured by trust certificates the advance represents 60 per cent of the purchase price of eight Douglas fourteen passenger sleeper planes, twelve Douglas twenty-one passenger planes and ten spare Wright Cyclone engines.

Application Kept Secret.

Efforts were made to obtain access to Cord's application for the loan in order to determine on what basis, if any, the government would be repaid. This was denied flatly by Chairman Jones.

It was Cord, a chum of Postmaster General James A. Farley and Emil Hurja, Democratic party statistician, who stood to lose the least through cancellation of the air mail contracts in the winter of 1934 and the disaster that followed in the deaths of twelve army airmen who were carrying the mail.

When new contracts were awarded by the New Deal after the tragic fiasco, Cord's company changed in name from American Airways to American Airlines to meet requirements, obtained a coast to coast routing through the south and a stop at Washington for the first time.

Bids Low and Gets Raise.

After obtaining the contracts at a very low bid American Air Lines petitioned the interstate commerce commission for an increase in rates and got them. Another increase has been demanded and this time the RFC is expected to recommend that it be granted; that is, if it wants the loan repaid.

The loan and airmail contracts are not the only plums that have been shaken off the New Deal tree into the lap of Cord and his associates.

In the summer of 1933 it was announced that the group had obtained control of New York Shipbuilding corporation and Cord was elected chairman of the board. His old friends, L. B. Manning and R. S. Pruitt, who had played with him in the ups and downs of Auburn Automobile stock, also were named on the board.

Building Seven Ships.

On the following day, Aug. 3, 1933, naval contracts were announced by the government. New York Shipbuilding received two light cruisers at an awarded price of $11,677,000 each and four destroyers at $3,775,000 each. In 1934 the company received the contract for another light cruiser to be built for $11,975,000.

Cord corporation owns about 46,000 of the 175,000 founders' shares of New York Shipbuilding and has voting control. Profits in stock deals never have been disclosed.

Testimony before the senate munitions committee last year disclosed other New Deal tieups with New York Shipbuilding. Emil Hurja once worked as statistician for Ben C. Smith, who holds an interest in the corporation.

Information in Advance.

Testimony taken subsequently was to the effect that Lawrence R. Wilder, former president of the corporation, knew what the low bids on the 1933 naval contracts were ten days in advance. Wilder later denied the charge.

Witnesses also declared that Senator A. Harry Moore [Dem., N. J.] had intervened with President Roosevelt and Farley to stop a federal loan to a shipyard at Pensacola, Fla., which might compete with New York Shipbuilding.

Shortly before the naval contracts were announced the corporation hired the law firm of Coldwater & Flynn at $15,000 a year. Edward J. Flynn, a member of the firm, is a close political ally of Farley.

FORM WEST SIDE UNIT FOR BETTER TRANSPORTATION

Representatives of twenty-five west side civic organizations yesterday formed the West Side League for Improved Transportation. The league will prepare a celebration in September when the surface lines are expected to place in operation 83 new streamlined cars on the Madison street line. According to William F. Devlin, who was named secretary, the league also will work for additional transportation improvements for the west side. William M. Druley, chairman of the board of the Madison-Crawford National bank, was elected president. Devlin is executive secretary of the West Town Chamber of Commerce.

RUTH OWEN WEDS TODAY; TO KEEP DIPLOMATIC JOB

Roosevelt Supper to Follow Ceremony.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, the American minister to Denmark, and Kammerjunker Kaptjan Boerge Rohde of the Danish king's life guards, will be married at 5 p. m. tomorrow at St. James' Episcopal church at Hyde Park, N. Y., in the presence of President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The President is senior warden of the church. After the ceremony the wedding party will be the Roosevelts' guests for supper.

Fannie Hurst, the novelist, will attend Mrs. Owen as matron of honor and Robert Lehman, Mrs. Owen's son-in-law, will be best man. Mrs. Lehman, daughter of Mrs. Owen, was still ill in bed today. It was not believed that her physical condition would permit her attendance at the wedding.

Will Retain Diplomatic Post.

Notes for the announcement were on a small shorthand notebook from which it was read by the butler at the Lehman home at Sands Point, L. I., where Mrs. Owen and her fiance are staying.

"Mrs. Owen has announced that she will continue her service as American minister to Denmark and will continue to use the name 'Ruth Bryan Owen' in her official and literary work," the announcement said.

Mrs. Owen herself confirmed the statement today.

"I shall resume my post, definitly, on my return to Denmark," she said.

Her Third Marriage.

President Roosevelt is to be in New York tomorrow to be the principal speaker at the opening of the Triborough bridge before proceeding to Hyde Park for the wedding ceremony.

Capt. Rohde arrived yesterday from Denmark aboard the liner Drottningholm.

Mrs. Owen, who is 50 and has been married twice before, went out to meet the tall, handsome Danish officer, who is 42, at quarantine in the private cruiser of her son-in-law, after which the couple went to the Lehman estate at Sands Point. Robert Lehman, son-in-law of Mrs. Owen, is a cousin of Gov. Lehman.

Hostess Slaying Figure Faces Robbery Charge

Edward Lynch, ex-convict from the Colorado state prison, waived extradition yesterday and agreed to return to Denver to face a charge of complicity in the robbery of a jeweler there last September. He was apprehended here and held for several days by Chicago police in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Florence Thompson Bolin Castle, night club hostess who was beaten to death in her hotel room on June 29. The police were unable to link him with the crime.

BARS BLOCK VIEW AS A COP'S WIFE LOOKS AT LOVE

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bauler, 35 years old, wife of Policeman Frank Bauler of the Central station, still was ruminating on her problems in the woman's quarters of the station late yesterday, nursing a hangover incurred the previous night. In the early hours of the morning her husband had taken her and Ralph Rockenbach, 38 years old, 423 Center street, a milkman off duty, to the station where they were locked up.

"Was I mad! Was I burned up!" Policeman Bauler, who is 40 years old and resides at 1542 Cleveland avenue, said tremulously as, clad in purple silk pajamas, red silk robe, and sandals, he pulled his wife and Rockenbach into the station. Bauler is a brother of Ald. Mathias [Paddy] Bauler of the 43d ward.

Sits Up for Wife.

After completing his tour of duty at midnight Thursday, Policeman Bauler explained, he went home, exhausted and hot, and finding his wife out he attired himself in his pajamas and robe and sat on his front porch to get a breath of air and wait for her. Soon a cab pulled up a few doors away. When no one emerged he went to the cab and looked in.

About a split second after that Policeman Bauler yanked out the man within and knocked him into the gutter, he said. "Then I pulled a woman out," he said. "It was my wife. I asked her what this meant. She just looks at me and yawns and turns to the guy and says, 'This is my man; you're just a copper'."

She's Not Talking.

The policeman then climbed into the cab and directed the driver to take the three of them to the station. Bleary eyed, her coiffure a little informal, Mrs. Bauler, who was locked up under the name of Elizabeth La Belle, said from her cell on awakening:

"My husband is a copper and I'm in the can. Ain't it awful? But I'm not talking. Give me a cigaret."

When Policeman Bauler reported for duty late yesterday afternoon he conferred with Capt. George O'Connor, then announced that he would book his wife and Rockenbach on charges of disorderly conduct and that they would appear in the Women's court this morning. Rockenbach was released in $25 bond. Mrs. Bauler remained in custody.

Just a Friend in Need.

Rockenbach's story was that he never had seen the woman before he met her in a tavern at Menomonee street and North Park avenue Thursday night.

"She had been drinking and when she fell off her stool I picked her up," Rockenbach said. "She was sick and I got her some medicine. I felt sorry for her and offered to take her home in a cab, and she consented, giving the driver her address. I didn't even know her name.

"When we got to the house this policeman rushed up and said we were under arrest. He drove us to Hudson avenue station and they wouldn't keep us there, so he had the driver go to Central station. On the way he hit me in the lip, and when we got out he beat up his wife. He also said he'd been wanting a divorce and now he would get it."

Rockenbach, in a tone of injury, continued: "I'm single. Thank God for that. This shows how dangerous it is to try to help some one."

Half Dead from Hurts, He's Executed.

Raleigh, N. C., July 10.—[Special.]—A colored murderer who tried to commit suicide by a spectacular 20 foot plunge at state's prison a few hours before his scheduled electrocution today was carried into the death chamber and put to death regardless of his injuries.

The condemned man, Henry Grier, 43, who slew a colored woman, broke his wrists and incurred other injuries in his unexpected leap from a third tier of cells to a concrete floor of the penitentiary.

His arms were in splints and his lacerated lips covered with tape when he was carried into the death chamber by five men. His eyes were closed except once when he appeared to be taking a last look at his surroundings. He was pronounced dead six minutes after the switch was thrown.

Action Is Unexpected.

Grier gave no indication that he planned a suicide attempt to escape the death chair. He was telling his cell companions farewell, having asked for the usual privilege of shaking hands with other inmates of death row, when he suddenly tore away from his keeper and leaped over a rail.

The electrocution was postponed two hours, during which time the condemned man was examined to ascertain if he was conscious. Warden H. H. Honeycutt said it appeared to him that Grier was trying to simulate unconsciousness. Prison Physician G. S. Coleman said the man was at least partially conscious.

Killed by Firing Squad.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 10.—[Special.]—Delbert Green, 28, was rushed to a chair at the state penitentiary today and executed by a firing squad after a six year fight to escape the death penalty for slaying his wife, her mother, and her foster father.

Other prisoners demonstrated, as Warden R. E. Davis expected they would, when the gunfire echoed inside the prison walls. Shouts and moans rang through the cell blocks and prisoners beat and kicked on their bars, but prison authorities kept the situation under control.

Dies in Gas Chamber.

Florence, Ariz., July 10.—[Special.]—Calmly smoking a cigar, Frank Rascon, 26 year old cowboy, died in the lethal gas chamber at the Arizona prison today for the murder of a fellow ranch worker. He contended to the last that his father committed the murder.

Three Go to Chair.

Huntsville, Tex., July 10.—[Special.]—Three men died in the electric chair at the Texas state prison today for murders of which they were convicted. Grady Warren, a white man, who was the first to enter the death chamber, persisted to the last that he was innocent of a slaying in a holdup at Tyler, Tex.

Two colored brothers, Mack and Oscar Brown, who blamed each other for the murder of a man at Edna, Tex., maintained the silence toward each other that had existed since they entered the prison.

Wife Slayer Hanged.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Irwin B. Ottey, convicted of slaying his wife during a quarrel, was hanged at San Quentin prison today. Mrs. Ottey was killed at Monterey, Cal., on Oct. 23, 1934.

Gov. C. Ben Ross to Seek Borah's Seat in Senate

Boise, Idaho, July 10.—(AP)—Gov. C. Ben Ross, three times Idaho chief executive, formally became a candidate for the Democratic nomination for William E. Borah's senate seat today when his nominating petitions were filed at the office of secretary of state. Borah has been in the senate since 1907.

Moving Forward

YOUTH
by CALEB

NOW that times are better it can be told. Now that sunny happy summer is here is a good time to tell it.

In the dead of winter several years ago, the mother of two grown children sat in the small apartment which had replaced the palatial home her husband had lost, and read aloud to several friends a letter from her daughter.

"Your generation and dad's has certainly made a mess of the world. Here at the university those of us who have the courage to look into the future at all, see nothing but uncertainty and threatened further disaster. You have lost everything you had, but at least you have your memories—memories of affluence and good times and prosperity. What have we? Nothing but the future. And a future which your generation has already ruined for us."

The mother had sacrificed a great deal in favor of college for the daughter. But we never saw her in any but a smiling, courageous mood.

The depression licked many individuals. But it made a great many more grow. In our own experience we have contacted a great many people past middle age who, although they were at first stunned and made numb by their losses, finished out the depression with clearer minds and eyes and higher chins than they had in 1929.

Many men who had reverence for little except their own capacity to wrest wealth from the world, today have some reverence for things surpassing the individual. Many have an altogether new zest for the outdoors (beyond the borders of a golf course), for singing birds and the smell of good black earth, for the opinions of other people, and for the human stuff which smiles at buffetings as well as at profits.

Generally, the way white hairs have stood up to punishment in the past years should be a great inspiration to the younger generation, which—there is no gainsaying—has had its own stern rap.

The world is still so young! So little progress has been made in the direction of the final good that can be hoped for! There is still so much to do that in the next thirty years it will look as though we had been standing still the past thirty.

We wonder if the girl who wrote the quoted plaintive missive would write it today. If youth were to face only the dark side of the picture and fail to see at the same time the great bright beckoning sun of the future just over its shoulder, it would hardly be a credit to this great nation and the generations of youth which have grown old in its making.

PROBE 'BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH' FOR TAX FRAUDS

Report 'Strange Things' on Income Books.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Agents of the United States treasury intelligence unit, who have been investigating the "greatest show on earth" for several months, have come up with evidence of what they believe to be one of the greatest income tax frauds on earth.

Attachés and agents of the old Ringling brothers partnership—which now has been succeeded by Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Combined Shows, Inc.—have succeeded in evading taxes since the income tax law became effective in 1913 that are expected to amount, with interest, to more than $3,000,000, it was reliably reported today.

Of all the freaks that Ringling Brothers has shown to its expectant public, none, according to the case being built against the Ringling staf, compares with the circus accountants' marvelous, breath taking, stupendous, mammoth, unprecedented, overwhelming, glittering collection of imaginary animals which never existed, but which were voracious consumers of potential income taxes.

Fake Purchases Charged.

These animals with the queer diet, it is charged, were entered in the circus inventory with their theoretical cost, as well as their theoretical cost of upkeep, deducted from income as operating expense.

In one year nearly $500,000 in animals and equipment which didn't exist were found on the books, entered as purchases, it was understood.

The accountants also dealt heavily, the investigators charge, in the never-never land of departed spectacles. Nothing, of course, is deader than a circus spectacle of past seasons.

But between 1918 and 1925, the agents found, about $2,000,000 in spectacles which hadn't brought an "ah-h-h-h" from an audience since before 1915 were charged off to depreciation and thus deducted from taxable income.

A Ghost Circus, Too.

And then there was the ghost circus. Back in 1905 the Ringling Brothers, always fond of mergers to permit a few additional adjectives on the billboards, acquired a half interest in the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Enormous Shows. James A. Bailey owned the other half. The next year the Ringlings bought his interest.

In the fall of 1911 the Forepaugh and Sells shows were scrapped. Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Enormous United Shows, however, still lived on the books of Ringling Brothers.

According to treasury experts, this inventory was still being carried on the books to reduce income taxes when there wasn't a single tangible piece of property, alive or dead, belonging to the Enormous United shows.

The investigation has covered most of the country, with highlights in New York, Florida, Chicago, Los Angeles, and Washington.

ROBINSON FILES SUIT FOR MILLION IN CIRCUS DEAL

South Bend, Ind., July 10.—[Special.]—Suit to collect a million dollars in damages for the loss of a circus was on file today in United States District court here in behalf of John G. Robinson IV. of Cincinnati, O. The plaintif claims that the name and property of "John Robinson's ten big shows combined" were sold in violation of a previous contract. The suit is filed against the estates of Jeremiah J. Mugivan and Bert Bowers, who lived in Peru, Ind. The plaintif says the circus, founded a hundred years ago by his great-grandfather, John F. Robinson, was sold to Mugivan and Bowers in 1916 for $40,000 on condition that members of the Robinson family be given first option to repurchase the circus in event of further sale.

He states he attempted to repurchase the circus in 1934 and found it had been disposed of to other interests.

Overrule Judge's Order for Marks to Pay $6,500

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday overruled an order by Federal Judge Barnes directing J. L. Marks, former head of a brokerage house who is now under a two year penitentiary sentence for use of the mails to defraud, to turn over $6,500 to the trustee in bankruptcy for his defunct company. The appellate court held there was not enough evidence to prove Marks had the money on Sept. 2, 1933, the day of filing of the bankruptcy petition.

Aldous Huxley Pens Book to Please Critical

New Translation Provides Something Different.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Eyeless in Gaza," by Aldous Huxley. [Harper, $2.50.] Published on Thursday.

"Carry-Over," by Ruth Suckow. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.] Published on Monday.

"The Old Man's Coming," by Gosta Gustaf-Janson. [Knopf, $2.75.] Published last week.

WHEN H. G. Wells wrote his autobiography and made it the life story of his mind instead of the record of his actions dressed up in mental reactions he stated in exact terms not only the modern intelligent man's reaction to modern life, but he crystallized the modern intelligent reader's reaction to modern writing.

It is not enough nowadays for intelligent readers to be told that a man thinks—and then be left to guess what he thinks from the way he acts. Readers who want more than amusement, who want to find mental stimulation in the books they read, want to watch the minds of intelligent men at their mental processes.

James Joyce satisfied readers' eagerness in one fictional form—the long, unregimented stream-of-consciousness style. George Santayana, a great philosopher turned fictionist, satisfied it in another fashion in "The Last Puritan," with a highly regimented record of an essentially self-castigated mind seeking knowledge.

Aldous Huxley again has satisfied the ultraintelligent reader's almost scientific curiosity about the mental processes of his fellow men with "Eyeless in Gaza." It lacks the regimentation [both technical and subjective] of Mr. Santayana's great novel. It lacks the apparent formlessness and unregimented flow of the consciousness of Mr. Joyce's hero. Its form is an apparently haphazard one in which the action, the recorded thought of Aug. 30, 1933, is followed speedily by the events and mental reactions of Nov. 16, 1902 . . . and so, throughout the book. It is the record [arrived at in 473 pages of brilliant writing] of the childhood, youth, and manhood of Anthony Beavis, timid as a child, motherless, spiritually fatherless, shy as a public schoolboy, torn at Oxford between the Fabians and a group of aristocratic roisterers, economically able to live simply the life he chooses, a sociologist and finally a pacifist willing to face without resistance the bellicose enemies of his ideas.

Only little by little does the character of Anthony emerge from the constantly juggled pages, the pattern is confusing. However, in a philosophical novel as full of rich mental fare as "Eyeless in Gaza" the form doesn't really matter, the content is of such stimulating importance. Probably Mr. Huxley purposely chose to break up the sequence of events and of thought to make his point of man's eternal groping after a definition of life, of human relationships.

"Eyeless in Gaza" is not an easy book to read. It is as intricate philosophically as though written by a professorial philosopher, and it is embellished with knowledge and observation, with not only the skilled cynical observation of the early Aldous Huxley but with a scientific eagerness about countless subjects that seldom catch the eyes of authors or even philosophers.

Woman Writer Supplies Contrast.

Ruth Suckow is almost at the other pole from Aldous Huxley, fictionally. She writes with complete simplicity, candor, and of simple, candid, non-introspective men and women of Iowa farms or small towns. There is no brilliance in her work in the sense of Aldous Huxley's brilliance. Her brilliance lies in honestly recording her characters psychologically and physically. Perhaps because most of her characters are essentially dull, her novels and short stories seem dull to a good many readers. But they have, at heart, a deep reality. This week an omnibus of her work has been published under the title "Carry-Over." The book contains in toto two of her novels earlier than her more popular "The Folks," "The Bonney Family," and "Country People," and sixteen short stories which have won for Miss Suckow the most envious critical acclaim.

Carmer Tries Hand on New York State.

Carl Carmer, a northerner, lived in the south for seven years and wrote "Stars Fell on Alabama" with exciting success.

Carl Carmer returned to his native state, New York, with the same seeing eye and listening ear that he employed in Alabama. "Listen for a Lonesome Drum" is the literary result of that return. With lower New York he doesn't bother himself at all. Only with the upper "York State" . . . briefly with its cities, Rochester and Buffalo, but mostly with its country life, with the folk tales and customs of the hills folk, of the hilly strip across the entire state which he calls "a broad psychic highway," where strange things have happened, where passionate cults have arisen.

Mr. Carmer tells in detail of the early days of the Shakers, the Millerites, the Harrissites, the Jemimakins, the Oneida Community, Joseph Smith and his Latter Day Saints, and the American Spiritualists who listened to the two little Foxe sisters give their revelations.

Mr. Carmer might well write eventually a book about every state in the Union, he has such a gift for reading the palms and minds of the nation's byways. "Listen for a Lonesome Drum" is illustrated by Cyrus Le Roy Baldridge.

A Translation from the Swedish.

"The Old Man's Coming" greets us in translation from the Swedish of Gosta Gustaf-Janson and is called by its American publisher "the outstand Swedish novel of recent years." Why most translations from the Swedish sound utterly foreign is a question I would like to have settled for me by some authority. There are countless translations, for instance, from the Russian which do not seem alien at all.

"The Old Man's Coming" seems completely remote. It has at the same time the unnaturalness and the charm of the foreign.

The "Old Man" of the title has been away for twenty years when the book opens. He has left on his estate a former mistress. With her are her eldest daughter, her son, and a child whom she has obstensibly adopted but who is also her daughter. Money has been scarce; but their standards of living have been only slightly curtailed. To meet expenses, a few of the art treasures have been sold.

"The old man" is called a "gravedigger" by the neighborhood [he was an archeologist] and children are brought up to be in terror of him. When word arrives that he is coming home there is horrified consternation.

His former mistress dreads the reckoning, his partner is terrified that his chicaneries will be discovered, his sister, who has hated him from childhood, still fears him passionately, his son is shocked by the knowledge of his parentage, and the old servants are fearful of being brought to reckoning.

When the old man arrives and wants nothing but forgiveness from any one, tension snaps a little grotesquely. And the actual ending is as weak as a wet firecracker. However, the Swedish country home life is engagingly portrayed and the book has the charm of the unusual.

'Talking Books' Held Likely to Bring Problem

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Geoffrey Faber, who is a publisher as well as the author of at least one outstanding book, "Oxford Apostles" [published by his own firm], has been telling his fellow publishers that in a not too distant future books will probably be published in such a form that they will be listened to, and not read with the eye.

In that case a number of English authors, who speak very indistinctly, will have to persuade other men and women to undertake the recording. Otherwise our literary prizes will go, not, as at present, to the best written books of the year, but to the books which are most attractively declaimed. This would make a serious difference.

I can imagine authors in the future blaming recorders for the failure of their works, instead of publishers and booksellers.

And from the point of view of readers there is another objection, which is that under such conditions one would be quite unable to skip the more tiresome passages, unless one's listening machine were fitted with a skipping device.

This reminds me that the "Femina"—"Vie Heureuse" prize—has just been given to L. H. Myers, for an extraordinarily long novel, "The Root and the Flower"* [Cape]. Now Mr. Myers has long enjoyed a peculiarly unpopular reputation with readers who relish psychological fiction. He is not quite for lowbrows, and he is not quite an idol with the more barren highbrows."

Mysteries of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

Whether or not "Strange Houses," by Cora Jarrett [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50], could be called a mystery story, it is so deeply mysterious in all its ideas and implications that it bewilders and mystifies as no mere story of obscure murder can. Certainly it is a tale of a crime, so dark, so unusual, that the reader comes unwillingly to accept its possibility. How much to tell of so startling a thesis is a baffling question, but the author's strange story of shifted souls is as arresting as it is absorbing. If you like to explore the darker regions of the mind, pry into strange psychological possibilities, this is the very book you are looking for.

For a good practical crime turn to "Death at Breakfast," by John Rhode [Dodd-Mead, $2]. It's a fine, skilful handling of a neat mystery which is unraveled under Dr. Priestley's persuasive but ironic coaching. Dr. Priestley now has acquired a wide-awake assistant, Jimmy Waghorn, who has an eye for the more involved details.

One of those substantial volumes has just been published by Dodd-Mead [$1.95], containing three stories by Agatha Christie, "The Murder of Roger Ackroyd," "Murder in the Calais Coach" and "Thirteen at Table," in all of which her fussy little French detective, Hercule Poirot, figures. These are the best of Mrs. Christie's stories.

Wiggam Name Real.

When asked about its name, Lionel Wiggam, author of "Landscape with Figures" [Viking, $1.75], denied that it was "phoney." His mother [who never wanted him to be a poet] gave it to him after seeing Lionel Barrymore act.

EUROPE STRIVES TO LURE ITALIANS BACK INTO FOLD

Rome and Berlin Alliance Off, Paris Hears.

PARIS, July 10.—(AP)—Diplomatic sources tonight said the French government has received direct assurances Italy will return to the European fold by joining the Locarno conference at Brussels next week.

Usually well informed persons asserted they now considered a common European front between Italy and Germany unlikely. Officials indicated they expected Premier Mussolini to send a delegate to the Locarno conference before Germany is invited to join in later phases of the talks.

French observers interpreted France's abandonment of its Mediterranean mutual assistance agreement with Great Britain as a further step toward easing the European tension. It followed, they said, Britain's announced intention to withdraw its home and oriental fleets from the Mediterranean and hints that Italy may reduce its forces in Libya.

French Move Pleases Berlin.

BERLIN, July 10.—(AP)—The German foreign office had hearty applause tonight for the French decision to withdraw from the Franco-British mutual assistance agreement directed at Italy. Through its mouthpiece, the Diplomatische Politische Korrespondenz, the foreign office suggested the same "common sense" attitude be adopted toward mutual assistance pacts aimed at Germany.

British Destroyers Depart.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, July 10.—(AP)—A destroyer flotilla of the British navy, one of the fleet units stationed in the Mediterranean since the height of the Italo-Ethiopian war, steamed for home today.

It was the first unit to depart following the British government's announcement of yesterday that the fleet in the Mediterranean was to be reduced. Other units stationed here are expected to leave during the next seven days. Egyptian nationalists hailed the departure with joy.

ITALY BANS USE OF U. S. RADIO IN ADDIS ABABA

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Use of the United States navy short wave wireless equipment at the American legation in Addis Ababa for outgoing messages has been banned for fifteen days by the Italian authorities, Secretary of State Hull announced today. The same ban has been placed on use of similar equipment by the British, French, and German legations.

The action was taken yesterday after guerrilla operations had been resumed by Ethiopian forces with the ambushing and killing of Italian aviators and the cutting of the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway line near the Ethiopian capital.

As a result of representations by Cornelius Van H. Engert, the United States minister, the American legation was permitted to receive incoming messages. Efforts are being made through diplomatic channels to have full service restored so that the legation can send messages to Washington without being compelled to file despatches over the Italian commercial system. The short wave set is manned by four naval operators.

FIND JAP CIVILIAN SHOT TO DEATH IN SHANGHAI AREA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 10.—A few hours after the Chinese first district court today completed hearings on the murder here last Nov. 9 of Hideo Nakayama, Japanese petty naval officer, a Japanese civilian, Kosaku Kayau, was found shot dead. The assailant wore Chinese clothes.

A Japanese naval landing party of 100 armed bluejackets, following the precedent established in the Nakayama case, ringed the area near the murder scene—and six truck loads of Japanese patroled nearby streets of the Hongkew section of the International settlement.

Arata Sugihara, acting Japanese consul general, warned Gen. Tsai Ching-chun, director of Chinese public safety, to "leave no stone unturned to find the murderer and take immediate steps to protect Japanese residing in Chinese territory." The new incident is expected further to jeopardize tense Sino-Japanese relations.

The judge announced that a decision on the Nakayama case, in which a Chinese named Yih Hsi-sen is accused, will be given July 17.

JEW AND 4 ARABS DIE IN PALESTINE BUS AMBUSCADE

JERUSALEM, July 10.—(AP)—One Jew and four Arabs were killed today in the ambuscade of a bus convoy and an ensuing fight between troops and snipers in the hills.

The bus was attacked midway between Jenin and Nablus. Motorized troops, summoned by wireless, engaged the Arab attackers in an hour's duel, finally killing four and capturing a fifth. A quantity of ammunition, rifles and daggers was seized. When the convoy proceeded on its way, it again was fired upon near Anebta, but there were no additional casualities.

In the first ambuscade two British soldiers and two civilians were wounded, in addition to the Jewish passenger who was killed when the truck on which he had climbed for shelter overturned.

HITLER SEEKS TO IMPRESS PEACE DESIRE ON WORLD

Calls Conference of Foreign Office Chiefs.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 10.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today called Baron Konstantin von Neurath, his foreign minister; Joachim von Ribbentrop, his special envoy on foreign affairs, and Franz von Papen, minister to Austria, to a conference in his country mansion at Obersalzburg in the Bavarian Alps.

The Fuehrer, it is reported, is seeking a way to impress foreign powers with the sincerity of his desire for peace, and some of his advisers are urging him to arrange new political peace demonstrations on the eve of the Olympic games, when Germany hopes to be an important center of world news.

Reply Held Up.

Von Neurath is appealing to Hitler to reply to the British questionnaire about his peace proposals. The reply is said to be ready but held up because of the influence of old Nazi party diehards who at the party caucus at Weimar last week-end begged the Fuehrer to ignore the "impertinent" British questions.

Von Papen has been negotiating feverishly for a trade agreement with Austria. It involves an exchange of Austrian cattle and wood for German chemicals. Von Papen and his friends say it is just a step from an economic agreement to a political one. The Austrians, however, demand such strong guarantees against Nazi intervention in Austria that the Fuehrer is loath to grant them.

Couriers continue to pour into Berlin from Danzig. They report the "annihilation of opposition groups through the prohibition of their press, which scared opposition leaders to such an extent that many withdrew and some fled to Poland."

Polish Envoy Calls.

The Polish ambassador to Berlin, Josef Lipske, called at the foreign office today and hinted that Polish negotiations with the Free City of Danzig would be easier if Dr. Arthur Karl Greiser, president of the Danzig senate, were recalled by the Nazis and replaced by a man who is not so seriously compromised in league of nations circles and England as Greiser is after his nose thumbing and similar anti-league performances at a recent Geneva session.

Meanwhile Premier Mussolini's Count Volpi, "economic organizer," has arrived in Berlin and is being royally entertained by Germany's economic dictator, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht. Volpi, after conferring with German industrialists, will meet Hitler in Berlin or Bavaria. It is understood he is empowered by Il Duce to talk with Hitler about Austria, the main bone of contention between the Italian and German dictators.

DUBLIN, July 10.— (AP) —Alfred [Alfie] Byrne today was elected lord mayor of Dublin for the seventh time.

Expect Former King

CANNES, France, July 10.—(AP)—A villa was made ready today for summer occupancy of the prince and princess of the Austrias while they await the birth of a child expected about mid-August. Prince Juan, heir presumptive to the Spanish throne, and his wife, the Princess Maria Mercedes of Bourbon-Sicily, Italy, meanwhile are stopping at a hotel.

Former King Alfonso is expected to come for the event with the likelihood his estranged wife, the former Queen Victoria, may be somewhere on the Riviera, friends of the family said, but it was doubted they would meet.

Prince Juan is the third son of Alfonso. His oldest brother, the count of Covadonga, renounced his rights to the throne in 1933 shortly before he married a Cuban commoner, Edelmira Ignacia Adriana Sampedro Y Robato, at Lausanne. He has filed suit for an annulment in New York. Prince Jaime, the second son, also renounced his royal rights in 1933.

CZECHS UNCOVER HITLER TERROR RING; 3 JAILED

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

PRAGUE, July 10.—The arrest of three Germans on the frontier near Erzgebirge on suspicion of espionage led to the discovery of a widespread Nazi terrorist organization in Czechoslovakia.

The police said the arrested men had in their possession large sums of money which they admitted were intended for propaganda, political corruption, and false passports.

One of them had a recipe for a composition of explosives. The police said they ascertained the man had instructions to organize the destruction of bridges, roads, and munition works in the event of war. The police said the Germans' particular job apparently was to organize terrorist groups which would cut connections between Bohemia and Slovakia so as to prevent the possibility of Russian troops coming from the east to assist in the protection of Czechoslovakia's frontier with Germany in case of war.

Tells of Terror Among Jews in Section of London

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—"Real terror" among the Jewish population east of Aldgate in London as the result of Fascist anti-Semitic violence was described to the house of commons today by the Laborite George Lansbury. He said Fascists were persistently insulting Jewish traders and inciting others to attack them.

FRANCE INVITES ALLIES TO TRADE SECRETS OF WAR

Admits Sending Plans of New Gun to Russia.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 10.—France is ready to trade military secrets with any country adhering to a collective security pact of which she is a signatory, Pierre Cot, air minister, announced in the chamber of deputies today.

Cot's statement was made in answering an interpellation by Henri de Kerillis, a nationalist deputy, over a communication by the French government to soviet Russia on a new type of 23 millimeter airplane gun, together with blueprints.

The chamber, after a lively debate, turned down Kerillis' demand for investigation of the government's action and approved the policy of swapping military secrets with friendly governments by a vote of 403 to 162.

Admits Signing Order.

Cot admitted he had signed an order turning over the blueprints and a sample of the new gun to the soviets and made no attempt to deny that great military value was attached to the weapon. While Cot refused to discuss the technical value of the gun, Kerillis disclosed a number of interesting details regarding it which were not controverted by the government.

This weapon, Kerillis said, surpasses anything possessed by other air forces. It fires 800 rounds a minute and is synchronized to fire between the blades of the propeller. The shell is exploded on contact with the air wash of the enemy plane.

The government's defense to Kerillis' charge was that it is necessary for friendly governments to pool their military secrets in peace time as well as in war. France is willing to apply this policy, Cot said, to any allied country which will reciprocate—even with Germany, if the latter would adhere to a security pact with France, Russia, and the little entente [Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia].

Policy Sharply Criticized.

This policy was sharply criticized by conservative deputies, who pointed out that before the world war it was unheard of for countries to trade military secrets even if they were bound together by a military alliance. Cot was reminded that France never divulged full details of the famous 75 millimeter gun to wartime allies who were unable to produce anything but inferior imitations of the weapon which many French artillerymen declare won the war.

Cot made it clear that the trading of military secrets among prospective allies has become a common practice in Europe in the last few years, though probably it has never been applied so systematically as Cot says he is prepared to apply it.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the debate was the degree of military intimacy between France and her various allies which was brought out by Cot's explanations.

England Gets Blueprints.

Blueprints of a 20 millimeter gun similar to the 23 millimeter weapon turned over to the bolsheviks already have been supplied Great Britain and Czechoslovakia, Cot said. But Kerillis maintained that the new 23 millimeter cannon is a great advance over the earlier 20 millimeter model.

The conclusion is drawn, therefore, that while France is willing to trade minor military secrets with Czechoslovakia and Britain, her most important secrets are reserved for soviet Russia. What France got in return for this contribution was not divulged.

Cot told the chamber the gravest aspect of the debate was that it might give the impression France has a military alliance with Russia, which he emphatically denied.

Drop Case Against Italians Who Booed Ethiopian King

BERNE, Switzerland, July 10.—(AP)—The Swiss federal council closed today the case against Italian correspondents who disrupted a session of the league of nations last week with a noisy protest, while Emperor Haile Selassie pleaded the cause of Ethiopia. The council announced it considered the case ended since the correspondents had left Switzerland. They were forbidden to return, however, until the league decides if they are to be readmitted to its sessions.

BRITISH BID U. S. TO FORGET 1776 AND JOIN EMPIRE

Suggest Single Flag for New State.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—American attention is being called by the British in many ways this summer to the advantage that would accrue if only the United States would forget about 1776 and join up with the British empire again.

Many British lecturers have gone to the United States during the past year and suggested this idea in a vague way—of how if the United States and Britain could somehow join hands, world peace and also John Bull's possessions would be assured. More lecturers are planning to go to America to explain the advantages of an American-British coalition.

Push Propaganda on Liners.

In addition to this the idea of the United States being fused again into the British empire is suggested to all Americans traveling to Europe on British passenger ships.

A few days before arrival in Europe the stewards on British liners are supplied with four page pamphlets from the purser's office. These pamphlets are slipped under the doors of all cabins.

The pamphlets attempt to explain the advantages there would be in having Americans and British forget old differences and unite again under one flag.

At the top of the first page is a combined Union Jack and Star Spangled Banner forming an entirely new emblem with the mystic initials, "O. N. E." added at one end. It is suggested this flag should be the banner of the world state which would also have the combined name of United Empire—a fusion of United States and the British empire.

History Again Interpreted.

The pamphlet begins with a quotation from a man named Charles Davis. It says that world peace could be maintained without difficulty if all the English speaking people combine their strength to enforce it.

The pamphlet then gives American readers an interpretation of revolutionary history. It explains that the step in rejoining the British empire would not be a drastic one, for the "splitup between the colonies and England was only an afterthought."

The pamphlet says that the Declaration of Independence as issued in 1776 was not realy a document aiming at cutting off the thirteen colonies from England and was not so interpreted by George Washington, but was merely an affirmation of American rights and the principles of government the colonies proposed to insist upon. For several years after 1776, the pamphlet adds, Washington had a flag which was merely a colonial flag and did not signify a break with England.

Aim to Make "World Safe."

"It was only five or six years later after the Declaration of Independence that the idea of separation occurred to the former colonists," the pamphlet says.

The implication left is that now is the time to correct this misguided afterthought by making the world safe again through a refusion of the United States into the British body politic.

Thousands of Americans read these pamphlets. It is not indicated on the pamphlets by whom they are issued. Every one is courting Uncle Sam this summer.

LONDON TAILORS RIP INTO DANDIES FOR SUIT RENTING

Assail Growing Practice of Wearing Moth Ball Garb

BY LLOYD FANGEL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—London tailors are all upset over the growing practice among British dandies of renting their outfits for all swanky affairs.

Nearly one-third of the men at Ascot, Britain's swankiest society horse race meet, wore borrowed clothes this year, according to the Tailor and Cutter, principal organ of the British tailoring trade. The journal hotly inveighs against this growing practice.

Smell of Mothballs.

"The perfume from the banks of exotic blooms," it states, "did little to counteract the smell of mothballs which exuded from the Victorian garb which perambulated the turf.

"One of the reasons for this disturbing fact is that fewer men are replacing their morning clothes when they become old or ill-fitting; and the second reason is the growth of the practice of clothes-hiring.

"The number of firms supplying clothes on hire for formal occasions has multiplied several times since the war, and now one firm alone boasts that it can equip 4,000 men at one time with morning clothes. It goes further. It has the effrontery to circularize hundreds of the leading tailors to the effect that substantial commissions will be paid for any clients introduced!"

Pleads for End of Practice.

"Dandies on deposit" is the description by the Tailor and Cutter of the men who attend Ascot and other functions in borrowed plumage, and the journal appeals to the trade to put an end to "this unpleasant practice."

Fancy outfits, however, may be rented for as low as $13.20, and renting concerns have been doing a roaring trade. Many men prefer to hire an outfit rather than buy it because of the very few times when they will be called upon to wear it. Others have to get it for the occasion for the sake of "being seen"—one of Britain's chief weaknesses.

The women, too, appear in exaggeratedly picturesque fashions, and are photographed everywhere. Half of them are professional mannequins, sent to Ascot to show off the creations of the dressmakers.

Hundreds of women, however, were disappointed at Ascot this year, and they were the ones, strangely enough, who went to the expense of ordering their dresses from Paris. The strikes in France paralyzed the industry. Dresses ordered by the British nobility and socialites were lying around deserted shops half made and women had to wear gowns straight off the backs of the mannequins.

FRENCH GROUPS HERE TO OBSERVE BASTILLE DAY

French societies of Chicago are cooperating in organizing a celebration of Bastille day, July 14. Under auspices of the French consul a ball will be held in Marigold Gardens, Grace street and Broadway, to which Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Maj. Gen. Charles E. Kilbourne, commandant of the Sixth corps area; Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of Great Lakes naval station; Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock, and Carleton B. Cunningham have been invited. Organizations sponsoring the event include the Alliance Francaise, La Societe Francaise de Secours Mutuels, Les Comrades de Combat, the French War veterans, the Blue Devils, Les Uns, La Societe de Bienfaisance, and Les Dames de la Prevoyance.

PEER IS BALKED IN FLIGHT TO AUSTRALIA FOR HONOR OF BRITAIN

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—Lord Semphill, well known as a British aviator, was defeated tonight in an attempt to fly to Australia to uphold the honor of Great Britain in the air. Dispatches from Vienna said that he had abandoned his flight there because of a defective wing on his plane.

The peer had taken a dinner table dare from an Australian who declared that British planes could not beat American planes in fast flying.

Lord Semphill, who served with the Royal Air corps during the world war, took off at 3 p. m. with a relief pilot, H. Woods, a wireless operator, and ground engineer. He had planned to make the dash to the island commonwealth in three and a half days.

Four Circus Troupers Die as Truck Dives Down Hill

KAUNAS, Lithuania, July 10.—(AP)—Four members of a circus troupe were killed today in a truck accident near Alytus. The victims included Fakir Alibel, who appeared at A Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. The truck with 19 troupers crashed down a 20-foot slope as the driver swerved to avoid hitting a peasant's cart. Seven of the company were seriously injured.

ORANGEMEN SET FOR CELEBRATION OF BOYNE BATTLE

BELFAST, July 10.—(AP)—Northern Ireland's Orangemen made ready tonight for Sunday's celebration of the "battle of the Boyne," with last year's riots and bloodshed still a fresh and painful memory.

The 1935 festivities, commemorating the celebrated victory of the forces of William III., the prince of Orange, over those of James II. in 1690, started a fortnight of sectarian disturbances that ended with nine dead, many wounded and nearly 150 arrests.

Original object of Orangeism was the maintenance of Protestant ascendancy, and that spirit still survives in modern dress.

The Roman Catholic bishop of Down and Connor this year has issued a letter asking members of the faith to keep away from the Boyne celebrations, where their presence might be the pretext for hostility or resentment.

Serious riots in northern Ireland, with its substantial Protestant majority and aggressive Catholic minority, date back to 1880.

Not until 1920, however, when gunmen began taking part, did the riots assume terroristic proportions.

The possibility that feeling may again run high this year is seen in the public warnings and in the religious, political, and economic differences which still arouse outspoken comment in the six counties.

GOV. LANDON TO WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS.

Gov. Landon sent a greeting to the Wisconsin Republican state convention, an unpretentious and unlabored message which had the virtue of describing simply the ambitions of the American people and of their government when it is true to them. Mr. Landon paid his respects to the families and home owners of Wisconsin whose industry and frugality attain the sensible ideal of American life.

The Republican candidate for President could write briefly and impressively of these qualities and their rewards because he is himself one of these people, now selected by his party for a task beyond the ordinary, and capable of undertaking it because of his understanding of the opportunities and demands of the national life.

American success has been the accomplishment of average men and women who are fair minded. If they are critical it is without hatred. When they want political changes it is without violence, eccentricity, or extremes. They believe in development and betterment, but do not believe that justice is promoted by injustice. Their common sense tells them that their country has not been a land of tyranny. Mr. Roosevelt cannot tell them differently.

Gov. Landon's common sense and excellent manner of expressing it will take the wind out of the New Deal hysteria which defames a nation in trying to win its support.

CONTAINERS.

The announcement that Chicago parties had produced a new type of "freight container" may have caused many to wonder just what sort of vehicle this might be. What will be its sphere of usefulness in the commercial world? From the viewpoint of public interest, first and foremost comes the tendency to take the trucks off the highways.

Specifically, a container is a large packing box, usually of metal construction, about half the size of a highway truck body. Its length conforms to the width of a flat car and when in railroad transit five of these units sit side by side. In effect, they take the place of the box on the box car, but give the flexibility of five small compartments. At the railway terminal a platform truck, provided with a capstan, is parked alongside the railway car and power provided by the truck's motor transfers the container from one vehicle to the other. During its passage through the city streets it resembles an ordinary truck body, which, of course, is just what it is except for its demountable characteristic.

The benefits offered by the container are obvious. It can be loaded wherever a truck can be operated, and then handed over to the railway, thus combining the advantages of both forms of transportation. Expensive packing or crating of certain types of merchandise may be eliminated because the goods are not rehandled en route. Other articles may be stowed "loose" in this enlarged shipping case, or protected only by straw or matting.

These small units may also fill a long felt want in the accommodation of articles that do not generally move in railway carloads, but do move in truckloads. Perhaps canned goods is a fairly good example of a commodity that will move from city to city in carloads, but from city to town in truck or container loads. The railways, themselves, also utilize these "fifths" for the purpose of consolidating merchandise destined to country stations that ordinarily will not receive daily carloads of miscellaneous freight.

The container idea is not new in transportation. "Vans," as the Englishman calls them, have been used for a half century to make a single package of miscellaneous collections of personal effects that were to move by rail and steamship. It may also be noted that several American railways offered container service to the public a half dozen years ago, but the development was scotched by a decision of the interstate commerce commission forbidding the publication of special "containerload" rates. Since that time, however, many railroads have extended their services to include collection and delivery of merchandise by truck, while others are handling trucks and trailers on flat cars. It would appear logical, therefore, that the commission's decision is due for reversal, because present policy is choking the highways with traffic that can be more cheaply handled by the railways through the use of new devices. Transportation will progress in economy in spite of hell, high water and the dead hand of government regulation.

MORE HIGHWAY NOTES.

While ways and means of improving conditions on our rural highways through the elimination of superfluous trucking are in the making, some thought should be directed toward another encroachment on public safety and pleasure—the commercializing of the countryside with advertising signs. A drive through the country presupposes vistas of nature at her best. Some highways are reminiscent of the outside of a ball park.

First, the highway department should, in the interest of safety, demand the removal of devices that imitate the media of traffic control. Red lights should not be permitted to direct attention to a roadside restaurant nor such signs tolerated as "STOP—and fill with so and so's motor fuel." A series of boards, each containing a few words of a complete sentence calculated to hold the attention of the driver from natural curiosity, heads another group of atrocities.

What motorist has not fumed at the practice of grouping outdoor advertising around road direction signs at intersections? Of course, the purpose is to catch the eye of the driver who is seeking information, but it frequently happens that the legitimate markers are completely lost in the maze of extraneous matter ingeniously devised to compel attention. Some billboards attempt to justify their existence by including certain data of value to the driver, but the science of eye direction is utilized to emphasize the advertising feature. The highway departments have thoroughly studied tendencies at crossroads. They have chosen strategic locations for their markers and no private assistance is required.

The state highway system was constructed for pleasure, for going places, and for both. As a consequence a wide variation of vehicle speeds must always exist. Facing this condition, the motorist must remain alert and attempts to distract his attention at critical points are nothing short of criminal. The public likes to be informed that "Smith's" gadget has been so improved that it can now be used as a shoehorn as well as a corkscrew, but why invite a broken neck in conveying the information?

A PRECEDENT FOR MURDER.

Betty Martin shot and killed her husband in a south side saloon. She was acquitted on May 29. A little more than a fortnight later, on June 15, a citizen named Joseph Bolton was shot and killed in his Jackson boulevard office by his wife, Mildred. At the time it was said that the wife wanted some of the bonus which Mr. Bolton had collected from a grateful government and killed him because he hadn't come across. Again a little more than a fortnight elapsed when, on July 2, Miss Audrye Vallette was murdered; a jealous wife is suspected of the crime.

Mrs. Bolton said that as one murderess had been acquitted why not another? Her question suggests a state of mind which juries in this county have done much to encourage. It is not impossible—indeed, it is likely—that the killer of Miss Vallette was also aware of Mrs. Martin's acquittal.

The jurors who freed Mrs. Martin and others like her are not accountable at law for the subsequent murders, but in a real sense the jurors bear a heavy share of the blame. They established a precedent which angry women have had in mind when they killed the objects of their hate or jealousy.

Editorial of the Day

[Bucyrus (O.) Telegraph-Forum.]

Mr. Roosevelt's speech of acceptance at Philadelphia was his masterpiece of misrepresentation. He referred to his three years in office as a period of "rescue." He would have 125,000,000 persons believe that, until he and his brain trust were placed in control, they were a down-trodden people to whom all of the privileges of liberty and life itself had been denied by a small group of modern Simon Legrees. He wants them to believe that through those terrible twelve years of Republican leadership they were like ants dodging around the crushing feet of a "privileged few."

He wants them to forget that it was during that terrible era that swept the land through the Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover administrations that they purchased their automobiles, strengthened their bank accounts and, incidentally, their independent social security. He does not want them to remember that those were the years through which they drew their highest salaries and received, in most instances, prompt recognition of their wants from their industrial and commercial employers. It was during those years that the major portion of today's great highway system was constructed to meet the demand of a happy people whose fattened bank accounts permitted them to enjoy the luxury of travel, but the President would have them believe today that they were dreaming. The President tries now to tell them that they were "underprivileged," cogs of the great machine of that overworked word capitalism.

We need not recall that those happy underprivileged people who were enjoying the prosperity of those twelve awful years were those of the shops, the stores, the offices, and the farms. They were not only the privileged few of the financial east as Mr. Roosevelt would have us believe. One can go now into any mixed crowd here in Bucyrus or in any American city and hear this statement: "We can't afford to do the things we used to do," or "We can't afford the trips we used to take." The "used to" means the dreadful years of suffering as Mr. Roosevelt pictures them, under Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover.

Further, he said: "In those days [those terrible twelve years] we feared fear. That was why we fought fear. And today, my friends, we have won against the most dangerous of our foes—we have conquered fear." He fails or refuses to recognize that the greatest producer of fear is financial instability, whether it be personal or national. A man who spends more than he earns and makes a big showing while running into debt cannot escape eventual fear. A government is no different.

NOT THIS TIME!

The bride of a few weeks noticed that her husband was depressed.

"Gerald, dearest," she said, "I know something is troubling you, and I want you to tell me what it is; your worries are not your worries now, they are our worries."

"O, very well," he said. "We've just had a letter from a girl in New York and she's suing us for breach of promise."—Montreal Star.

HARD TO BELIEVE.

(Being a letter from a Chicago man who has recently gone to Newfoundland.)

Dear Friend: I want to describe a strange experience I had yesterday; a phenomenon that left me breathless, although the people who live here said it happened very frequently. I was strolling down the street when suddenly water came right down out of the sky and fell all over me. I was so frightened that I hollered and a man who was passing asked me what was the matter. I said that water was falling on me out of the sky. "Why sure," he said. "Didn't you ever see water before?" I said yes, in the bathtub and in Lake Michigan and in the ocean, but I never knew it to fall right down out of the sky that way before. He wanted to know where I was from and when I told him Chicago he laughed and said, "I can understand now why the rain surprised you so." I looked at him in even greater astonishment and I said, "Oh, so this is rain?" "Yes," the man replied, "it's rain. You must have heard about it before. "Well," I told him, "I've read about it and I can remember now that when I was a boy we had rain sometimes, but I had forgotten all about it. So this is really rain?" The man wanted me to get under his umbrella, but I told him that now I was in a rain at last I wouldn't give up the enjoyment of it for anything in the world. I can't begin to tell you how delightful a rain is. The water comes right straight down on you like it does in a shower bath, only lots more of it. And it keeps up for hours and hours. It's real water, too, just the kind we have in Lake Michigan. Oh, you must come up to Newfoundland and enjoy a rain. It's a great experience. Best regards, PERCY TOURIST.

DUENNA.

From cloth-hung casements of my mind—
Whether I'm cross or whether I'm kind—
Accompanying me wherever I go.

If I buy vanilla . . . she would have bought tea,
When I go by the river, she'd go by the sea.

And I, reading Dante, know she prefers Poe,
When I work in my garden she handles the hoe.

When I loved Velais, she much preferred Don,
One night when he called . . . I put her face on.
But Don didn't know me. How can I avail
To let this duenna out of her jail?

RACHEL MACK WILSON.

MR. ROOSEVELT made a great mistake in making a speech on Thomas Jefferson in a presidential year. Now all the Democratic leaders in Tennessee and Arkansas will have to spend all their time from now until election day explaining that Mr. Jefferson is not the party candidate this year.

WHITE TROUSERS are very cool and comfortable at picnics, but they look like hell after you sit down in the cherry pie.

THE FAT LADY ON TOP OF THE BUS.

"Well," said the fat lady on top of the bus yesterday, "that man that always parked hisself right near us in the park and kept us awake all night by his fog horn snoring has moved down by Mister Lincoln's stature and now we have some peace. I thought up a scheme to chase him and it worked."

"How did you do it, you clever thing?" asked her admiring friend.

"Well, I took my husband's cane and fastened a pin in the end, and when that man got to snoring his darndest I would reach way over and give him a jab. He'd stop snorin' mighty quick and sit up straight and yell, 'Who bit me?'

"And I would speak out of the darkness and say, 'Oh, did that squirrel bite you, too?'

"'Gosh!' the man would say, 'these darned squirrels ought to be driven out of the park. Then he'd go back to sleep and start the sawmill again and I'd give him another jab with the pin. He stood it about three times and then he got up and said he was going to hunt a roost where there weren't so many of them dam squirrels around, and off he went down toward Mister Lincoln's stature."

SEASONED ADVICE.

When I was young
Old women said
That Life was made
Of butter and bread.
That pretty clothes
In Life and Love
Have little place.
They claimed that Loves
Were dangerous things,
With devil's hooves
And dragon wings!
I listened close
(For they were wise),
But, oh, the longing
Behind their eyes!

ROSA ZAGNONI MARINONI.

"LET US STAND HERE in the cool shade of these lovely old trees. On one side of us, you observe, is a great bed of luxuriantly growing mint. On the other side is an ice cold spring of twenty year old bourbon whisky gushing from the rocks. Ah, and here we find a lump sugar bush. Ah, now for as many delicious mint juleps as we wish."

Those were his identical words, judge, spoken to me yesterday afternoon when we were standing on the sun baked pavement in the loop with the thermometer at one hundred and going up.

"The killing," said the judge, "was justifiable."

"HOT WAVE Goes On East."—Headline. I beg your pardon. It doesn't go east; it extends east. It hasn't gone; it is still sitting right in our laps.

PRENATAL CARE PROTECTS MOTHERHOOD.

THE bringing of new life into the world is nature's dominant urge. Plants produce seeds which in turn, under favorable conditions, grow into the likeness and size of the parent. Vegetation springs up everywhere, varying with soil and climatic conditions. A solitary, stately pine on the sheer granite wall of a deep canyon typifies the struggle for survival.

But all in life is not "beer and skittles," and were it not attended with effort and work the race would degenerate. Whatever is worth while demands labor and sacrifice. Sometimes comfort must be surrendered and suffering endured.

Pregnancy is a perfectly safe, normal experience that need not carry with it fear of the outcome or forebodings for the future. It is a period in which life is developing, the mother supplying those nutritive elements that are undergoing transformation into bone and muscle, blood, and vital organs. A child is being prepared for entrance upon a new and strange adventure.

Given a mother in sound health, with good, clean blood, who will observe the rules of hygiene and accept the benefits of prenatal care, a healthy baby may be expected. We cannot, however, follow blindly the pathway of indifference, as the strain of pregnancy may be too great to be borne by a mother's constitution. A real burden is placed upon heart, kidneys, liver, and nervous system, and these structures, as well as the endocrine glands, may manifest signs of overload.

It sometimes happens that a prospective mother who is seemingly well may note signs of swelling in various parts of the body, blurred vision, or bright spots before the eyes. On examination the blood pressure may be found to be somewhat increased and the urine to contain albumin. This presents an abnormal situation, but when it does appear prompt action and the best medical skill are demanded.

The way to prevent complications is to make certain that the patient consults a competent medical adviser just as soon as pregnancy is recognized. The beneficent rôle of the physician is exercised to a far more important degree in caring for the mother during the months of gestation than at the hour of birth. Constant supervision will avoid possible pitfalls.

The function of the kidneys particularly will need to be carefully evaluated. A woman who has suffered an inflammatory disease of these organs at some earlier date may go through pregnancy with perfect ease. On the other hand, there is a tendency to some degree of involvement in about one out of four such cases. Conscientious watching, however, will disclose the earliest sign of failure and permit the application of proper relief procedures.

Not more than one or two cases of eclampsia [convulsions] will be observed in a thousand pregnancies. While this is not a high percentage, yet the condition is severe enough when it develops to call for heroic action. The chief thing is to detect the first minor signs, long before the seizures are evident. This state of affairs—if and when it occurs—usually comes on in the last three months of pregnancy, sometimes but a week or two prior to delivery. Symptoms that may be noted include a sudden gain in weight, swelling of the body—face, eyelids, hands, feet, etc.—rise of blood pressure, albumin in the urine, and disturbance of vision. Should the sight fail suddenly and the patient become so drowsy that she is difficult to arouse, an emergency presents itself.

It is probably not too much to say that the lives of very few mothers would be lost from these unusual and untoward manifestations of toxemia could they be under the constant supervision of an alert physician. But he must not be called upon to bear the entire load of responsibility. As a part of her training every prospective mother should familiarize herself with the rules of diet, exercise, rest, play, and recreation, the use of baths, the care of the digestive tract, and the need for fluids. Then, too, she must report promptly every unusual sign—anything that she cannot understand or explain as consistent with normal health. She should visit her physician not less often than every two weeks in the later months and without delay upon the appearance of swelling in any part of the body.

This is what is meant by prenatal care, which, in the experience of both mothers and physicians, is invaluable.

PHYSICIAN IS CORRECT.

S. C. writes: My son was bitten by a neighbor's dog and there is quite a tear on the right cheek. We took him at once to our physician and he cauterized the wound thoroughly with fuming nitric acid. He did not sew up the wound and I am afraid that there will be a large scar when it heals. Should he take the Pasteur treatment?

REPLY.

The management adopted by your physician is quite correct. The wound should be thoroughly cauterised and left open. To sew up a tear in the skin and muscles may pocket the deadly virus of hydrophobia and insure its absorption. Leaving it open permits drainage as well as free access of air. If there is a reasonable suspicion that the dog has rabies the Pasteur treatment should be started at once. Double doses are advocated for the first few days. Make certain that the animal is penned up and observed by a competent veterinarian. Notify your health department.

HEAT CRAMPS.

N. S. writes: I work in an overheated room and, as a result, perspire profusely many hours each day. On very hot days I have abdominal cramps not attended with diarrhea. What is the cause and what can I do?

REPLY.

Excess perspiration drains the body of salts. Your drinking water should contain 1 level teaspoonful of common salt [sodium chloride] to the quart. This will prevent the cramps complained of. Do not use ice water.

Many prefer to drink salt water to which has been added a small amount of rolled oats, barley, or wheat grits.

CIGARETS.

A. Z. writes: Is it possible or probable for a young girl to get tuberculosis from smoking cigarets?

REPLY.

Smoking does not cause tuberculosis, but if the disease is already present the habit may aggravate it.

DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION.

BY JAMES MADISON.

[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 11, 1787.—In convention. Mr. Williamson of North Carolina moved "that in order to ascertain the alterations that may happen in the population and wealth of the several states a census shall be taken of the free white inhabitants and three-fifths of those of other description on the first year after this government shall have been adopted and every ——— year thereafter and that representation shall be regulated accordingly."

Is a Slave as Valuable as a Freeman?

Mr. Butler and Mr. Pinckney of South Carolina insisted that blacks be included in the rule of representation equally with whites and for that purpose moved that three-fifths be struck out. Mr. Gerry of Massachusetts thought that three-fifths of them was to say the least the full proportion that could be admitted. Mr. Butler insisted that the labor of a slave in South Carolina was as productive and valuable as that of a freeman in Massachusetts, that as wealth was the great means of defense and utility to the nation they were equally valuable to it with freemen. Mr. Mason of Virginia could not agree to the motion, notwithstanding it was favorable to Virginia, because he thought it unjust. It was certain that the slaves were valuable as they raised the value of land, increased the supply of exports and imports, and, of course, the revenue which would supply the means of feeding and supporting an army and might in cases of emergency become soldiers themselves. He could not, however, regard them as equal to freemen and could not vote for them as such.

Mr. Rutledge of South Carolina contended for the admission of wealth in the estimate by which representation should be regulated. The western states will not be able to contribute in proportion to their numbers. They should not therefore be represented in that proportion. The Atlantic states will not concur in such a plan. He moved that at the end of ——— years after the first meeting of the legislature and of every ——— years thereafter the legislature shall proportion representation according to wealth and population. Mr. Mason of Virginia objected to Mr. Rutledge's motion as requiring of the legislature something too indefinite and impractical and leaving them a pretext for doing nothing. Mr. Gouverneur Morris: The busy haunts of men, not the remote wilderness, was the proper school of political talents. If the western people get the power into their hands they will ruin the Atlantic interests. The back members are always most averse to the best measures. Another objection with him against admitting the blacks into the census was that the people of Pennsylvania would revolt at the idea of being put on a footing of equality with slaves. They would reject any plan which was to have such an effect.

Mr. Madison: The truth was that all men having power ought to be distrusted to a certain degree. The extent and fertility of the western soil would for a long time give to agriculture a preference over manufactures. Whenever the Mississippi should be opened to them, which would of necessity be the case as soon as their population would increase, would subject them to a considerable share of the public burden imposts on their trade which could be collected with less expense and greater certainty than on that of the Atlantic states. [On the question of taking a census of the free inhabitants it was passed in the affirmative.] The next clause of three-fifths of the Negroes considered.

Mr. Wilson of Pennsylvania did not see on what principle the admission of blacks in proportion of three-fifths could be explained. Are they admitted as citizens? Then why are they not admitted on an equality with white citizens? Are they admitted as property? Then why is not other property admitted into the computation? Mr. Gouverneur Morris was compelled to declare himself reduced to the dilemma of doing injustice to the southern state or to human nature and he must therefore do it to the former.

[On the question of including three-fifths of the blacks, four states yes, six no. On a census the first year, seven yes, three no. On a fifteen year census period, no opposition. On the whole of Mr. Williamson's resolution as amended all no. Convention adjourned.]

FARMING

96

Q.—How can the building of huge dams, like TVA, hurt the farmer?

A.—Morris Cooke, expert on soil conservation, declares that such dams take the water off the land into the big rivers, thereby contributing to dust storms.

Q.—What is meant by "nationalization of land"?

A.—Many claim the Roosevelt administration intends to nationalize agriculture by ownership or control of all farm lands. 10,000,000 acres have been bought by the New Deal, and approximately one third of all farm mortgages are now in federal land banks.

Q.—Is it true that AAA employés make any benefit payment, in any amount, without being subject to audit?

A.—The law reads: "Notwithstanding any other provision of the law the action of any officer or employé in determining the amount of or in making any payment under this bill shall not be subject to review or audit except by the secretary of agriculture."

ABOUT A VACANT LOT.

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 8.—In your editorial of July 4, "Vacant Lots," you stress the need of "formal and informal neighborhood organization for the improvement of the appearance of the city."

As a city resident, greatly in sympathy with the purpose of your editorial, may I give the brief history of a recent neighborhood effort of this kind occurring this spring?

At the request of several citizens of Streeterville and several citizens' organizations, the superintendent of the Forty-second ward ably secured the services of the WPA in cleaning and grading the vacant lots of this vicinity.

The lot adjoining the building where we live was offensively filthy and malodorous and unhygienic for the children who ran into it occasionally. The WPA cleaned and graded this lot well on a verbal permission from the owning corporation.

A small neighborhood fund for seeding was collected; and the owners of the two large apartment houses overlooking the lot, the engineers, janitors, and citizens' organizations all coöperated in arranging for and implementing summer care. The WPA forces and their foreman were helpful and resourceful in every respect in the entire undertaking.

But this had to be stopped at this point because the property owners refused to give the written and signed consent necessary for the WPA—though the form of consent contained a guarantee that all the work on the property would be done at no expense to the owners.

We returned our fund to the contributors, and the lot is reverting rapidly to the state your editorial describes.

In other words, in our practical experience the type of neighborhood project you suggest failed, not because of any shortcoming of the WPA, but because the owners of the vacant lots refused to coöperate. EDITH FRANKLIN WYATT.

NOISE NEAR HOSPITALS.

Evanston, Ill., July 7.—For the good of all sufferers in Chicago hospitals I appeal to THE TRIBUNE to use its influence to have "Zone of Quiet" notices posted in the immediate vicinity of hospitals which are situated on main thoroughfares, especially those in the district near the loop.

I have recently had occasion to make several visits to a certain Chicago hospital and was amazed at the noise created by unthinking motorists in the streets bordering the hospital, and apparently no one taking any action to control it. These motorists evidently never give a thought to those poor suffering patients whose nerves are constantly being shattered by the honking of horns, crashing on of brakes and starting old cars, many of which are only fit for the wrecking yards. It is frequently found necessary to administer sleeping potions to nervous patients in order that they may get any rest at all. MARJORIE B. ROBERTS.

GOV. LANDON'S PANTS.

Chicago, July 5.—Does Gov. Landon have any other pants besides those riding pants? He is a great big outdoor man, just the type of vigorous American to lead us out of the shambles. O. K., O. K., O. K.!!! After the first two thousand pictures of the governor and his pants we get the idea.

I'm not asking him to kid the people with a pair of overalls, but please, please! just a plain pair of pants!

LAWRENCE A. BETZ.

COMEBACKS.

Chicago, July 4.—First it was Jimmy Braddock. Then it was Max Schmeling, and along came Jack Sharkey. But the return that surprised me most was the comeback of Smitty's pop. IRA COLITZ.

A CENT FOR THE AUTHOR.

Chicago, July 5.—Your editorial "A Cent for the Author" suggests for the first time, it seems to me, a workable and fair remedy for the financial injustice done to the novelist by the circulating libraries.

Of some 3,000 copies of my first book—a mystery—it is reasonably fair to estimate that 2,000 were sold to circulating libraries. My total royalty return from that book was in the neighborhood of $350. If each of the 2,000 that were placed in circulating libraries circulated to no more than twenty people [a conservative estimate] I should have received an additional 20 cents on each copy, bringing my total receipts to approximately $750, a return at least somewhat near good pay for three months' work and the years of miscellaneous experience and training that preceded.

My second mystery, serialized in a pulp during the low word rate year of 1930, brought me $555—after my agent's perfectly fair 10 per cent was deducted from the sale price.

My third book, a serious novel that received high praise in the press of this country and in England as well, being a Book of the Month club recommendation and the Recommended Book of the Week in the Saturday Review of Literature, sold just under 2,000 copies, of which more than half were certainly purchased by circulating libraries. My royalty return was $350, which would have been upped by $200 [or, if the 50 circulation estimate of your editorial is taken to be correct, by as much as $500], if the suggested plan had been in operation. I should then have gone on to write another book of serious [and I hope] equal quality instead of turning my efforts to the production of sure-sale wordage.

A final note about the book publisher should be added. He gambles, nine times out of ten, at an actual loss to himself on the work of a writer who has not reached the place of becoming a best-seller, and if such a plan were actually put into operation some workout for the benefit of the publisher should be included.

ILLEGAL ENTRY.

Chicago, July 4.—[Friend of the People.]—I entered this country illegally on Nov. 11, 1923. Will you be so kind as to tell me whether I can apply for my first paper? P. B.

Under existing legislation only those aliens who entered the United States illegally prior to June 3, 1921, and have not been absent from the United States since that time, may apply for legalization of their entry. There is pending in congress a bill to extend this privilege to those aliens who entered in this manner prior to July 1, 1924. At the present time it does not appear that the inquirer may take steps toward citizenship unless he leaves the United States and makes a legal entry for permanent residence.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

DEED TO PROPERTY.

Dubuque, Ia., July 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My uncle has made his last will and did not include me in it. At this time he wishes to give me a parcel of property, but does not care to change his will. Is it legal and proper for him to give me a waranty deed to the property he wishes me to have, this deed to be recorded directly after his death? J. P.

Delay in recording a deed invites litigation as to whether the deed was validly delivered during the grantor's lifetime. We would consider it preferable for him to execute a codicil to his will.

CAPONE'S GANG RISES AGAIN IN VOTES AND VICE

Watch 3 Lieutenants in Bolton Slaying.

At that time it was said that Prignano was killed because he had disobeyed Nitti's orders and had filed for reëlection as Democratic committeeman of the ward. His murder remains unsolved and Bolton's murder was heading toward that same wall of silence last night.

Just where Bolton may have stepped over the line has not come to light, but the police learned that the Nitti-Adduci-Campagna triumvirate has been spreading the threat that an "O. K." from them is necessary for entrance into the rackets.

Seasoned Murderers' Work

Police are in entire agreement that Bolton was "blazed"—the current term for murder—by experienced hands. No amateurs were assigned the job of taking him out of the picture. Rather, from the speed and overwhelmingly conclusive manner of procedure, it was performed by seasoned Camorra killers, old hands at the business, men who learned under the masters—perhaps the Capone masters.

Trailing Bolton to a quiet, dimly lighted street, the occupants of the murder car put on a burst of speed and were almost alongside the legislator's machine before he knew they were there. He led them for a short distance but shotgun slugs, fired from a range of four or five feet, killed him instantly at Harrison and Washtenaw.

The murder car swept away, so speedily that not even eye witnesses could give an accurate description of it. The "best" gang killings in prohibition history were performed in just that manner—and were charged to Capone gunners.

Police Seek Mangano.

"Dago Lawrence" Mangano—who was close to Adduci in the old days in the 27th ward—was being sought by Capt. Charles McGurn of the Warren avenue police for questioning in the Bolton investigation, but Capt. McGurn did not appear optimistic of his chances of solving the murder.

"It will be a tough case to crack," he said. "It was a typical gangster killing with the usual lack of clews."

Assistant State's Attorney Irwin Clorfene expressed a similar opinion.

The Bolton family was of no help. Joseph [Red] Bolton, one of John's brothers who is an ex-convict, was found at his mother's home at 736 South Ashland boulvard yesterday, but declared he knew of no reason why John had been killed. "He was the last guy that ought to be bumped off," according to Red.

Widow Has No Clew.

The widow, Mrs. Marie Fanelli Bolton, was in a state of collapse. "It must have been a case of mistaken identity," she told Clorfene and Capt. McGurn. "I can't imagine anybody having any reason to shoot my John. He never had any trouble and was always happy."

Reports were that both John and Red had gained a slight tochold in the west side handbook racket—John with two places on Madison street near Paulina and Red with a larger establishment at Madison and Cicero avenue. Had either place been opened without the consent of the Nitti-Adduci-Campagna triumvirate, some recrimination would have been sought, police believe.

Capt. McGurn was also investigating a report that Bolton had attempted to organize the vegetable peddlers who work out of the produce market on the west side. Interference with union activities could have aroused enmity, McGurn said.

Interested in Convicts.

George Scully, state supervisor of paroles, said that Bolton had appeared before the parole board in three cases in recent months seeking consideration for convicts. The names of the convicts and their present status will not be revealed except at the request of the police, Scully said.

The parole supervisor added that the board had had letters from Bolton inquiring the status of "eight or ten" other convicts.

Bolton's body will lie in the home of his mother, Mrs. Nellie Bolton, at 736 South Ashland boulevard until Monday at 10 a. m., when services will be held at the Notre Dame church, 1335 West Harrison street. Burial will be in All Saints cemetery.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Ol' Swimmin' Hole.

July 10, 1936.

AN old-fashioned "swimmin' hole" appeared on The Tribune's Yorkville experimental farm this week while the thermometer was soaring. This cool spot has been the scene of plenty of activity during the hot weather.

The small sons of Art Wade, one of the farm workers, dammed Rob Roy creek the other day. They didn't quit after building the dam, either. They found a good plank, stapled it down near the dam, loaded one end with heavy stones, and presto! there was a diving board.

The swimmin' hole is about four feet deep—just the right depth for the boys. They have spent many cool hours there recently while their envious fathers were at work in the fields.

Dust Clouds Fields.

Numerous evidences of the long drouth are noticeable on the experimental farms . . . dust rolls heavily as automobiles pass and wagons and machinery go about their work in the fields . . . huge embrellas protect the men from the sun as they operate binders and corn cultivators . . . full water jugs ride the bumps on the running boards of the tractors . . . and the farm women are carrying extra pails of water to their flower and vegetable gardens.

Steers Are Lucky.

The Hereford steers are probably the luckiest animals on the farm during the warm weather. We noticed a group of these white faces the other day as they stood on the bank of Rob Roy creek, lazily drinking their fill of cool, fresh water.

This stream is fed by several springs, so the water is about as cool and appetizing as any on the farm. While the steers aren't drinking at their favorite pool they are resting in the shade or gathered in groups seeking grass or clover.

River Level Down.

The Fox river, which runs through the Yorkville farm, is more than two feet below normal, according to the farm workers. Louis Thurow said the other day that the river was lower than he had ever seen it, and he has lived in the Yorkville area most of his life. It is even lower now than it was during the 1934 drouth season.

Give Horses Rest.

The draft horses are being watched carefully so that they do not get overheated on blistering hot days. We noticed some of them resting in a field the other day. Tractors have been furnishing most of the horse power needed for farm machinery.

Neighboring farmers who do not have enough tractors are working their horses in the early morning hours. The boys were telling us about one neighbor who has been working with his horses between 3 a. m. and 9 a. m., then letting his horses rest the remainder of the day.

Canning Goes On.

The farm women don't seem to mind the hot weather, judging from the work they have been doing in their kitchens. All three of the Thurow families have been canning green beans from their gardens, as well as apricots and raspberries.

One of the big disappointments of the summer season has been that there has been no chance to make strawberry preserves. The dry weather made it so hard for the strawberries that there were hardly enough for table use.

Herons Fatten Up.

The hot winds that have been drying up the ponds on the Wheaton experimental farm are favorable winds to four big blue herons spending their time around the waterholes. The ponds are showing constantly receding water levels as a result of heat and no rain.

But as the water goes down it naturally makes it much easier for the herons to spear tadpoles and frogs. They are enjoying big feasts every day now, the result of patiently standing in the dirty shallow water until it's time to shoot their spearlike bills to seize tadpoles.

SAVAGE TO FIGHT DECISION ENDING CROWE FEE SUIT

Demands $106,000; Plans Appeal.

Joseph P. Savage, once the law partner of Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, said yesterday that he would file objections to the report of Master in Chancery Samuel B. Epstein of the Circuit court, who recommended dismissal of the accounting suit involving the assets of the now dissolved firm of Crowe, Gorman & Savage.

Epstein, in his report filed in the Circuit court yesterday, held that the contract by which Crowe and his former law partners agreed to share their fees—particularly those earned in public office—was invalid because it was against public policy. The master recommended, therefore, that the Circuit court should not order an accounting of the firm's funds.

Gorman's Widow Involved.

In addition to Crowe and Savage, Mrs. Marguerite Gorman, executrix of the estate of her husband, the late George E. Gorman, was involved in the suit. Gorman, who died in January, 1935, was the third partner in the firm.

The case was referred to Epstein by Judge John R. Caverly and the recommendation will be presented to Judge Caverly or any other chancellor to whom he assigns the matter.

Savage said he will file objections before the judge and if the recommendation is upheld, he will appeal to the Illinois Appellate court and, if necessary, to the state Supreme court. He asserted that if there is no accounting, Crowe will be able to retain about $350,000 in fees received by the now defunct law firm. Savage declared he is entitled to about $106,000 of that amount under the partnership agreement.

Stormy Hearing Recalled.

Neither Crowe nor Mrs. Gorman could be reached yesterday. Gerald Gorman, a son of the late George Gorman, is a member of Crowe's new law firm, Crowe, Gorman, Sheridan, Mulder and Wesselink.

According to the evidence at the stormy hearings last winter before Master Epstein, Crowe and his two partners entered into an agreement by which they were to divide equally all fees, whether received from private practice or from public office any of the partners held.

Crowe had Gorman appointed a master in chancery of the Circuit court, according to the testimony. Gorman also acted as attorney for the old south park board and as one of counsel for the consolidated park district. Savage for a time was chief attorney for the county forest preserve district.

Master Epstein ruled that this division of money obtained from public office was contrary to public policy nd the agreement was void.

COUNTY SIGHTS WAY OUT IN ROAD CLAIM OF $17,000

Cook county may disclaim responsibility for the payment for a disputed stretch of route 49 known as Governor's highway, lying between 179th and 183d street, it was intimated at the county board meeting yesterday. Mrs. Augusta Bernard of Bremen township is asking $17,000 for the strip of land a half mile long and 100 feet wide on which the road was built before proper title was obtained.

Assistant State's Attorney John Fitzgerald submitted to the board an opinion holding that the county is not liable because the road in question is a state highway.

County Commissioner Daniel Ryan pointed out, however, that the state built the road on the county's promise that it would provide the necessary right of way. The other board members acquiesced to his suggestion that state highway department officials be invited to a meeting of Ryan's roads and bridges committee on Wednesday to discuss the matter.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED OF $300.

Two gunmen who followed Peter Liebert, 67 years old, 6126 Langley avenue, from a west side bank yesterday, halted his truck at 127 North May street, struck him on the head, and took $300 from him.

MAYOR CHANGES MIND ABOUT PAYING $1,000 TO SAVE HIS TOWN

Prophetstown, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Mayor George S. Brydia changed his mind today about paying the $1,000 demanded by an extortionist, who threatened to blow up the Prophetstown business district with dynamite, and issued a public defi to the author of a threatening letter he received.

The mayor, who has served 16 years in office and is one of the principal grocers in this town of 1,500, announced that he will keep the rendezvous with the extortionist in the Rockford, Ill., public library, but he will be empty handed.

Brydia said he had made no effort to raise the $1,000 by collecting $20 from every store in town, as was demanded in the threatening letter. Although convinced that the threat is genuine, he said he has no intention of paying the money demanded.

The mayor earlier had said he would collect the money from business men, not that he was afraid of the threat against his life, but because he believed that with no rain in the area for twenty days the whole town would be destroyed if somebody started "playing with matches or dynamite."

COURT CUTS CITY AND COUNTY TAX LEVIES $3,017,000

Portions of the city and county tax levies for 1934 were held illegal yesterday by County Judge Jarecki who ordered a sum totaling $3,017,000 abated from the two levies. At the same time the judge upheld the new form of "pegged levy" which the city and Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium adopted under a law passed in 1934.

The Jarecki rulings were given after a hearing on objections to the 1934 tax rates. The largest amount ordered abated was $1,500,000 from the county's highway levy of $1,700,000. The judge held that the uses of the levy were not set forth in sufficient detail, as prescribed by law.

The levy to cover loss and cost for collection of city taxes, computed at 10 per cent or $3,200,000, was ordered reduced to 4.63 per cent, a slash of $1,400,000. State Supreme court rulings holding 4.63 per cent to be the correct loss and cost figure were cited as precedent for the cut.

In giving out the statement of the metal trades chief, Green said that the hod carriers' union had issued a complaint that the C. I. O. was attempting to organize within its jurisdiction.

The metal trades division has between 500,000 and 600,000 members in its unions. The C. I. O. claims a strength of more than a million members, while the total membership of the A. F. of L. is estimated at between three and three and a half million.

Aim at Jones & Laughlin.

Aliquippa, Pa., July 10.—[Special.]—Prospects for the industrial unionization of the Jones & Laughlin steel mill here employing more than 11,000 are considered particularly promising by the Steel Workers' organizing committee, because of the corporation's conflicts with the federal government on labor policies.

The organizers, carrying on the campaign of unionization sponsored by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America and head of the committee for industrial organization, point out that a lodge of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers was in existence here a year before Mr. Lewis inaugurated his campaign, and say the nucleus of industrial unionism is in the mill. They said recent discharge of a dozen or more workmen, because of membership in the Amalgamated, and difficulties encountered by the organizers in their work here, have resulted in resentment against the company.

ROOSEVELT SET TO PUSH DROUTH BELT OF TREES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today declared he is going ahead with the New Deal plan of creating a drouth shelter belt of trees from the Canadian to the Mexican border until available funds are exhausted.

The plan was advanced during the drouth of 1934. Department of agriculture experts envisioned a vast belt of trees hundreds of miles wide in the far west. The trees, they said, would stand as sentinels against dust storms and hold moisture in the soil to curb drouth ravages.

In his budget message to congress, last January, the President proposed to spend a million dollars on the program during the present year. This expenditure was to be but a beginning of a vast long term program to cost hundreds of millions. Congress viewed the plan coldly and cut the appropriation to $75,000.

At his press conference today Mr. Roosevelt was asked if he intended to go ahead with the shelter belt. He replied that the project was going ahead. Told of the congressional action, Mr. Roosevelt said he hadn't heard of it, but would go as far as he could.

Buys Trees for U. S. Land.

The $75,000 is to be used for the purchase of saplings for planting on federal land in the proposed shelter belt area. The plan, as developed by brain trusters, contemplated purchase of all privately owned land in the area for planting.

The President's statement was viewed as an indication the administration may seek to get around congressional liquidation of the project and divert relief funds to further the work. Officials said, under the broad powers vested in the President on control of relief funds, he can proceed with the project in the face of congressional disapproval.

GLORIA VANDERBILT SUES HER IN-LAWS TO GET $100,000 LEGACY

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt sued her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, and Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt today for a $100,000 legacy bequeathed her by the former dowager of the Vanderbilt clan, Mrs. Alice Gwynne Vanderbilt.

"I am entitled to this legacy," Mrs. Vanderbilt's petition read. "More than seven months have elapsed since the will was probated and I have made repeated efforts to receive payment without success."

Surrogate James A. Foley ordered Mrs. Whitney and Gen. Vanderbilt, executors of their mother's $10,000,000 estate, to show cause before July 21 for their failure to make the payment.

"There are ample funds available to pay my legacy," Mrs. Vanderbilt said in her petition. "The executors have offered no valid explanation for withholding the payment."

Mrs. Vanderbilt is spending the month with her heiress daughter, Gloria, 12, at Smithtown, N. Y., under terms of Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew's order by which she must share the daughter's custody with Mrs. Whitney.

GRAND-DAUGHTER OF COMMODORE VANDERBILT DIES

Mrs. Webb Once Ruler of New York Society.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. William Seward Webb, granddaughter of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, died at 75 today at her Vermont estate, Shelburne. Mrs. Webb was the widow of Dr. Seward Webb, retired railroad builder and capitalist.

She was the acknowledged ruler of New York society in the older, more conservative days. Daughter of the late William H. Vanderbilt, who became one of the great railroad magnates of his generation, she married Dr. Webb and was the mother of a daughter and three sons yet living, Mrs. Cyril Jones of Milton, Mass., James Watson Webb, winner of the international polo cup, William Seward Webb, architect, and Vanderbilt Webb, lawyer. Dr. Webb died in 1926.

An Elder Vanderbilt.

Born Lila Osgood Vanderbilt, Mrs. Webb was one of the oldest present-day members of the Vanderbilt family. Besides her children, two elder sisters and a younger brother survive. They are Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly, who was Florence Vanderbilt, Mrs. Henry White, the former Emily T. Vanderbilt, and Frederick W. Vanderbilt. Besides the place at which death occurred, Mrs. Webb was the mistress of estates at Lake Champlain, Delray, Fla., and a summer home in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Webb's father, following his leadership in the peak days of the railroad industry, was an enthusiastic traveler and art collector. He also was a lover of fine horses, the owner of the famous Maud S. Her mother was the former Maria Louisa Kissam, daughter of the Rev. Samuel Kissam, a Dutch reformed minister.

Aunt of Mrs. Whitney.

Mrs. Webb long survived her three brothers, Cornelius, William K., and George W. Vanderbilt, and her sister, Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard. Among her nephews and nieces are Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, William K. Vanderbilt, Harold S. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Louis Jacques Balsan, the former duchess of Marlborough; Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, and the Countess Laszlo Szechenyi.

GEO. W. PLUMMER, LAWYER, DIES IN CLEVELAND AT 91

George W. Plummer, 91 years old, who practiced law in Chicago continuously from 1871 to 1933, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robert Kenneth Plumb, in Cleveland.

Mr. Plummer was born at Tyrone, Pa., and was graduated from the Meadville university at Meadville, Pa., in 1869. Among his early legal clients after he came to Chicago was Field, Leiter & Co.

For the last twenty years Mr. Plummer had made his home at the Plaza hotel, Clark street and North avenue. He left several weeks ago to visit Mrs. Plumb. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Redfield Plummer, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; by their daughter, Mrs. Plumb, and by two sons of a former marriage, Capt. R. W. Plummer, U. S. N., retired, and Earl H. Plummer.

MARTHA HARRIS, SISTER OF BANK FOUNDER, DEAD

Miss Martha E. Harris, sister of the late Norman Walt Harris, philanthropist and founder of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, died yesterday of heart disease in her apartment at the Homestead hotel, 1625 Hinman avenue, Evanston. She was 83 years old.

Miss Harris was a native of Becket, Mass. After the death of her brother in 1916 she continued a number of scholarships which Mr. Harris had established to aid young men and women of Becket to attend college. She had been a resident of Evanston for 25 years.

Funeral services will be held in the First Baptist church of Evanston at 3:30 p. m., Monday.

DR. J. T. MELOY, PASTOR EMERITUS IN EVANSTON, DIES

The Rev. Dr. John T. Meloy, pastor emeritus of the First United Presbyterian church of Evanston, died last night in his home at 1710 Asbury avenue, in the suburb. He was 72 years old.

Dr. Meloy resigned from his pastorate last Jan. 1 after 15 years of service. His 46 years in the ministry was the longest period of service of any minister in the Chicago presbytery. He served as moderator of the Illinois synod in 1906 and was chairman of the national commission on home missions of his church in 1912.

Surviving him are his widow, Sarah, and seven children, two of whom are missionaries. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon in Dr. Meloy's church.

F. M. O'Flaherty, Long a Contractor, Dies at 80

Frank M. O'Flaherty, 80 years old, for many years a plumbing contractor, died yesterday at his home in Elgin. Mr. O'Flaherty was a native of Elgin and had lived there all his life. He is survived by his widow. Funeral services will be held in St. Mary's church, Elgin, at 9:30 a. m., Monday.

MRS. I. E. BAIRD, A CHICAGOAN FOR 70 YEARS, IS DEAD

Mrs. Minnie N. Baird, widow of Irwin E. Baird and the daughter of a pioneer Chicago dry goods merchant, died yesterday in her home at 725 Colfax street, Evanston. She was 73 years old.

Mrs. Baird was born in Schleswig-Holstein. She came to Chicago with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nuveen, when she was 3 years old. As a child of 8 she saw the Chicago fire of 1871.

Surviving her are a brother, John Nuveen Jr., Chicago investment banker; a sister, Mrs. E. O. Hart of Evanston, and four sons, Winfield, Lawrence, Clifford, and Orville.

The funeral will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday in First Baptist church, Evanston.

Mrs. Fredericka Hedin Dies at 87 in Aurora Home

Mrs. Fredericka Hedin, who had lived in Aurora for the last 67 years, died in her home there yesterday after a brief illness. She was 87 years old. Mrs. Hedin was the mother of Verner Hedin, superintendent of mails in the Aurora postoffice. Three daughters also survive. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 335 Downer place, Aurora. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery there.

Louis M. Ekstrand, Long Active in Waukegan, Dies

Louis M. Ekstrand, 72 years old, a resident of Waukegan for 44 years, died last night in his home there at 730 Lenox avenue. He served for 50 years as district engineer of the American Steel and Wire company, retiring in 1931. For 33 years he was a member of the school boards in Waukegan. Three daughters and four sons survive him. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the Immanuel Baptist church of Waukegan.

Pierce Kyles, Ex-Slave Said to Be 109, Is Dead

Pierce Kyles, colored, who claimed to be 109 years old, died yesterday in his home at 1316 Miller street. According to members of his family, Kyles was born a slave in Columbus, Ga., in 1827.

Things you don't hear through your loudspeaker:

Al Jolson is about ready to sign with an auto sponsor. . . . Rubinoff, now in Europe, will be back on CBS for his motor patron at 6:30, Thursday, Oct. 8. Other motor makers will be on the air the forthcoming season with Fred Astaire, Maj. Bowes, Fred Waring, and with symphonic orchestras and soloists under Erno Rapee and Victor Kolar. . .

Last three girls who have sung with Hal Kemp are headed for the movies. Deane Janis is working for Republic pictures, Doris Robbins is on her way west, and Maxine Grey, his present soloist, has just signed a contract. . . . Guy Lombardo's sponsor not having included Chicago among the outlets for his new CBS series starting Sunday, Sept. 6, the Lombardos are planning to pay for the time themselves in order to have an outlet here, if that is possible.

George Damerel, former husband of Myrtle Vail of "Myrt and Marge" and father of Donna Damerel Kretzinger, who plays Marge, died yesterday in Los Angeles. His daughter was at his side. George Jr. was with his mother in Chicago. Damerel was the original leading man in Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow," creating the rôle of Prince Danilo. Myrtle Vail was a chorus girl in this production. They continued in musical comedy and vaudeville after their marriage. Damerel had been engaged in the realty business in recent years.

Mitzi Green, movie juvenile, will make a guest appearance on the NBC Jamboree at 8 tonight over WMAQ. . . . Ozzie Nelson will be at the Palmer House and on W-G-N for eight weeks starting July 25 and then Little Jack Little is to move in for the fall season. . . . A Maj. Bowes' amateur violated the White House rule forbidding impersonations of the President last Sunday evening.

RCA is broadcasting "live" television shows since Wednesday from its experimental transmitter atop the Empire State building. Previously only films had been used.

C. F. Bounds Give Dinner Party Tonight

Winter Club to Hold Splash Party for Children.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES F. BOUND, the attractive young easterners who have been living in the De Forest Hulburds' gate house since Easter, are giving a dinner party tonight. Mr. Bound is the son of Mrs. Alexander M. Orr of New York. His bride is the former Alva de Acosta Root, daughter of Mrs. Henry Breckenridge of New York and grandniece of Elihu Root. They were married last December. Mr. Bound has been living in Chicago for about three years and last summer was a member of the bachelor group that occupied a house in Lake Forest, some of the others of the group being Philip S. Dalton Jr., William C. Parke, and Andrew Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Bound are planning to go east for a month's visit with their families late in August. Mr. and Mrs. Orr have a summer home in Edgartown, Mass.

Orchestra to Play at Splash Party.

A children's splash party will be held at the Winter club in Lake Forest this afternoon. As an unusual feature an orchestra will play during the events, which start at 3:30 o'clock, and for the refreshment period following.

Children up to 12 years old have been invited to compete in various racing and diving classes, and about 100 are expected. Hixon Glore will be on hand to defend the senior boys' diving championship which he won last year, but Helen Mary Bryan, the girl champion, has outgrown the class and cannot compete.

The novelties include a balloon race for the younger girls, a bloomer race for the older girls, and an apple bobbing contest for small boys. The older boys will compete in a potato race.

George R. Carrs Visit His Brother.

Two attractive visitors in Lake Forest this week-end will be the Misses Katherine and Martha Carr, who will be guests with their father, George R. Carr, of his brother, Robert F. Carr. George Carr went east to meet his daughters when they landed on the Conte di Savoia after a winter at school in Florence, Italy. They have been attending an English girls' school there in which they are the only American students. They plan to return early in September for another year.

Mr. Carr and his daughters arrived in Chicago on Wednesday and are staying at the Lake Shore Drive hotel when in town. The girls are leaving on the 20th for the west coast, escorted by their father, to spend the rest of the summer with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. May, and their grandmother, Mr. Jacob Mortenson, at the Mays' summer home in Vancouver Island. Mr. and Mrs. May live in Pasadena.

Syndicate to Hold Golf Party This Week-end.

Fifteen Minneapolis and St. Paul members of the Syndicate are arriving in Lake Forest today for the Syndicate's annual golfing week-end. The visitors will have two days of golf at the Shoreacres club with the Lake Forest members. The visitors will be guests in Lake Forest homes. The daytime events will be strictly stag, but the one evening party will be a dinner-dance at the club tonight.

Among the men coming from the Twin Cities are Harrison J. Johnston, George and Harry Piper, John Pillsbury, Jack Ordway, Roger Shepard, Sumner McKnight, Edwin White, Homer Sweeney, and John Dalrymple. Among their hosts will be the Lester Armours, the Philip Armours, the junior William E. Clows, the Howard Linns, the William McCormick Blairs, the William H. Mitchells, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams and their daughter, Miss Mary, are leaving next week for their summer home at Charlevoix, Mich. They will go east for the marriage on Aug. 14 of Cyrus Hall Adams III. and Miss Harriet Haynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop C. Haynes of Bronxville, N. Y. The wedding, to take place at Bronxville, will be a small one with only relatives and intimate friends attending. Mr. Adams will take his bride abroad on a wedding trip and upon their return the middle of September they will be at home in a Dearborn parkway apartment.

John W. Valentines Are Hosts at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Valentine celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary last night at a small dinner party. Mrs. Valentine, who is the former Jean Purcell, is going east on Monday to join her two little girls at Green Meadow Farm, Mass., the summer home of Mr. Valentine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Valentine.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Valentine are sailing today from Boston on the Samaria to spend the rest of the summer in England. Miss Jane Valentine is at the Farm for the summer.

Also dinner hosts last night were Mr. and Mrs. William B. Cudahy [Honore White], who entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Dillingham, who are spending the week-end with the Cudahys in Lake Forest. Edward I. Cudahy, with whom the William Cudahys are staying, has taken the John P. Kellogg house for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham [Harriet Barbour] were married recently in Paterson, N. J., and young Mr. Cudahy was an usher for his former

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A NORTH shore woman was discussing with a friend a luncheon which they both had attended, and said that it had been gay and delightful and also not one of the five d's had been mentioned. This aroused curiosity, and it was explained that the five d's barred in conversation, according to the precepts given an earlier generation of Chicago's gentlewomen, were diseases, dress, domestics, descendants, and divorce.

Five d's—Play—Poise.

IT was the late Miss Elizabeth Kirkland, founder of the Kirkland school in Chicago in the early '70s, who laid down the rule of the five d's. Mrs. Frederick T. West, mother of Mrs. Donald F. McPherson; Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, whose mother, the late Mrs. Henry King, offered quarters for the original Kirkland school in the basement of her home; Mrs. Pomeroy—Kitty Pomeroy to her friends; Mrs. Victor Sanborn, Mrs. Hermon Beardsley Butler, and the late Miss Caroline Kirkland were some of the members of the school. It flourished until some time in the '90s, and a study of the Friday club membership today would reveal many old Kirkland school pupils. Most of them, too, probably could repeat any historical date asked wick as a quink. Miss Kirkland's methods in teaching made for permanence, noticeable particularly in history.

THE fact that Max Beerbohm's "The Happy Hypocrite" is now being produced on the London stage, as brought to attention by a photograph of Ivor Novello in the current Town and Country magazine, sent us to the bookshelves to get the tiny volume off the top shelf and reread Mr. Beerbohm's charming fantasy. Mr. Novello plays the rôle of Lord George Hell, the Regency roisterer who, through his pure love for little Jenny La Mere, comes to have the very saint's face of the mask he adopted to win her. Before his regeneration Lord George's reputation had been such that every morning when he walked up Piccadilly other saunterers crossed to the other side in a compact body, "leaving him to the companionship of his bad companions on what is still called the 'shady' side," Mr. Beerbohm points out.

"Indeed, he seemed wholly hardened," the author adds, "and when ladies gathered up their skirts as they passed him he would lightly appraise their ankles."

* *

LORD GEORGE'S equanimity resembles in some slight degree that of the man condemned to hang on the gallows in Cook county some years ago. Asked, just before the black cap was put over his head, if he had anything to say, the condemned man answered, with what undoubtedly was grim humor, "Not at this time."

Catherine M. Palandech to Be Bride Today

Miss Catherine Marie Palandech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Palandech of 7617 Phillips avenue, will become the bride of Robert Edward Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Walsh of 7151 Luella avenue, at 11 o'clock this morning in St. Bride's church. Following the ceremony there will be a reception for relatives and close friends at the Drake hotel.

Mrs. Charles J. Gallagher will attend her sister as matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Loise Abrahamson, Miss Laura Cahill, Miss Dorsey Conners, Miss Rita Houze, Mrs. Joseph J. Rink, and Miss Elizabeth Walsh, the bridegroom's sister. Robert Bohnen will be best man, and ushering will be William S. Friedeman, Charles J. Gallagher, John Geddes, Nathan Kinally, Richard V. Oelerich, and Norman D. Williams.

Miss Palandech is a graduate of the University of Illinois, where she was voted the most popular girl on the campus. Mr. Walsh is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

Tomorrow in Guayaquil, Ecuador, Miss Eleanor Randolph Bean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wyndham R. Bean of 5726 Blackstone avenue, will become the bride of Robert Braxton Jarratt. The ceremony will be performed in the American consulate.

Miss Bean and Mr. Jarratt were to have been married in May, but Mr. Jarratt was detained in South America on business, and so they decided to be married in Ecuador. They will return to the United States next month and make their home in Penns Grove, N. J.

The Beans moved to Chicago recently from Connecticut. Mr. Jarratt is the son of Mrs. Robert B. Jarratt of Penns Grove.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of St. Mark's Episcopal church in Evanston, Miss Eleanor Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Fowler of Evanston, will become the bride of Keith Billings Capron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caprom of Kirkwood, Ill. The Rev. Harold L. Bowen will read the ceremony and a small reception will follow at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, the junior William R. Fowlers, in Winnetka.

Mr. Fowler Jr. will be best man, and two nieces of the bride, Eleanor Rumpf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Rumpf of Albany, N. Y., and Nancy Kimbark Fowler, will attend as flower girls. After a wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. Capron and his bride will make their home in Evanston.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cummings of 6502 Minerva avenue announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Jacintha Cummings Murphy, to William E. Lusby, son of Arthur Stern, 5118 Dorchester avenue, which will take place on July 18 at the Thorndike Hilton chapel.

Rockefeller Fund Spends 12 Million on 1935 Program

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—The Rockefeller Foundation announced today that it spent $12,725,439 in 1935. The funds were expended to advance the foundation's program in China and to continue its activities in the field of public health, medical, natural, and social sciences, and the humanities.

Max Mason, retiring president, disclosed that $2,200,000 was budgeted in 1935 for the work of its international health division. Grants were made for research work on yellow fever, malaria, hookworm, typhoid fever, and other diseases. Governmental agencies also received assistance.

The report stressed the foundation's work in the fields of social structure and functioning, with special reference to practical work done in connection with international relations, social security, and public administration.

Good Morning!

It's the day of the G-Man cycle and no mistake! Mr. Hoover [not Herbert] sure has started something.

"Public Enemy's Wife," while not to be numbered among the great, has some pretty suspenseful moments and a really exciting climax. Its plot sort of develops in bunches.

The first instalment—or whatever you care to call it—is concerned with the threat of Gangster Maroc, who's serving a life term, to his wife who has just finished a three year stretch. He says that if she ever marries again, by hook or crook he'll kill the man she weds.

Instalment 2: Enters G-Man Laird, hot on the trail of another gangster—Correlli. His idea is to follow Judith Maroc and elicit from her information he's sure she has re Correlli. He doesn't—at that time—believe what is the truth—that Judith had been innocent of aiding her husband in the crime of which he was convicted, and has no idea as to the whereabouts of the other rat . . .

Instalment 3: Judith to Palm Beach—there to fall in love with a plump playboy, Thomas Duncan McKay, who begs her to marry him. When the truth comes out—just before the wedding as to who Judith is, and McKay further learns of Maroc's escape from prison and his vow to get Judith's next husband, he, so to speak, deserts her at the altar . . .

G-Man Laird feels that the wedding should take place—for, he thinks, Maroc's pretty sure to show up at the church. He masquerades as McKay . . . Maroc, discovering himself on the spot, fades out of the picture for a time—and the wedding which Mr. Laird had thought would be stopped before the fatal words "I pronounce you man and wife" were spoken, finds himself the husband of a furious young woman . . .

Instalment 4: A honeymoon of sorts . . .

Instalment 5: A kidnaping.

Instalment 6: The ruse of a wife in name only, to let the government—represented by her husband—know where Maroc has her and himself secreted . . . and so to the fadeout which is further proof that there's "always a happy ending in every motion picture you see . . ."

The production is creditably acted and directed and has several stretches of intelligent dialog. There's some rather funny comedy—for which you're grateful.

AREN'T they a relief?

Your Ice Fund Gift May Save Another Baby

BY MARCIA WINN.

This is the story of a cheerful end to a day that started out to be starkly tragic.

It is the story of four Chicagoans, ranging in age from 6 weeks to 74 years, who yesterday in the fierce heat sought—and received—emergency aid from The Tribune Free Ice fund.

First there was Donnie, whose father, an elevator operator, lost his job a week before Donnie was born. His mother is ill and cannot nurse him, so he is fed on a bottle. But his father cannot buy ice to keep the milk fresh.

"What can we do?" the father asked, after he had borrowed 5 cents to telephone THE TRIBUNE. "The baby is practically starving. Does our baby have to starve?"

The answer lay in tickets for 200 pounds of ice, which were rushed out to the father by Miss Edna Mae Wray of the United Charities, administrator of the ice fund.

Next there was the elderly man who walked from his home at 4200 North Kedzie avenue to the loop to ask for ice for his 13 year old child, who, suffering from a stomach disorder, can drink only milk. "I gave him 200 pounds, too," Miss Wray said.

"And then one old man, 74 years old, came into my office," Miss Wray related. "He and his wife both have heart trouble. He was puffing so I thought he would collapse right in my office. I couldn't turn him down—I haven't turned any one down yet. You just can't do anything else in this heat but give them ice—as long as you have it.

"Why," she went on, "one woman with eight babies came in here today. The oldest child was 9, the baby is 6 months old. They all have to have milk. She said she tried to cool it with running water, but you know how little good that does. . . . Oh, yes, I gave her ice tickets, too. You should have seen her face. She was so happy she began to cry."

No emergency calls for aid have gone unanswered yet if the need is real, but the continuance of that "yet" rests with the readers of THE TRIBUNE and their contributions.

Yesterday's contributions to the free ice fund were:

C. B. B.	$ 5.00
S. E. Phillips	5.00
Mrs. Samuel Spiro	5.00
Previously acknowledged	1,475.59
Grand total	$1,515.59

Contributions to the Camp Algonquin fund are:

C. B. B.	$ 5.00
Mrs. Samuel Spiro	25.00
Previously acknowledged	442.01
Grand total	$472.01

A gift of $9.10 will send a child to Camp Algonquin for two weeks. A gift of $25.20 will send a mother and her two children. A gift of $1 will keep a baby's milk cool for a week. If you can help, send your contribution to THE TRIBUNE cashier, Tribune Tower. It will be acknowledged gratefully.

Baptist Young People Told First Voters Will Elect Next President

The reponsibility of youth was emphasized yesterday at the 45th convention of the Baptist Young People's union at the Stevens hotel when a speaker declared that first voters will determine the November election.

The speaker, Dr. Joseph A. Cooper of New York, a Northern Baptist convention official, declared that 10,000,000 voters who have come of age since 1932 will elect the next president, and he said youth should prepare for the responsibility.

Dr. Cooper told youth that "doing the thing at hand the best we know is fine preparation for larger services."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

An aid to summer freshness: A gardenia cologne in a light version of the scent perfumes the skin delicately and keeps you beautifully cool and refreshed.

When the temperature gets really tough [and it's certainly been behaving like a gangster lately] you can have your air conditioning or your ice cream cones—but we'll take one of our favorite gardenia colognes, oceans and oceans of it.

This is a gardenia version that is definitly light—and maybe that's just as well, because the usual gardenia can be a little sultry on a too hot day. This has lots of lilt and it's divinely cooling, as a great many women are discovering. When we went backstage one hot night not long ago to see an actress friend we found her in her dressing room just slathering it on; she said she couldn't live without it. We had some, too, and felt better.

The scent is lasting. If you use it in the morning after your bath you'll be just sufficiently perfumed and your skin will feel beautifully cool and refreshed. But the best trick of all is to keep it close at hand during the day. There are a thousand and one refreshing ways to use it.

One woman we know douses it on her handkerchief every few hours. A sniff occasionally is a grand pick up for her. We prefer to use it on wrists and forehead, though, or to let it trickle down the back of the neck. This done you can look at the thermometer without breaking that commandment about taking the name of the Lord in vain.

It's also a good idea to use this lilting gardenia cologne the very last thing at night. Sprinkle it on generously [the handsome crystal bottle has the kind of neck that permits this] and pat it in all over the body. You'll not only feel a hundred times cooler but you'll feel pretty luxurious for yourself—as though you were courting sleep in a wind swept tropical garden where snowy gardenias abound. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Cavallo Band Displays Noted Tone Quality

Cavallo's Symphonic band, whose distinguishing characteristic is a tone quality of the utmost brilliance and incisiveness, was the attraction at Grant park last night. A bumper crop of band fanciers filled the great field to the south of the shell.

The veteran leader, P. A. Cavallo, has worked out effects which approach the very limits of sonority—even for outdoor music. The fantasie on themes from Boïto's "Mephistophelcs," not performed here in this form for twenty years, was as imposing a display of power as another two decades of band concerts is likely to offer.

A program planned skillfully to exploit the advantages of this extreme brilliance, and to minimize its disadvantages, ran mostly to music of a type which can profit by the opulent instrumentation of a group like this. Examples are the "Tannhäuser" overture and the Ravel "Bolero."

The evening was not entirely lacking in lyric movements. Messrs. Covone and Dufrasne, playing flute and horn respectively, were heard in the Titl "Serenade"; the second part of the program offered the "Londonderry Air."

Another lyric touch was the presentation of two popular ditties by the Cavallo modern choir. This group of twenty singers, chosen from among Carl Craven's artist students, has been developed by P. A. Cavallo Jr. He took the baton during the modern choir's numbers last night and, with the support of the band, gave a smooth and tonally gratifying performance of the tunes which he himself had arranged in this form.—E. B.

Fringed Jackets Among Fashion Finds of Year

Will Add Swank Touch to Many Costumes.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The find of the summer! More jackets, but what jackets. So clever, so new, and so excitingly fashioned of fringe that you can wear them the year around. And that's something; ask any thrifty clothes collector. These new arrivals are fringed chiffon affairs. The rows and rows of fringe, about an inch and a half deep, are sewed onto a base of chiffon the same color as the fringe, so that each row overlaps the row under it.

These jackets are gay, swinging creations that you'll lose your heart to, at the very first sight.

The sleeves are long and fitted, the streamline is semi-fitted, there's no collar, and no revers, just a Spanish looking long bolero-type jacket reaching the hipline. Even though the fringe is attached to the chiffon in horizontal rows these jackets are the slimmest things you can wear. Five colors are available: ice white, dull black, ginger brown, navy blue, and kelly green. The price marks are far less than you would suppose for such smart and practical finds. What you can achieve in the way of an unusual costume with one of these snappy fringed jackets is unlimited. They will be perfect for summer chiffons, for dull crêpes, for gleaming, high-fashion satins, for velvets, and for taffetas.

These jackets will give added snap to separate skirts of crêpe, to slightly worn and otherwise good nets, even mousseline de soie, and lace gowns. They will also combine with any material for cocktail or dinner clothes. And for the chilly soul who shivers, rather than wear pluggy looking, but warm jackets over next to nothing dinner or evening clothes, they are prize pets of the year.

Sally to Announce Hundred Party Guests in Tribune Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

There'll be lots of jolly good news in tomorrow's TRIBUNE for all the boys and girls interested in having a good time!

First of all, the youngsters who wrote in for invitations to our Palace theater party, which takes place next Thursday, will know whether they were successful, because THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE will carry the names of 50 boys and 50 girls who will be invited to be my guests on July 16.

We're going to see a gay musical comedy, "It's Love Again," on the screen and on the stage such celebrities as Phil Baker and his stooges, Beetle and Bottle, Connie Boswell, a roller skating act and a number of other excellent entertainers. So if you find your name in that list you'll have good reason to be delighted.

And for those who aren't winners, we have consolation in the form of the announcement of our next big party—and if you aren't tickled pink with it, I guess I just don't know what boys and girls like—and, after taking youngsters on hundreds of parties, I'm sure that almost any kid in the world will enjoy our next one. Just see if you don't agree with me.

Miss Caroline Buck, one of the Nelson L. Bucks' daughters, does not spend much time in Evanston during the summer, for her parents have two summer places, Thunder Mountain ranch at Crivitz, Wis., and a cabin at the Wausaukee club in the same state. When she is at home, however, she often swims in the beautiful pool at the Glen View club, where this picture was taken.

SHERIDAN ROAD

By Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Eden Faraday, young secretary, opens the door of a taxi and finds a man murdered. She is taken to the police station where she meets Jack Garnett, newspaper cameraman, and Owen Field, assistant district attorney, who arranges her release. Eden had been mistaken for Gracie Lincoln, a gunman's widow. The man murdered was a notorious gangster, Grappi. Eden's mother, Bridget Faraday, sells gowns and is in love with suave Sidney Creighton. Eden and her spoiled young sister, Robin, and brother, Coburn, depend on their peppery grandmother. Because of rumor that Eden can identify the murderers Owen Field has her guarded. Raquel Husak, an older woman, is trying to force Coburn Faraday to marry her. While at a roadhouse with Raquel, Coburn sees his sister Robin come in with Sidney Creighton. Eden goes with Garnett to see Gracie Lincoln, now married to Clint Jarvis, a taxi driver. Clint has been forced to drive the murderers of Grappi. Eden's grandmother is a friend of Mat Burke, district attorney. Eden promises to help Clint gain an audience with Burke. Clint is ordered by his underworld boss to go back to work nights. Coburn tells Eden about Raquel and asks her to get him money to go away. She promises to do so. Clint Jarvis is deliberately run down by a car while on his way to see Burke. Eden, accompanied by Gran, goes with Garnett to bring Gracie to the hospital.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

A SINISTER MENACE.

Garnett looked sober. "I don't know about that. I think you ought to talk to some one first—Burke or Field. I think they should know when you leave this building. They're protecting you and we ought to give them a break."

"You think there is danger——"

"This is crime," Garnett said. "An unlovely, ancient burden of the human race. It's a business with no code and no rules except the survival of the most ruthless, the boldest, and the cleverest. Sometimes the law is swift enough, bold enough, and ruthless enough—sometimes not. If Clint rallies enough today to make a statement several sorts of hell may be popping before night. I'd rather you waited here till I call Burke."

But she must, Eden protested, get back to the office. She could not tell them about Coburn, or the money she had promised to take to the La Salle street station. But unless she was free to go she would have to tell. She looked at Gran—at her little feet which missed touching the floor by an inch. Gran's hands, in black kid gloves, were clasped in a tight knot in her lap. She was still and cool but under her slightly crooked hat her eyes were feverishly bright. Gran was having a thrill, and nothing, not even the sinister brooding menace that overshadowed everything, could make her afraid.

Quickly Eden made up her mind. "All right. Call Martin Burke. And then some one must take Gran home."

"Catsfoot—I don't need any bodyguard. If there's nothing that can be done for that poor child upstairs, call a taxi for me and I'll go home by myself."

"I think we won't let you go by yourself," Garnett said. "Wait here while I telephone."

He walked rapidly away and Eden moved close to Gran, keeping her voice low so that the worried looking mechanic who stood near the window could not hear.

"Listen, Gran—listen carefully and don't answer. Your voice carries more than you realize."

"I know. I had to learn that forty years ago. I had to learn to be heard in the gallery."

"This is what you have to do, Gran. They may keep me here. I meant to do it myself—but I may not be able to get away. Get a hundred dollars. Get it anywhere you can—but get it. Ask Mr. McLachlan to lend it to you—tell him I'll pay it back—but get it. No—don't talk. Take the money to the La Salle street station at 12 o'clock. Coburn will be there—at the gate by the clock. Give him the money and ask him no questions. Will you do it, Gran?"

Gran's cheeks were flaming, she quivered, fairly bursting with curious questions, but she swallowed gamely, blinked a little.

"Yes, I'll do it."

"Hadn't you better wait for Jack Garnett?"

"And have him getting me all cluttered up with policemen? Not me."

Garnett came out of the telephone booth as Field walked down the hall.

Garnett was casual. "I was just calling your office, Field. Clint Jarvis is upstairs. He knows the men who killed Grappi—he was on his way to talk to Burke when they smashed him up—wrecked his taxi with a truck. He's still unconscious but if he comes around he will probably talk."

Field looked at the news photographer only briefly. His eyes were on Eden. He was obviously annoyed.

"You shouldn't be here," he said, "I wished you not to identify yourself with this case any further. You can realize the necessity of that, I'm sure."

"Please—I'll explain. I went out with Jack Garnett to bring this boy's wife to the hospital, Mr. Field. I went of my own accord and over Mr. Garnett's opposition. My grandmother went with us. I felt that I was partly to blame——"

"How could you possibly be to blame?"

"You don't know all that I have done, Mr. Field. You see, I sent Clint Jarvis to see Martin Burke—this morning. I arranged the meeting. He—wanted to talk—but they got him."

A nurse, interrupting, said, "Would you mind talking in one of the waiting rooms?"

"I'm going back upstairs," Garnett said. "Probably you'd better look after Eden, Mr. Field—I was telephoning about that when you came in. I want to be around when Clint comes out of the coma. I want to talk to Gracie."

"Gracie?" Field almost barked, "Gracie Lincoln? You took Miss Faraday out to bring that girl here, Garnett? You're pretty rash, aren't you? Not only rash but confoundedly meddlesome. What on earth do you mean by exposing this girl to such risks?"

"Please—go Jack. I'll explain," Eden said.

Garnett walked away, his jaw clamped. Some day, his inner fury comforted him, he would tell this fellow a few things. But after all she had called him Jack.

"Now," Field said to Eden, "I'll take you home."

"I'm not going home just now, thank you. I must go to the office."

"Sorry to be dictatorial, but I think we won't let you go to the office today. My car's outside. I'll take you home now."

Eden followed him without argument. Even Garnett had urged her not to go to McLachlan's. And too, she wanted to know what had happened to Coburn.

At the door a tall man with a grim jaw fell in beside them, opened the door of the car for her, touched his hat to Field as they moved away.

They had gone two blocks when Eden made a timid suggestion. "If you're trying to solve this case shouldn't you have tried to talk to Clint Jarvis? He knows who killed Grappi."

"My dear girl, I'm not trying to solve the case. That's for the police and the homicide squad—and the reporters," he added with a touch of the sardonic. "My job is to convict the people they finally arrest and to protect you and the rest of our witnesses. Besides—it seems not to be necessary to bother about the case—the newspaper men are taking care of it with their usual reckless enthusiasm and lack of common sense."

"But—if they find the criminals?"

"They won't find them. They'll embarrass innocent people, get a lot of wrong answers, put people like you in danger, and turn up everything that we want hidden. Did it ever occur to you that this young Jarvis probably killed Grappi himself?"

"Clint Jarvis? He couldn't—he didn't——"

"I suspect that the police are going to think that he could—and did."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Gives Rules for Success in Canning Foods

Freshness and Cleanliness Are Important.

"Cold Plates to Tempt Summer Appetites," a booklet of tempting menu plans and accompanying recipes for summer days, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

A stitch in time saves nine what? In my early youth I had a vague picture of Father Time resting his sickle long enough to take a huge stitch in his flowing robe, and close a big gap. But I couldn't make out what nine things were saved by that action.

Now I think that it must have been nine jars of canned fruit and vegetables which were saved. And that any stitch to shorten the gap of time from garden to processing kettle does the saving. The sooner fruits and vegetables are canned after they have been gathered, the better are their chances for keeping.

The ideal way would be to go to the garden, bring in a basket of beets or beans, and immediately prepare them for processing. For enzymes present in the plant tissues bring about changes after the vegetables are gathered which increase chances of spoiling, and also destroy flavor. We can't all go to the garden, but we can be fussy about the fruit and vegetables we buy for canning. We can insist upon freshness, and we can make a careful inspection to see that fruit is firm and not overripe, and that vegetables are crisp.

Cleanliness is next to freshness. There must be no compromise with the bacteria that cause spoilage. This means clean fruits and vegetables, the most sanitary methods of preparing them, and thoroughly clean jars and lids. For the open kettle method the jars should be washed in hot suds, rinsed, and then boiled for at least fifteen minutes.

There are several methods of canning. The open kettle method was grandmother's way, and it is safe for fruit and tomatoes, which contain enough acid to protect them against spoilage, but the best method for canning fruits and tomatoes is by the hot water bath method. This retains the flavor, the shape, and the food values better. Oven canning is also used for acid foods.

The newest method of canning vegetables is by use of the pressure cooker. It shortens the canning time because of the speed with which it reaches a temperature which will kill heat resisting bacteria. The pressure cooker is indispensable if you are planning to can nonacid vegetables such as peas, asparagus, string beans, or corn, because only by this means can you be sure of destroying bacteria spores which thrive in a nonacid medium. If you haven't a pressure cooker or can't obtain one, it is better to buy these vegetables already canned unless you want to run the risk of food poisoning.

Here are six primary rules to observe in canning these types of foods:

1. Use fresh, firm, and clean fruits or vegetables, and clean, sterile jars.
2. Pack the material in a way to secure the best heat penetration. Corn, peas, beans, etc., should be packed loosely, fruits and tomatoes rather solidly because of the shrinkage which will occur.
3. Use a reliable time table, and process the fruit or vegetable for the length of time suggested.
4. Be sure you have a perfect seal. Never use old jar lids.
5. Cool the jars quickly after processing. Spores from heat resisting bacteria will begin to develop otherwise. [Of course, you shouldn't use any artificial method of cooling which will break the hot jars.]
6. Store in a cool, dark place.

Jonah's Fish.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Could any one ask for a simpler yet more attractive and amusing quilt pattern for a child's bed than "Jonah's Fish"? Even the adult may be allowed to enjoy this pattern in adult surroundings, since "Jonah's Fish" would make excellent marine decoration when clipped from wallpaper and applied to the bathroom wall and covered with a coat of shellac or lacker. According to the original quilt this fellow must be a member of the sun fish family, since the material used was bright yellow with green and blue figures with black and yellow circles outlining the eyes.

Simple Outfit for Sports

JUNIOR GIRL'S SPORTS OUTFIT.

Do you often stare hopelessly at a sewing machine and wonder how on earth other women manage to have such smart attire which they create themselves? Does the prospect of making a garment for yourself fill you with dread or failure? Well, cheer up! There is no time like the present to begin sewing for yourself. You will enjoy it, and be smartly dressed with surprising economy.

Why not begin your dressmaking career with the lovely sports model illustrated today? The active sports dress is delightfully easy to cut and sew, and the accompanying bolero equally so. The frock is plain as can be, with deft touches here and there which dress it up immensely. These touches, however, are not difficult to achieve. Pert bows accent the shoulder line, and the neckline is square and bound. The bodice is pointed on the bias. The skirt has two action plaits, necessary for comfort when one is walking over the golf course or running around a tennis court. The back is cut low for sun-tanning.

The little bolero has kimono sleeves, so you won't have to worry about the armhole problem. The jacket is collarless, too, eliminating another Waterloo of fitting.

Gay cottons are quite the smartest mediums for this ensemble. Color contrast is important, too. Buy the bias binding by the yard, and have it contrast with the basic shade of the frock and match the belt and bolero.

Style No. 3130 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material for the dress, with ⅞ yard of 39 inch fabric for jacket, with 6 yards of binding.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Johnston [Deborah Butler] who honeymooned in Honolulu, as did the Cudahys, are entertaining at cocktails this afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham. It will be the first party they have given in their new home in Waukegan road, Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III. [Jean Schweppe], who also went to Honolulu on their wedding trip, will give a dinner tonight in their new residence in Lake Forest for the visitors.

W. Dow Harveys Parents of Twins.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Dow Harvey are receiving congratulations upon the birth of twins, a boy and a girl, last Monday at the Evanston hospital. The infants are grandchildren of Mrs. John V. Farwell, and their mother is the former Lucy Smith. The boy has been named Elliott for his uncle, Elliott Dunlap Smith, who is a professor at Yale, and the girl has been named Lucy Suzanne for her mother and great-grandmother, the late Lucy L. Flower, and for an old friend of Mrs. Harvey's, Mrs. Robert T. Wilson of Sewickley, Pa.

Soon after Mrs. Harvey and the babies return to their home at Macomb, Ill., they will go to Pentwater, Mich., with Harriet and Julia Harvey to spend the summer. Mr. Harvey and William, the oldest child, are going out to Colorado on a fishing trip, and will join the rest of the family in Michigan later.

Mrs. Edmund Gifford, the former Ethel D'Arcy Harmon, has returned home with her infant daughter who was born on June 26 at the Highland Park hospital. The baby is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Harmon of Highland Park.

According to CULBERTSON

PLAYING SAFE.

At times players are forced to hairline decisions that no degree of expertness, in fact nothing short of clairvoyance, can insure for correctness. What the British Bridge World magazine calls the "most discussed hand of the year" falls squarely into this category. It was played in a team-of-four match in England, the results on this one hand virtually deciding the match. The hand was:

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♠ 9
♥ Q J 9 8 2
♦ 10 7 5

WEST
♠ A K Q J 10 8
♥ A 10 5
♦ Q J

EAST
♠ 5 4 3 2
♥ K 7 6 4 3
♦ None
♣ J 10 6 4

SOUTH
♠ 7 6
♥ None
♦ A K 9 8 6 4 3 2
♣ A Q 5

In one room the bidding ended at five spades doubled and, undoubtedly through poor defense, the contract was fulfilled.

In the other room the bidding was as follows:

West	North	East	South
2 sp.	Pass	3 sp.	4 di.
4 sp.	5 di.	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	5 sp.	6 di.
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

In fairness to the West player I must point out that he was not playing any of the American systems in which an opening two bid means an enormous hand. I am not quite sure what his two bid did mean, probably a hand containing about seven playing tricks and three honor tricks. At any rate, this is not the "hairline decision" I mentioned in my preamble. The important phase of the bidding revolves around the final contract.

Since West could not be certain of defeating the diamond slam [his pass evidenced the fact that he wasn't certain] a simple matter of percentage should have pointed out the safe course. West knew positively that he could not be slaughtered at six spades, since he was not vulnerable, whereas in passing to the six diamond double he was risking the loss of 1,500 points. Certainly he could not hope to defeat the bid more than one trick, which would have meant 200 points. Add to this latter amount the 300, or even 500 points that six spades might be set. Thus it will be seen that the possible gain from permitting the six diamond double to stand was 700 points, to the possible loss of 1,500.

And that is the guide to close decisions!

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: I was the dealer and took a long time to decide whether to bid or pass. Finally I passed. An opponent claimed this to be unethical. Was he justified?

Answer: Yes. The inference is unmistakable that you have a good hand, whereas this information is not conveyed by the words, "I pass." Of course, your partner should not take advantage of this illegal passage of information, but it is unfair to put him in an embarrassing position. It is not, however, unethical to hesitate before making a bid.

Movie Stars Allow Figures to Dictate Their Dieting

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Janet Gaynor has never had to diet, and her weight, the year around, averages 100 pounds. And her favorite food is spaghetti!

Says Janet: "I do not believe women can safely engage in starvation diets and keep their good health. The few pounds I gain between pictures always vanish from the expenditure of nervous energy when I am working. I've never had to diet yet on account of weight, and hope I never shall."

Rochelle Hudson explains: "I can eat anything I want within reason, and never gain a pound. If I ever should have to reduce, however, I'm sure I'd never attempt it without consulting a dietitian first, and have him prescribe a proper course to follow."

Alice Faye, on the other hand, says she has to keep constant vigil on her diet because she can become overweight as quickly as you can blink an eye. "It is all right if I stay away from starchy foods, which I aim to do at all times, but some one is always tempting me with a delicious home-cooked dinner, or a specially prepared dessert, and it requires a lot of will power to refuse! So I stick to lean meats, fruit juices and vegetables. I have no cut and dried menu for breakfast, lunch, and dinner. But I do watch the calories."

June Lang, who has one of the loveliest figures in pictures, says her "worry" is not so much overweight as it is to weigh enough.

"I exercise so much, swimming, walking, and playing tennis that I am usually underweight for my height. It is difficult to pick up pounds when you remain active and eat only normal meals."

Astrid Allwyn keeps fit by watching her calories.

"I eat all that I need for proper nourishment," she said, "but I leave the starches alone, and that applies to ice cream, too. And what a hardship that is, for I do enjoy a palatable sundae! I have no regular diet that I follow, but I drink quite a lot of fruit juices during the day, and frequently make a luncheon of a large glass of orange juice, nothing else."

Sunday Ideal Day for Family Outings, Trips

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Yesterday, we discussed this matter of that great institution, the American Sunday dinner, and suggested an occasional substitution so that the day would be free for other things. You even could shift that midday dinner to 7 o'clock, if such a scheme fitted your Sunday's plans.

Then be off, all of you, to one of the interesting, instructive, or absorbing things there are to be done, seen, or experienced when the family is all free on the same day.

Any city has enough interests to absorb the week-end leisure of a family over a long period of time. There are parks, museums, zoos, boat rides, bus rides, walks through the state parks and countrysides, places with picnicking facilities, including open fireplaces. There are free concerts and recitals in many places, and exhibitions of various kinds, artistic, mechanical, and so forth.

Vacationing away from home even for a day can make your home life refocus itself into the proper perspective—make you enjoy it all the more.

And perhaps you'll unexpectedly find that your small son's behavior which has been bothering you, and your older daughter's attitude, which has been worrying you really are nothing but small misdemeanors, and they will fall into their rightful place of minor importance.

Miss Charl Williams Arrives for Meeting of Business Women

Declaring that individual exercise in thinking is one of the most constructive goals any group can set for itself, Miss Charl O. Williams, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, arrived in Chicago yesterday preparatory to the opening of the federation's 17th annual board meeting on Monday in the Stevens hotel.

"Five per cent of the people think," said Miss Williams. "Ten per cent think that they think and 85 per cent would rather die than think," commented Miss Williams. "The business and professional women are putting their brains to work on social, economic, and political problems because they want to strive and survive."

"If business women are to survive in the political and economic world they must tackle problems as men go after them," she said.

Miss Williams has just completed a two months' trip throughout the far west in the interest of the federation. The organization's membership is at a new high of 61,000 women wage earners in all parts of the United States, Alaska, and Hawaii.

Texas Rangers Nearly Lose to Film Fan Mob

Robert Taylor's Clothes Torn Despite Guards.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Robert Taylor flew back from Dallas, pinching himself to see if he were still in one piece after the mobbing he got there. Taylor was sent to the Texas Centennial as the exposition's first choice from movieland. He made a personal appearance in the Cotton bowl to permit himself to be interviewed by a Dallas drama editor. Thirty-one thousand persons jammed the stadium at $1 to $3.30. That number is 3,000 more than went to the same bowl to listen to President Roosevelt recently when no admission was charged.

On the way through the entrance tunnel young Taylor was to meet and shake hands with winners of Texas regional beauty and popularity contests. Two Texas rangers guarded him because it turned out that 500 women had sneaked into the tunnel to see the current masculine movie idol.

As he shook hands with her the girl swooned in his arms. "Let one of these rangers take care of the girl," whispered Dean Dorn, who had been flown down to Dallas by Taylor's studio to help see him through his four days as the Centennial's guest. "Nothin' doin'," Taylor whispered back to Dorn, "this girl is too good looking."

The girl came to, looked into Taylor's eyes, and fainted again.

"Gosh," said Taylor, "maybe I'd better ask the rangers what to do. This is getting too much for me."

The women tried to pull Taylor's shirt off and got pieces of Dorn's shirt and those of his ranger guards as well in the general riot.

The extreme popularity which has been focused on young Taylor by feminine film fans has exceeded even the high spot of the Clark Gable rage. It probably represents the biggest surge of such enthusiasm since the days of Valentino, although, of course, Valentino's popularity endured and increased for four or five years.

Taylor was half stunned by the admiration at Dallas. What brought this feeling to a head was his experience on the dance floor at the Club Maurice, where a guard of rangers had to form around Bob and march about the dance floor, surrounding him and his partners during dances.

Don Milo, Taylor's friend from collerking days in the bank, and now his stand-in, and Al Manuel, another friend, went to Dallas with the young star as personal bodyguards.

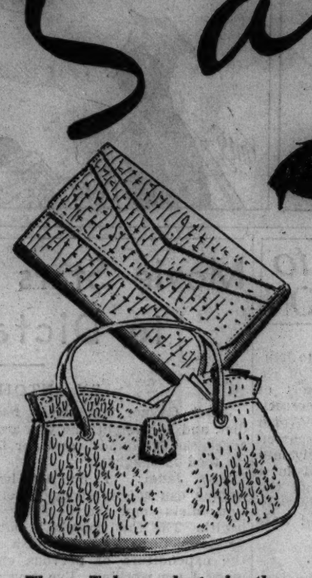
Saturday Review

Almost three months of summer ahead—if September runs true to form. Saturday Review advises you to build your wardrobe with this in mind—to insure a sufficiency of summer clothes later on when it's too late to find a good selection. Featured here are fashions of the type that will see you through to Fall.



$3

These Tukway bags in the snowiest of whites seem designed especially for summer activities. For shopping, for dressy afternoons, for a day at the races—you'll find them roomy enough for all those essentials you will want to take along. They are made of fine grain calf which washes beautifully. We sketch an envelope and a top-handle bag, two of many styles, all priced at $3 each. Of course all of them have the famous Tukway safety back pocket.

Handbags, First Floor.

65c pair

Keep cool—but keep your gloves on! It's a great temptation when the mercury rises to cast gloves aside—yet they do add a finish to your costume. You'll retain the chic look and still be cool if you wear these Bemberg mesh gloves. Simply tailored in the smart six button length. In white, brown, black. Special at 65c pair. Also ribbed Bembergs with novelty cuffs in white, brown, black, and navy.

Gloves, First Floor.

Dorothy Gray's Transparent Salon Powder, $1.50. Quick Cleansing Lotion Complimentary.

With every box of Dorothy Gray's Transparent Salon Face Powder, the powder that gives a gauzy make-up which clings for hours, smoothly and evenly, giving the skin lasting flower-like bloom, we are offering you a bottle of Quick Cleansing Lotion. Once you experience the cool, easy way it freshens your skin you'll never be without it—least of all in summer.

150 French Room Hats Reduced

Think of it! An opportunity to select hats from our French Room at this far-below-usual price! And so early in the season, with two months or more ahead in which to wear them correctly. Styles that were a jump ahead when they first came in are at the peak of their importance now. All are highly individual, all are exquisitely made, and there's every imaginable shape from the beret to the cartwheel. Remember, just 150. Reduced to $5 each.

French Room, Fifth Floor.

Marquisette comes into the picture, persuaded by the new fashion for very sheer fabrics in dark shades. Crisp white organdy accents are in striking contrast to the softness of the fabric. The frock is a smart tunic style. In black, with a matching slip. 12 to 20. $16.95.

Misses' Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

A white lingerie touch gives this Teenya sheer frock immediate importance in your summer wardrobe. The dark colors will carry it through successfully to Fall. SOX BEAT BOSTON, 8-2; CUBS WHIP DODGERS, 6-2

LEWIS POUNDS MAREK TO TEN ROUND DEFEAT

Also Gains $1,200 by Pre-Fight Deal.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion of the world, decisively defeated Max Marek, Chicago heavyweight, last night at Comiskey park. The decision was unanimous. The colored champion, although outweighed nearly nine pounds, had a decided edge in all except the third round, which Marek won, and the second and tenth, which were even.

Official attendance was 7,144 and the gross receipts were $15,734. Under the arrangement arrived at in the offices of the Illinois athletic commission yesterday afternoon when Marek refused to fight unless assured he would receive his guaranty of $2,500. Lewis profited handsomely. The champion agreed to take 50 per cent of the net receipts, after 5 per cent had been deducted for charity, and to pay Marek's guarantee. Originally Lewis had been signed for $2,500 with a privilege of 25 per cent of the net.

Marek was soundly beaten, but he finished strongly and stood up gallantly under a heavy body attack. Ability to penetrate Marek's defense in close quarters and sharper and more accurate punching earned Lewis the decision.

After a cautious opening round, Marek rushed Lewis and earned a draw in the second, although he caught a sharp, jolting left hook to the head midway in the round. The third round was Marek's best. He opened a gash over Lewis' right eye. First aid stemmed the flow of blood, and it wasn't until the final round that Marek again caught the eye with a damaging blow.

Resumes Body Attack.

Lewis resumed body punching in the fourth round and from then until the ninth the action was cut from the same pattern. In he seventh Marek rushed with new determination, but his blows, widely flung hooks with both hands, were easily avoided by the colored fighter.

In the ninth round Marek forced Lewis to his corner and scored with both hands. Lewis slipped and fell into the ropes, whereupon photographers fired a series of flashes for their pictures.

Marek rallied in the tenth and, although he connected soundly, much of the power of his punches was gone. It was a splendid finish and remarkable because the ring lights added to the intense heat.

Golden Glovers Win.

Two former Golden Gloves champions won decisions. Al Nettlow defeated Chief Webster of Wilwaukee in the opening four rounder. They are lightweights. Dave Clark, last year's international middleweight Golden Gloves titleholder, now a light heavyweight, won a five round decision over George Vallas of Birmingham.

Eddie Ward, another Golden Glover, fought a draw with George Dixon, Chicago lightweight. Other results were: Honeyboy Jones, Pittsburgh middleweight, defeated Harvey Massey, New Orleans, in five rounds; Red Bruce, Buffalo light heavyweight, whipped Cowboy Edgren, Cheyenne heavyweight; Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y., heavyweight, knocked out Walter [Red] Brennan, Niagara Falls, N. Y., in five rounds and Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., heavyweight, beat Vincent Parille, South America, in six rounds.

7 TENNIS PROS SUSPENDED AS TOURNEY NEARS

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Seven outstanding pro tennis players, including Big Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines, and Vincent Richards, were suspended today by the Professional Lawn Tennis Association of the United States, only a few days before the start of the professional championship tournament.

The suspensions were for violation of the sanction rule in performances at the Orange, N. J., Tennis club, the Clifton Tennis club of Staten Island, and the Pelham, N. Y., Country club. Permission was originally given for Richards, George Lott, Bruce Barnes, and Lester Stoefen to appear at Orange, no substitutions being permitted. As a result of the appearances of unauthorized substitutes, those four, Tilden, Vines, and Alfred L. Chapin Jr. were suspended.

Cochrane Leaves West Today for Detroit Home

Cody, Wyo., July 10.—(AP)—Mickey Cochrane, catcher-manager of the Detroit Tigers, arrived in town tonight with his family from a dude ranch with the announced intention of leaving for the east tomorrow morning. Cochrane was suffering from a slight cold, but otherwise appeared in excellent condition.

Humphreys, Veteran Fight Figure, Dies

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Joe Humphreys, famous sports manager, died at his Fair Haven, N. J., home this afternoon of heart trouble. Physicians said he had been greatly weakened by the heat. At his bedside where his daughter-in-law, son and grandson. He was 64 years old.

Humphreys, a prominent figure in boxing circles for 35 years, suffered several strokes recently and had been inactive. He spent most of last winter in Florida.

Continues as Announcer.

Since the days of John L. Sullivan Joe Humphreys had been a colorful figure in the world of brawn and fists that produced such characters as Jack Dempsey, Tex Rickard, Gene Tunney, Jimmy Johnston, Jack Kearns, Benny Leonard, and scores of others.

Goes When Paid to Go.

And lether lunged Joe was as picturesque as the best of them—an ex-bartender whose greatest hobby was Mother's day, a fight announcer who never went to fights unless he was paid to go, and even then didn't pay much attention to the fighting.

He was born Oct. 19, 1872, at 54 Oliver street, just around the corner from Al Smith's birthplace. He always said he played marbles with Smith, but if pressed would admit he "hardly just knew Al as a kid."

Orphaned when he was 10, Humphreys sold newspapers shined shoes, tore the backs off 10,000 hymnals because of some error in printing, earned dimes by lighting fires for Orthodox Jews on Saturday and at last made his debut as an announcer at Gus Majsch's Little Casino.

Voice Heard by Sullivan.

In his time his thundering voice was heard by John L., by Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Corbett, Jim Jeffries, Gus Ruhlin, Tom Sharkey. The little fellows, too, heard him—Joe Gans, George Dixon, Kid Lavigne, Young Griffo and the rest.

Two fights he remembered as classics. The fifteen round bout between Kid Lavigne and the colored boxer, Joe Walcott, at Maspeth, Queens, when Walcott not only failed to knock out Lavigne but was lucky to stay on his own feet, and the Dempsey-Firpo classic ten years ago.

"Walcott and Lavigne—the greatest of all fights," he used to say. "Dempsey and Firpo second, for spectacular quality. And I announced them both."

HYDE PARK STAKE DRAWS 19 TODAY AT ARLINGTON

BY FRENCH LANE.

[ODDS AND JOCKIES ON PAGE 18.]

A good way to be impressed with the ripe old age of the Hyde Park stakes which will be renewed at Arlington this afternoon is to turn up the gas lights and read over a copy of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of July 5, 1884.

"Extraordinary racing—today. The Hyde Park stakes," reads the advertisment. "The most valuable 2 year old stake of the year, including the best 2 year olds of America."

In the Pink Tights Days.

The big news of the day came from Cleveland, where the Democrats in convention were all set to nominate Grover Cleveland, who became the 22d President of the United States.

Boston was leading the old National league and Chicago had drubbed the New York Giants by a score of 6 to 4.

That advertisment in THE TRIBUNE heralded the first running of the Hyde Park stakes, which drew the carriage trade from Chicago's Gold coast in large numbers.

To old Washington park at 61st street and Cottage Grove avenue they went to see the race. The ladies wore bustles and the men bristling mustaches and streamlined bowler hats of all shades and sizes.

Betting Ring Is Thronged.

The betting ring was thronged with men bearing large pocketbooks from which they extracted wads of greenbacks. The betting pool had been made up the night before at the old Palmer house.

"The favorites were beaten in every race" reads the next issue of THE TRIBUNE. A high wind made it uncomfortable for the spectators. The Hyde Park was run over a three-quarter mile course. Bootblack was the early front runner, but was soon caught by Verano, which won easily in 1:19, beating Belle Pate by a length, with Joe Cotton third. The following year Joe Cotton won the Kentucky Derby.

Race Revived in 1929.

So began the Hyde Park stakes, which continued to run at the old Washington Park each year up to and including 1903. It was revived by the Arlington Park Jocky club in 1929 and annually attracts the same nation-wide interest that it did when it was run over the older track.

For the renewal this afternoon 19 were named in the overnight field. The brightest 2 year old prospects from the east, the west, the north and south are included in it. It will be easily possible for the 2 year old champion of the year to come out of the race. If all go to the post the race will have a gross value of $7,990.

Headley Entry Probable Favorite.

The Hal Price Headley entry of Apogee and The Queen probably will rule as the favorite, with Three D's Stock farm's Gin Daisy or the Mrs. Ethel V. Mars entry of Reaping Reward and Nation's Taste the second choice. Joseph E. Widener's entry of Advocator and Fencing also came in for overnight backing.

Stake winners in the field include Apogee, Cora Mine, and Miss Dolphin. The former won the Old Colony and Fashion stakes in the east. Cora Mine has stake victories in California and Detroit to her credit. Miss Dolphin also was a stake winner at Detroit.

There is no need worrying about the unfamiliarity of the names of these 2 year olds. They have just emerged from their swaddling clothes and their reputations are yet to be made.

Matty Bell Picks 6 Rose Bowl Players for All Star Game

Dallas, Tex., July 10.—[Special.]—Six players who performed in the annual Rose Bowl game in Los Angeles last Jan. 1 merit places in the lineup of the College All-Americans against the Detroit Lions in the third annual all-star football game to be played at Soldiers' field, Chicago, on Sept. 1.

This is the opinion of Matty Bell, Southern Methodist university coach, who today named his selections for the annual game sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Bell, the southwest's leading candidate for a place on the staf of coaches who will direct the collegians against the professional football champions, picked three members of his own team and a like number from the Stanford eleven in naming what he considers the best available all-star lineup.

His selections follow:

ENDS—Geney, Vanderbilt, and Topping, Stanford.
TACKLES—Spain, Southern Methodist, and Smith, Minnesota.
GUARDS—Wetsel, Southern Methodist, and Weller, Princeton.
CENTER—Muller, Stanford.
QUARTER BACK—Grayson, Stanford.
HALF BACKS—Wilson, Southern Methodist, and Lawrence, Texas Christian.
FULL BACK—Berwanger, Chicago.

LUKATS PICKS TEAMS

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Nick Lukats, Notre Dame half back who now is a movie contract player at Paramount studio in Hollywood, and who played on the first college All Star football team against the Chicago Bears in 1934, has picked this as his choice for the All American lineup against the Detroit Lions on Sept. 1:

ENDS—Millner, Notre Dame, and Moscrip, Stanford.
TACKLES—Smith, Minnesota and Lester, Texas Christian.
GUARDS—Tangora, Northwestern and Michaels, Villa Nova.
CENTER—Jones, Ohio State.
QUARTER BACK—Wilson, Southern Methodist.
HALF BACKS—Berwanger, Chicago, and Shakespeare, Notre Dame.
FULL BACK—Grayson, Stanford.

Come Right In

THE list of newspapers conducting polls for the third annual All-Star football game was increased to 179 last night by the addition of the Washington D. C., Herald.

HARTNETT'S PICK

Gabby Hartnett, veteran catcher and leading football fan on the Chicago Cubs team, yesterday took time out to choose an All-American team to meet the Detroit Lions at Soldiers' field the night of Sept. 1. Hartnett named three Notre Dame players, Wayne Millner, Wally Fromhart, and Andy Pilney. His selections follow:

ENDS—Millner, Notre Dame, and Moscrip, Stanford.
GUARDS—Tangora, Northwestern, and Fortmann, Colgate.
CENTER—Rennebohm, Minnesota.
QUARTER BACK—Fromhart, Notre Dame.
HALF BACKS—Berwanger, Chicago, and Pilney, Notre Dame.
FULL BACK—Beise, Minnesota.

TEAM PLAY IMPORTANT

This is the day you should take your pencil, a piece of paper and review the university football seniors of 1935. Select your all-American eleven, mail it to THE TRIBUNE, and cast a ballot in the greatest sports contest of all time.

Today and for two weeks, the fans in forty states, instructed by 177 newspapers associated with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will collect and tabulate the votes. And if you live in any one of the eight states in which a poll is not being conducted, you are

THE first recorded case of athletic proselyting occured in 480 B. C. and involved a famed Olympic athlete by the name of Astylus. . . . He represented the city of Croton in the Olympic games of 488 and 484 B. C., winning both the 200 and the 400 meter run. . . . He was induced by Hierson, head man of the city of Syracuse, to transfer his allegiance to that city for the Olympic games of 480 B. C. . . . This so enraged the citizens of Croton that they tore down the statue erected in his honor and built a prison on the site. . . . This is passed along as a tipoff to young men who may be planning to transfer their collegiate athletic affiliations. . . . President William Harridge of the American league yesterday attended the game in Milwaukee between the Brewers and the American association All-Stars. . . . Win or lose, baseball managers always are wrong in the opinion of certain fans. . . . This department's mail has bulged the last few days with letters from folks rapping Charley Grimm for using so many Cubs in the All-Star game at Boston. . . . The lives of managers would be much happier if major league executives would adopt the suggestion made in this column the other day regarding future All-Star games. . . . That is to permit the fans to name all starting players, except pitchers, for both leagues. . . .

SOX WIN ON SIX RUN ATTACK IN LAST 2 INNINGS

Kennedy Wild, but Makes Bat Count.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 10.—The White Sox conserved their strength for quite a stretch this afternoon but made good use of it at the finish. They burst loose with a three run attack in the eighth, thereby breaking up a 2 to 2 pitching duel and then mopped up with three more in the ninth for an 8 to 2 triumph over Boston's red legged performers. It was the second victory of the year here for the Chicagoans in eight starts against Joe Cronin's prima donnas.

The conclusion of the day's activities found Vernon Kennedy, steadiest performer of the White Sox staf, in possession of his tenth decision of the season and his sixth in a row. But the ex-collegian was wilder than an indignant Democrat. He walked ten, but he compensated for his liberality by employing his bat in profitable ventures. It was his single that drove across the tying run in the fifth, a second single by him that launched the decisive assault in the eighth and a third that assisted in the ninth.

Error Helps Create Tie.

Prior to the eighth the Chicago delegates were highly embarrassed by some futile swinging against the pitching of Johnny Marcum. In seven innings their total was exactly three hits, but two of these happened to come in the wake of an error in the fifth, thereby enabling them to score a pair of runs and create a tie. But Marcum was suddenly separated from his efficiency in the eighth when four hits were produced and in the ninth decided it would be a great idea to leave the party after he had witnessed three hits with none out.

Conspiring with Kennedy in the run getting move in the eighth were Radcliff, Rosenthal, and Hayes, although the Radcliff tap was questionable. It was a drive through Jim Foxx's hands and the latter's failure to hang on to the ball induced the patrons to turn loose a few salvos of raspberries. Radcliff also helped with a single in the ninth, taking his cue from Sewell and Kennedy who opened with hits. The fourth and last hit of the inning was offered by Bonura, his first after four futile efforts.

Kennedy Starts Shakily.

Although the first inning scoring by the Bostons was limited to one hit, Kennedy's sufferings were extensive. For a starter he walked Werber, but luckily Werber tried to steal and was nipped. Then both Cramer and Cooke walked and Foxx poked a cripple for a single to left, Cramer scoring. Appling made a smooth stop in deep short to throw out Cronin and Kennedy ended the trouble by fanning McNair.

Kennedy varied his procedure in the fourth. He got two men out of the way, one on a great one handed running catch by Haas, before going

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs, with not an excessive amount of sweating, considering the weather, yesterday beat the Brooklyn Dodgers for the third straight time in the series, 6 to 2, and remained on the heels of the St. Louis Cardinals in the torrid National league pennant race.

Curt Davis, utterly unmindful of his All-Star bruises, performed with eclat to register his eighth victory of the season and his sixth working in a Cub costume. Being an old second division boy himself, Curt allowed the miserable Dodgers to have a modicum of innocent fun in the seventh inning. He pitched homers to Buddy Hassett and Eddie Wilson, and a single to Ray Berres, said three hits forming half the total acquired by the visitors all afternoon.

Put on Big Second Inning.

In the second inning the Cubs ran up a sum of runs equivalent to their winning margin. Johnny Gill's first homer of the year preceded four singles, and these happenings netted the Cubs four runs. They added one on Gabby Hartnett's triple in the third, and scored their last one in the sixth without accomplishing a hit.

The Cubs made only three hits other than the five socked in the big second. There were a pair of two hit gents in the ensemble, Stan Hack and Davis.

The victory was the Cubs' eleventh in thirteen games played with the Brooklyns this year and their fourteenth in a row at Wrigley field. Incidentally, a ladies' day crowd of 18,367 saw the lads do their stuff yesterday.

Gill Starts Scoring.

Scoring began in the second inning when Gill launched his 1936 homer program with a shot into the right field bleachers. Cavarretta, Jurges, and Davis then loaded the bases by hitting successive singles. Hack made it five hits in a row for the Cubs with a single to right, scoring Cavarretta and Jurges, and when the ball went through Wilson to the screen Davis scored and Hack reached third. Stripp threw out Herman and Galan flied to Cooney.

Hartnett opened the third inning with a triple to left, Gabby estimating his sprint as 500 miles when he landed on third. Gabby held on while Demaree grounded out to Stripp and scored on Gill's high bouncer to Bucher.

Score Without a Hit.

The Cubs eased off and made no hits or runs in the fourth and then added a run in the sixth without a hit. In this production Cavarretta and Jurges reached base on errors by Bucher and Stripp. Cavarretta stole third and was squeezed home by Davis. Hack and Herman flied out.

In the first six innings the attack on Davis consisted of a single by Hassett in the second inning and singles by Cooney in the fourth and sixth innings. The seventh was a bit different but not alarming.

Hassett pushed off the seventh with his No. 4 homer of the season. Watkins and Bucher supplied easy outs, but Wilson, who made his first major league homer in Thursday's second game at Wrigley field, socked another one. Berres singled to left, but Jurges threw out Taylor, who batted for Frankhouse, the Dodgers' starting pitcher.

Birthday Celebration Planned for Jesse Haines

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—(AP)—Jesse Haines is going to remember his 43d birthday. A celebration is planned by a group of business men at Sportsman's Park July 19 in honor of the veteran Cardinal pitcher. Haines, called Pop by his teammates, is not 43 until July 22, but the club will be on the road then and the celebration was advanced three days. Haines is in his seventeenth season with the St. Louis club.

HIGHLAND AND FLANAGAN WIN U. S. SWIM FINALS

Chicagoan Beats Fick in 100 Meter Trials.

Warwick, R. I., July 10.—[Special.]—Ralph Flanagan of the greater Miami A. C., Miami, Fla., and Art Highland of the Lake Shore A. C., Chicago, took the first two events in the final Olympic men's swimming trials in the opening day of competition tonight. Flanagan led all the way in the final heat of the 1,500 meters to maintain the supremacy over Jack Medica of the University of Washington, that was first demonstrated at the National A. A. U. events at Des Moines. Flanagan had a 25 yard lead at the finish.

Highland turned in the first triumph of the six event list which will extend over three days by beating out Peter Fick of the New York A. C. in 58.8 in the 100 meters event. Flanagan turned in time of 19 minutes, 37.8 seconds and Medica was timed in 19 minutes, 55.2 seconds. James Christy, 1932 Olympic veteran made good his comeback by taking third in 20 minutes, 20.8 seconds.

Compares with Record Time.

The Olympic qualifiers in the two events contested today were: Highland, Fick, and Lindegren in the 100, and Flanagan, Medica, and Christy in the 1,500 meters.

Flanagan's time of 19 minutes 37.8 seconds compares with Medica's American record of 19:20. Medica was timed in 19 minutes 55.2 seconds, and Christy finished in 20 minutes 20.8 seconds. Macionis, Rider, Rudig, and Woodford trailed in that order. Summaries;

1,500 METERS FREE STYLE—FIRST HEAT—Won by George Paulson, New York, 21:27.6; Steve Wozniak, Buffalo, second, 21:31.2; Raymond Mullane, Flushing, N. Y., third, 21:58.8; Howard Oxenberg, New York, 21:54.8.

1,500 METERS FREE STYLE—SECOND HEAT—Won by John Patton, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 20:50.2; Frank Barnard, University of Michigan, second, 21:34.8; Winfield Needham, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., third, 21:41.8; Harry Tresnak, New York, fourth, 22:02.

1,500 METERS FREE STYLE—THIRD HEAT—Won by Ralph Flanagan, Miami, 19:37.8; Jack Medica, University of Washington, second, 19:55.2; James Christy, Chicago, third, 20:20.8; John Macionis, Yale, fourth, 20:56.

MEN'S TRACK TODAY

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Nearly 300 track athletes today awaited the starter's gun for the final drive down the qualifying trail that leads to the Olympic games in Berlin next month. The final American trials, quadrennially the greatest carnival of its kind in the country, will be held in the new Municipal stadium on Randall's Island tomorrow and Sunday.

With only sixty berths available, four athletes will fail for one that makes the grade.

Twenty-two members of the 1932 team will be in the field, among them Frank Wykoff, who went to the 100 meters final at Amsterdam in 1928 and ran on the winning 400 meter relay team in 1932, and John Anderson and Eddie Gordon, discus and broad jump champions, respectively.

The first three in each of seventeen events will gain Olympic assignments. The personnel of the 400 and 1,600 meter relay teams will be selected from among the sprint candidates.

May Get Capacity Crowd.

The weather prospects are for continued clear and ovenlike heat. The stifling temperature may handicap the runners, but from the all important financial standpoint it heightened the chances of attracting a capacity gate and raising the $40,000 needed to finance the team.

Finals in the 100 meter dash, broad jump, and hammer throw will be decided tomorrow.

SWIM TESTS ON TODAY.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—More than sixty women swim stars are ready for the final Olympic tryouts starting tomorrow.

Two Olympic champions, eleven national, and about fifty A. A. U. district title holders hailing from all sections of the country are entered in the swimming and diving events to be staged tomorrow and Sunday in the new municipal natatorial stadium in Astoria.

Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett of the Women's S. A. of New York and Mrs. Dorothy Poynton Hill of Los Angeles, respective winners of 1932 in the 100 meter backstroke and in the high diving, will be competing for the third time at the quadrennial games if they come through their tests successfully. Neither has been defeated since the international meet at Los Angeles.

Carlson Wins Junior Golf Title, 8 and 7

Ralph Carlson of the Cog-Hill Golf club won his second consecutive Illinois junior golf championship yesterday by defeating Bill Crannell of Arrowhead, 8 and 7, in 36 holes at Cog-Hill. Carlson was defending the class A title for boys 18 and under 21 years.

In class B, for boys under 18, Johnny Holmstrom of Rockford defeated Jack McMaster of Hinsdale, 5 and 4.

Golfing honors for the two classes went to the younger lads. Holmstrom had an even par 72 for his first round, while McMaster had 78. Contrasted to this was a 73 for Carlson and 80 for Crannell. In the afternoon round McMaster shot the first nine in 33, two under par.

Carlson Takes First Three Holes.

In the morning round Carlson won the first three holes, halving one and taking the next two to stand 5 up for the first six holes. Crannell's irons were not functioning, but he won the 7th when Ralph three putted. Crannell lost the eighth, however, taking three putts himself. On the way in Carlson three putted the 11th and Crannell the 12th. Bill won the 15th with a birdie after a 30 foot putt, but Carlson took the remaining three holes while Crannell was off the fairway on all of them.

Crannell won the first hole in the afternoon and then topped his drive and lost his ball to drop the next two. He played par golf to the ninth to turn six down. On the tenth he drove into the woods, missed the green at the eleventh and lost the match.

Each Gets Birdie on Fifth.

Holmstrom and McMaster traded four holes up to the sixth, and then McMaster overshot the seventh and three putted the ninth to turn 2 down. On the way in both birdied the 520 yard fifth, but the best McMaster could do was to win one hole, the 14th, where Johnny was in the rough. Holmstrom had three birdies coming in, a 35 foot putt giving him a 2 at the 16th. They stopped for lunch with John 5 up with a 72 to 78 for Jack.

In the afternoon McMaster topped his tee shot at the first hole and lost it, but from there on to the ninth his game was consistent. Pars followed on three holes. He then collected three birdies, cutting Holmstrom's lead to 3 up at the turn. Putts of 10 feet at the 23d, 12 feet at the 24th, and a chip shot of 50 feet at the 26th gave him his 33. On the way in, however, Holmstrom won the 28th with a birdie and the 30th when Jack shot into some bushes. Two pars ended the match on the 32d hole.

TRIALS IN CERMAK POOL LIKELY TO BE EASIEST OF ALL

Expect Fewer Swimmers to Qualify There.

The quickest, and perhaps the easiest, way in which to qualify for the finals of the 100 yard free style swimming races sponsored by THE TRIBUNE at the Lincoln park lagoon on July 26 is to enter the preliminary trials at Cermak pool a week from this afternoon. Obviously this is quickest, for it's the first of three sectionals. It may be the easiest section in which to win a qualifying gold medal award, for generally there are fewer swimmers at Cermak pool than at Whealan pool or at Lincoln park, where trials also will be held.

Only two days remain in which to enter the races at Cermak and Whealan pools. Entries close tomorrow at midnight. Entries for the trials at Lincoln park July 25 will be accepted until midnight next Friday.

Kenosha Boy Enters.

Cermak pool is operated by the forest preserve district. It is located at 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill. Generally the boys and girls of the surrounding suburbs and from the southwest side of Chicago compete there. Others, recognizing the advantages of Cermak pool, are planning to compete there, although it means a longer trip. One of these is Harold E. Long Jr. of Kenosha, Wis., one of the best of the younger group of swimmers in Chicagoland. He will compete in class D for boys 17 and 18 years of age.

Large Entry at Whealan.

Whealan pool, where trials will be held a week from tomorrow, probably will have twice as many contestants as Cermak. This is partly due to location and to the fact the races there will be held on Sunday. But if you fail to enter at these two sectionals, you still will have a chance to qualify for the championships in the trials at Lincoln park lagoon on July 25. The championships will be decided the next day.

Girls' Track Team Remains Short of Funds

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Fourteen members of the American women's Olympic track and field team are in distress at the Lincoln hotel. Six of them do not know whether they will be able to sail on the steamship Manhattan on Wednesday. The other eight have $500 each for the trip, but do not know how they are going to pay their hotel bills, eat until Wednesday, or live in Germany during participation in the Olympic games between Aug. 9 and 23. When they return, they do not know how they will get home again.

Issues Another Appeal.

In an effort to remedy this situation the New York Olympic committee today issued a special appeal in a newspaper advertisment bearing the heading "We have only six days to raise over $100,000 to send our Olympic team to the games." At midafternoon a spokesman for Admiral Richmond P. Hobson, chairman of the committee, reported a fair response.

The Richmond Times Dispatch today came to the aid of the American Olympic committee's fund raising efforts by contributing $1,000. The day's collection raised an estimated $25,000.

Only four members of the team are having their expenses paid by the Olympic committee, which is giving them $500 for the trip. Others with $500 have helped to raise the money themselves.

Tomorrow the girl athletes will go to Randall's Island, where the men's track tryouts are being held in the new stadium. There they will try to raise money by selling tags, if they can get the mayor's permission to do it. Evelyn Ferrari of Chicago, who has only $100 for her trip, is going to appeal to Mayor LaGuardia personally to give her the necessary $400, she said today. She said he ought to do it because he is Italian.

MONEY FOR COAST GIRL.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Friends of Martha Worst, javelin throwing San Francisco stenographer, said today $500 had been raised here to finance her trip to the Olympic games at Berlin. Miss Worst qualified for the U. S. women's team in the east last week, but Olympic officials said funds were insufficient to send her to Berlin. She partly financed her trip east.

Fritzie Stifel Beats Mother for W. Virginia Golf Title

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., July 10.—(AP)—Sharp Shooting Fritzie Stifel of Wheeling regained her crown as queen of West Virginia golfers today, by defeating her mother, decisively the fifth time in a title match, 8 and 7.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Back in the '90s the old Twenty-third ward was the scene of a bitter struggle for the Democratic nomination for alderman between Tom Sullivan, a grocer, and Jimmy Lyons and Bill Donohue, purveyors to the thirsty.

The old Twenty-third was on the north side, with boundaries on the west side of Wells street from the river on the south to Division street on the north, and west to Goose Island. "Smoky Hollow" and "Little Hell," so called at the time, were in the ward.

This old Twenty-third was called the "Gas House ward," and was considered a tough one. The boys fought with their fists in those days and not with guns. Regardless of who won, they usually shook hands in peace afterward and cemented the truce with noch eins [one more].

Democratic nomination was regarded as equivalent to election, but this particular contest was so bitter [Bill Donohue was declared winner] that it left such bad feeling among supporters of the various candidates that the Republican nominee, the late John A. Larson, was elected, and reelected the following year. Other Republicans elected before and after this primary were John A. Linn, Weisbrod, Andy Olson, Ben Clettenberg.

Democrats who participated in the factional battles of this and other years were:

Dick Gill, John Gibbons, John Byrnes, Mike Giblin Sr., Michael McGurn, Pat Tierney, John Gannon, John McCormick, Billy Kelly, Harry Gibbons, John T. Connery, John F. O'Malley, John P. Dougherty, Bill Lyman, Dan Early, Arthur Donoghue, Billy Vaughn, Ald. Barrett, Edward P. Byrnes, Mike Kelly, Tiny Sullivan, John Cuthbertson, Jim Frawley, John O'Connell, Jimmy Barry, Charley Dudley, Mike McCarthy, John Baynes, Mike Hughes, Tom McCormick, Tommy O'Malley, John Dunn, Tom Fleming, Tom Moore, Bill McGurn, Michael Hartnett, and many others. Jake Levy.

About 1894 the Bostonians gave the opera "Robin Hood" at the Columbia theater, on Monroe near Dearborn. In this great company were Henry C. Barnabee, William H. McDonald, Eugene Cowles, George Frothingham, Tom Karl, Hilda Clark, Jessie Bartlett Davis, and Josephine Bartlett.

Will J. Davis was manager of the theater. This same company opened the Haymarket theater, on Madison near Halsted, of which Davis also was manager.

Song hits of the company were "Brown October Ale," "Oh, Promise Me," "The Armorer," and the Tinkers chorus. Harry W. Meltzer.

When It Rains.

It was a rainy morning,
I crawled back into bed
And listened to the raindrops
As they pattered o'er my head.
The music was so soothing
That I fell into a sleep
And dreamed this was the patter
Of little baby feet.
I could hear their gleeful laughter
As they caught these little drops
And threw them at each other
Upon this great housetop.

Then I heard a little voice,
A voice just like a chime,
It was "Junior" saying,
"Mom, it's breakfast time."

ARCADIA'S SHOW HAS 7 AMATEUR BOUTS TONIGHT

Seven amateur boxing matches and two wrestling bouts will be held tonight at Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway, in the first show presented on Saturday in several years. Two matches at five rounds will involve Al Baker and Ray Garcia, and Orville Eighmey and Pete Poulis. Frankie Talaber, crack light heavyweight wrestler, will meet Walter Pellmer.

Eddie Boyle is scheduled to arrive today for a scheduled eight round match with Leo Lomski at Marigold Gardens Monday. It will be their second meeting, Lomski beating the Cleveland boxer in eight rounds in a previous battle at Chicago Arena May 25.

Leo has established training quarters at Trafton's gymnasium following his return from Red Lodge, Mont., where he fought ten rounds to a draw with Ford Smith. Co-Promoter Irving Schoenwald has matched Eddie Moran with Bobby Dallas, and Ralph Davis with Willie Davies, in four round preliminary contests.

AMERICANS WIN 3 NET MATCHES AGAINST FRENCH

PARIS, July 10.—(AP)—America's tennis players made a clean sweep of the first day's matches in a three-day international team match with France today.

Don Budge kept the American slate clean with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-0 triumph over Andre Merlin after Bryan M. Grant of Atlanta and Hal Surface of Kansas City had hung up victories earlier in the day. Grant defeated Yvon Petra, 10-8, 3-6, 6-3 and Surface won from Bernard Destremeau, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

FRANK PARKER REACHES FINAL AT SPRING LAKE

Spring Lake, N. J., July 10.—(AP)—Frank Parker of Milwaukee went into the final round of the annual Bathing and Tennis club invitational tournament today for the fourth consecutive year by defeating Barnard Welsh, Rockville, Md., in one of the stiffest battles he ever faced on local courts, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 9-7.

Parker on Sunday afternoon will meet the winner of tomorrow's other semi-final match between Robert Riggs, Los Angeles, national clay courts champion, and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, for the chance of gaining a first leg on the new Clifford Hemphill trophy.

S. M. U. Coach Names All-Star Game Lineup

not barred. Your voting precinct is the United States.

Battle Detroit Lions.

The eleven young men who receive the highest number of votes will form the all-American team of 1935. These young men will meet the Detroit Lions, champions of the National Professional league, at Soldiers' field on the night of Sept. 1.

These players will start the game. Others, of course, will be chosen on the squad and undoubtedly will see action. But your first eleven will start the game and your coaches, to be named in the national poll which will start in two weeks, will direct these players.

The spectator, who only has the right of second guessing during the regular season, now is supreme. That position also carries with it an added responsibility.

Pick Versatile Players!

You have the largest number of outstanding seniors from which to chose that have been available in the three years of the All-American voting. But if you name a back field, for example, composed of four running backs, or forgot to name a player who can kick, another who can pass, and think of football only in terms of the ball carrier and not the blocker, your coaches may never be able to figure out a way to score on the Lions, or stop Detroit's attack.

When you vote for a pair of ends, don't forget that they must be capable of stopping the other fellows and that catching forward passes is only one part o' the game.

After the poll in 1934, the plaint of the coaches was that their material had been chosen without regard to necessities of team play. The guards were splendid defensively, but they were not suited to leading interference. The backs chosen were the ones the fans had seen carrying the ball and the blockers, so important to offense, had generally been overlooked.

Hold Bears to Scoreless Tie.

Yet, in that inaugural game, the All-Americans held the Chicago Bears, professional champions, to a scoreless tie. Last year, after an auspicious first half in which the university men out-gained the Bears, rain handicapped both elevens' attack, and the Bears won, 5 to 0, by virtue of Jack Manders' field goal and a subsequent safety when the university kicker fumbled the wet ball behind the goal line.

Pickup your pencils and write your ballot. But when you write, consider the physical advantages of rival players and their skill. If you want Dale Rennebohm, of Minnesota, for your center, remember he always has played in the back field on defense. If you prefer Gomer Jones, of Ohio State, for center, remember he weighs 218 pounds and backed up one side of the line on defense when he wasn't in the center of the line.

And so on down the list. Think it over and then cast your vote. The first results of the poll will be printed Monday morning.

Tickets for the game now are on sale and may be ordered by mail from the All-Star ticket manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Prices are $3.30, $2.20, and $1.10.

Golf Stars Will Play, Lecture on Public Courses

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Horton Smith, Lawson Little, and Jimmy Thomson, the learned threesome who compose golf's best known touring faculty, will deliver three free lectures, accompanied by 18 hole exhibition matches, on Chicago courses today and tomorrow.

Their first engagement brings them to the Techny Fields course, on Willow road, 400 yards west of Waukegan road, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Lawson and Jimmy will be paired against Horton and Jock Anderson, the Techny Fields pro who has been a leading factor in the success of THE TRIBUNE golf school since its inception.

Tonight Smith, Thomson, and Little will give a shot hitting exhibition at Bob MacDonald's driving range, 2601 West Addison street. MacDonald himself, reckoned one of the ablest teachers in the game, will explain each shot.

In another free exhibition tomorrow Thomson will journey to the Burnham Woods course on the south side to play with Joe Noonan, Lincolnshire pro, against Joe's brother Jim, home pro at Burnham Woods, and Wally Apel of Ravisloe. The match will begin at 3 p. m.

Heading tomorrow's schedule will be the second annual Derby day of the Mohawk Country club, which will present an innovation with the invitation of thirty of the district's leading professionals. Last year's inaugural was restricted to Mohawk amateurs. Among those invited by Lew Waldron, Mohawk pro, are Tommy Armour, Harry Cooper, Johnny Revolta, Dick Metz, Ralph Guldahl, Frank Walsh, Ky Laffoon, Sandy Armour, and Orville White. Mohawk will hold a drawing tonight for tickets on the various players in the field. The person holding the ticket on the low net scoring amateur will receive the largest share of the purse, while second money will go to whoever holds a ticket on the low scoring pro.

The annual midwest public links championship, one of the best of the public course tournaments, will dominate a full week of play throughout the Chicago district. The midwest will open on the Waveland course at Lincoln park Monday and continue through Saturday. Al Andereggen, who has turned professional since his victory in the event last year, has vacated the title.

Through an error in the printing of the district schedule, many golfers have been led to believe that the annual pro-girls' tournament conducted by the Illinois section of the P. G. A. will be held tomorrow on the Waveland course at Lincoln. Tom Walsh, Illinois P. G. A. secretary, announced yesterday that the event will not be held until early in August.

REPORT O'NEILL WILL MANAGE INDIANS IN 1937

Cleveland, O., July 10.—(AP)—The Plain Dealer says tonight that Steve O'Neill, manager of the Cleveland Indians since Walter Johnson's resignation last August, will pilot the team again in 1937.

O'Neill and Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland club, came to an agreement in New York yesterday, the Plain Dealer says.

KLEIN HITS FOUR HOME RUNS AS PHILS WIN, 9 TO 6

Former Cub Equals Big League Record.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 10.—(AP)—Chuck Klein, slugging Philadelphia outfielder, batted the Phillies to a 10-inning 9-6 victory over the Pirates today by smashing out four home runs to set a new modern National league record for circuit blows in one game.

By pounding the ball into the right field stands in the first, fifth, seventh and tenth innings, Klein equalled the major league record and became the fourth player to do the trick. Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees hit four homers on June 3, 1932. Bob Lowe of the Boston Nationals and Ed Delahanty of the Phillies both turned in the feat, but neither performance is listed in modern records.

The Philly outfielder, who batted in six runs, came close to hitting another homer in the second inning when Paul Waner backed up against the wall in right to pull in his drive.

Klein's fourth smash broke a 6-6 deadlock in the tenth inning and proved to be the winning run although the Phillies scored two more markers off Bill Swift.

Klein hit his first homer in the opening inning with two on base. His other three drives, which run his season total to 14, came with the bases empty.

GEHRIG GETS 2 HOMERS; YANKS BEAT INDIANS

New York, July 10.—(AP)—The Yankees took sweet revenge today on the Cleveland Indians, smashing out 20 hits, including four homers, to turn in an 18 to 0 victory behind Charley Ruffing's seven hit pitching.

Humbled yesterday by Cleveland slugging, the New York "murderers' row" belted Cleveland pitching all over the lot, with Lou Gehrig setting the pace by poling out two home runs, his 22d and 23d of the season, to take the Major league lead away from Jimmy Foxx and Hal Trosky.

SENATORS, 5; TIGERS, 0.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—One scratch hit today separated Buck Newsom, Washington's husky right hand pitcher, from baseball's hall of fame as he shut out the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 0. It was his eleventh victory of the year.

In the third inning Irving Burns, the first baseman, hit one of Newsom's tosses between first and second. Both Bluege and Kuhel went after the ball. Bluege managed to stop it but no one got to the bag quickly enough to beat Burns.

Sox Defeat Boston, 8-2, in Closing Rallies

into a coma. By the time he recovered, the Red Sox had scored another run. After the two outs Marcum singled, Werber walked and Cramer singled on a 3 and 2 cripple, Marcum going home. Then Cooke drew a pass for the third time, filling the bases and bringing forth the muscular Mr. Foxx, who sent a lofty fly to Radcliff.

White Sox Tie it Up.

The fifth in which Chicago tied the score at 2 apiece opened with Appling's hard grounder which plunked Manager Cronin in the chest. The scorer termed it an error. Hayes slipped a single down the left field line, Appling taking third. Appling scored on Dykes' infield out, after which Sewell flied to Cooke. Then Kennedy took a hand in the attack by lining a single over short, Hayes scoring. Radcliff's roller to Foxx closed the inning.

Kennedy got by in the home fifth despite a double by McNair with one out. He had similar luck in the sixth after giving Werber a pass with one gone. In the seventh McNair doubled again and Kroner walked, both happenings coming after two were out. Dykes halted this threat by smothering R. Ferrell's powerful grounder and throwing to Hayes for a force at second.

Kennedy's Single Starts Rally.

The gay doings by which the Chicagoans broke the deadlock in the eighth began with Kennedy's single to right. Foxx failed to come up with Radcliff's grounder and it was recorded as a hit, Kennedy going to third. Rosenthal's timely contribution was a single to right, Kennedy scoring and Radcliff dashing to third. Haas popped out, but Bonura slapped a long fly to Werber and Radcliff scored after the catch.

While Appling was at bat Rosenthal stole second, so Marcum decided to award Luke with an intentional pass. Hayes put a dent in the left field sign with a single, Rosenthal scoring and Appling racing to third. Order was restored, but only for the moment, when Dykes fouled to Cooke.

The series of thumps that forced Marcum to resign in the ninth, when the White Sox tapered off with three runs, began with a single by Sewell. Kennedy bunted for a single and Marcum tossed the ball into right field, Sewell scoring and Kennedy going to second. Radcliff singled to left to move Kennedy across the plate and that was the end of Marcum. Russell stepped into the vacancy and retired the side, but not until after Bonura had peeled off a single on which Radcliff scored.

SANTA ANITA TO INCREASE DERBY PURSE TO $50,000

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Headed by the annual $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap Feb. 27 and a $50,000 added Santa Anita Derby Feb. 22, Los Angeles Turf club directors today announced the program of takes and purses to be offered at the 1936-1937 meeting at Santa Anita Park.

General Manager Charles H. Strub declared the total of $228,500 stake money, and minimum daily race purses of $1,000, represented the richest prizes ever offered at an American track for a single meeting.

The 53 day meet, with racing every day except Sunday and Monday, starts Christmas day and ends March 6, with the $10,000 added San Juan Capistrano handicap.

Sugar Cain to Pitch for Sox Today in Boston

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 10.—The White Sox will conclude their work here tomorrow and proceed to New York aboard an early evening train. Merritt Sugar Cain will try to win for the Chicagoans and Jack Wilson will endeavor to do the same for the Red Hose.

Manager Jim Dykes received word this morning that Pitcher Babe Phelps would rejoin the Sox in New York. Phelps was left at home to recover from a neck cold or something.

Mike Kreevich of the White Sox outfielding department, who injured his left ankle sliding into the plate yesterday, submitted to an X-ray examination this morning and the negative failed to reveal a bone fracture. The injury has been diagnosed as a torn muscle which will keep him out of action for a few days.

The White Sox today announced the purchase of four young ball players. From Longview in the East Texas league were bought T. R. McBride, an outfielder, and Frank Houska, a first baseman. From Rayne in the Evangeline league in Louisiana comes Kenneth Silvestri, a catcher, and Lee Chandler, a short stop. The quartet will report to the Sox for next year's training trip.

Brewers Are Beaten, 9-5, by All-Stars

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—(AP)—The American Association All-Stars conquered the pennant chasing Milwaukee Brewers in the third annual game today, 9 to 5.

Led by Jack Winsett, Columbus outfielder, who connected with two home runs, the All-Stars amassed seventeen hits to achieve their first triumph since the series was inaugurated. The Stars were piloted by Donie Bush, manager of the Minneapolis club, 1935 champions of the league, whose teams had turned back the All-Stars twice before.

With a temperature hovering around 103 degrees, the game was played before a crowd of 4,695.

Leading the American association with 34 home runs to his credit, Winsett scored the first run for the All-Stars in the first inning when he drove the ball over the right field fence. He connected with another homer in the seventh, driving in four runs before ending his batting rampage.

Lou Fette of St. Paul, premier pitcher of the associate, with sixteen victories and only four defeats, proved highly effective against the Brewers in the first three innings, holding them to one scratch hit and scoreless. Then Cohen of Toledo, who relieved him, fell victom to Laabs' home run, which coupled with singles by Morgan and Uhalt resulted in three runs. In the ninth, after York doubled, Storti connected with the fourth home run of the game, driving the ball over the right field wall and scoring the Brewer first baseman ahead of him.

Frisch's Pinch Double in 13th Wins for Cards

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—(AP)—The Cardinals came from behind today to ruin a fine pitching performance by Carl Hubbell, beat the New York Giants, 5 to 4, in 13 innings, and held their slim National league lead. A pinch double by Manager Frankie Frisch drove in Leo Durocher with the winning run.

Hubbell held the Cards to one hit in six innings, while the Giants were piling up a 4 to 0 lead. In the seventh St. Louis pushed a run over and in the eighth pounded Hubbell and Harry Gumbert for three more and a tie.

In the thirteenth, with Fitzsimmons pitching, Durocher got a lucky single over Burgess Whitehead's head. Mark Koenig then fumbled a throw from Catcher Gus Mancuso and Durocher was safe at second. Frisch stepped in and smashed his two bagger off the right field screen. The game took 3½ hours in 100 or better temperature.

Two polo games will be played tonight at the Lincolnwood arena, Lincoln and Devon avenues. Park Ridge will meet the Officers club and the Edgebrook team will play the All-Stars.

Henshaw, Baker to Pitch Today in Dodger Final

Roy Henshaw has been invited to pitch for the Cubs in the final of the Brooklyn series at Wrigley field this afternoon. Tom Baker probably will be nominated by Manager Casey Stengel of the Dodgers.

George Doyle, Cub ticket manager, is sad about the rumor that all box seats for tomorrow's double-header with the New York Giants have been sold. He reports a remarkable advance sale, but says he still has merchandise on hand.

Gabby Hartnett, voted the most valuable player in the National league last season, will be presented with a plaque before the first game tomorrow, the gift of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Chairman Ed Burns of the Chicago chapter of ball writers, who was to have made the presentation, has become fearful of sunstroke and Manager Charley Grimm will perform in his stead. Gabby also will get a gift from his teammates.

P. DEAN'S ARM AILMENT DUE TO PULLED TENDON

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—[Special.]—Dr. Robert F. Hyland, St. Louis Cardinals physician, today said Paul Dean's arm condition is due to a pulled tendon. Dr. Hyland made the announcement following an X-ray examination of the big right handers' teeth which showed no infection.

Dr. Hyland said he advised Dean to work out lightly each day. Paul has worked only four innings since June 17, when his arm began to ail him. He was to have pitched against the New York Giants today, but Manager Frankie Frisch sent Bill Walker to the mound.

BOW AND ARROW GETS THROUGH ON RAIL FOR VICTORY

Defeats Deliberator in Exciting Race.

Col. Edward R. Bradley's Bow and Arrow, ridden cleverly by Jocky Joe Renick, scored an exciting victory in the Garfield purse which featured Arlington's racing program yesterday.

The race was for 3 year olds and engaged candidates for the Classic Stakes. Jocky Renick, after letting Bow and Arrow trail in the early stages, got through next to the rail on the turn into the stretch. The Bradley colt then went on to beat Deliberator by three quarters of a length. Sir Jim James finished third.

There was lively betting both on Bow and Arrow and Deliberator, with the latter finally winding up as the favorite. Deliberator might have turned the tables on the Bradley colt had he not been bumped back on the last turn. Valiant Fox interfered with both Bow and Arrow and Deliberator during the various stages of the race.

The Bradley colt paid off at $6.20.

Odessa Girl, a daughter of Busy American-Vendell, proved she is gradually reaching the top rank among the 2 year old fillies here when she won the Mount Prospect purse at 5½ furlongs from Stairs and Mondorf. She races for the Odessa Farm stables of Detroit. This was her second straight victory at Arlington. She has defeated good ones in both engagements.

My Count's victory in the six furlong third race yesterday was popular with the crowd. The son of Reigh Count-Annie Gowdy had been backed with great confidence. After making the early pace he dropped back for a breathing spell and then came from behind to win from Min Ormont and Idle Way.

Word from the east has it that Col. Edward R. Bradley believes he has a powerful candidate for the Arlington Futurity in the colt, Billionaire. The youngster will be shipped from New York within a few days.

Supporting the Hyde Park Stakes today will be the Lakeview purse, a $2,000 added mile test which has attracted a field of six. Those named are Mrs. Emil Denemark's Finance, the Calumet stable's Calumet Dick, E. D. Shaffer's St. Bernard, J. Shirley Riley's Born Happy, J. E. Widener's Silversmith, and Anthony Pelleteri's Where Away.

CAVALCADE MAY RETURN TO RACES AT SPA MEETING

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Trainer Bob Smith hopes to bring the Brookmeade stable's Cavalcade back to the races for the Saratoga meeting, probably in the Merchants and Citizens' handicap, at a mile and three-sixteenths.

Confident that the 3 year old champion of 1934 will stand competition again, Smith is satisfied with the way the son of Lanecgaye had been indulging in his trials at Belmont Park, stepping the mile in around 1:45 and going three furlongs in 0:36 or so.

Smith has been very patient with the horse that defeated Discovery seven times two years ago. Cavalcade has not been to the races since he grabbed himself in the Suburban handicap at Belmont in 1935.

FILLY FAVORED TO WIN EMPIRE $10,000 STAKE

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—The $10,000 Butler handicap, richest race of the Empire city meeting, will be run tomorrow afternoon at the Empire city and bears very much the aspect of a championship test for the distaff side of the equine family. Four of the six horses named for the mile and three-sixteenths test are fillies, and the remaining two are regarded as the least likely to win.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt again entered a three-ply entry—Good Gamble, Good Harvest, and Scotch Bun—the first named being the filly and the main string to the Vanderbilt bow.

Good Gamble is to carry 119, which is top weight and even more when the sex allowance is considered. Esposa is in with 97, while the feather of 95 pounds has been assigned William Woodward's filly, Palma. The other eligible is King Ranch's Split Second, second in the Coaching club American Oaks.

Time, :23; :46 2-5, :59 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Maxine B. $5.00 straight, $3.40 place, $2.80 show; Ipso Facto $4.60 place, $3.40 show; Denbigh $4.20 show. Winner trained by C. Scott. Went to post at 2:21. At post 4 minutes. Start good from gate for all but Sir Midas. Won driving; place same.

MAXINE B., always fast and hustled into command, slightly increased her advantage while under light restraint on the turn and continued with fine speed to the last sixteenth, where she weakened, but had enough left to hold the leader. IPSO FACTO, on inside throughout, held on well. DENBIGH, fractious at the post but away well, lost much ground and holding on with determination was wearing down the lead ers.

HANK MacTAVISH, quick to begin but eased when in close quarters approaching the turn, swung to outside in the final quarter and closing with good belated speed under strong hand riding was up in the final fifty yards. FULL TILT, a strong factor from the start and forced very wide by GREY STREAK on the turn, fought it out gamely in the drive and may have been best. TRINCHERA, on the inside throughout, raced into a short lead on stretch turn, rallied away slightly when placed to strong pressure in the final three-sixteenths, but weakened in the late stages.

Time, :22 4-5, :45 4-5, 1:11 2-5. My Count $7.60 straight, $4.80 place, $3.80 show; Min Ormont $8.00 place, $4.80 show; Idle Way $6.40 show. Winner trained by Lon Johnson. Went to post at 3:34½. Off at once. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

MY COUNT, a factor from start and under strong riding after reaching the last five-sixteenths, failed to rally, but held on well and after heading IDLE WAY and MIN ORMONT in rapid succession within fifty yards of the wire drove out slowly in the closing strides. MIN ORMONT, forced to race wide throughout, bettered her position gradually and weakened near the end, but outstayed IDLE WAY. Latter, showing improved speed, drew into a long lead on the turn and continued stoutly to the final eighth before firing.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,100. Net value to winner, $800: second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23; :46 3-5, :59, 1:05 4-5. Odessa Girl $7.00 straight, $3.60 place, $3.00 show; Stairs $4.60 place, $4.00 show; Mondorf $4.00 show. Winner trained by C. Doyle Smith. Went to post at 3:51. At post 1 minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

ODDESA GIRL, displaying improved early speed and saving ground throughout, withstood challenge from MONDORF on the turn, shook him off quickly after reaching the stretch, but was vigorously ridden out and had little left. STAIRS, taken back early, lost ground on the turn, swerved to inside soon after entering stretch and closing well after coming to outside, was strongest of leaders at the end. MONDORF had speed from start, dropped back suddenly soon after reaching stretch, but came again before faltering badly.

BOW AND ARROW, taken back when in very close quarters approaching the far turn and kept on inside to slip through when responding strongly to pressure after reaching the stretch, won drawing clear. DELIBERATOR, knocked back on far turn and in close quarters approaching the stretch, came between horses in the drive and held on courageously. SIR JIM JAMES, raced wide much of the trip and a strong factor after first quarter, was jostled about in the stretch and finished well when clear.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700: second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23; :46 1-5, 1:10 2-5, 1:36 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Miss Saxon $18.40 straight, $7.00 place, $3.40 show; Leading Article $3.80 place, $2.60 show; Redress $2.80 show. Winner trained by F. Barton. Went to post at 4:43. At post ⅛ minute. Start good. Won driving; place same.

MISS SAXON, under mild reserve while racing well up, gained steadily when subjected to urging, responded gamely to strong riding and was up to win in the closing stages. LEADING ARTICLE set the early pace under steadying restraint, offered good contention when challenged, but could not resist the winner. REDRESS, slow to get going, moved up stoutly after half a mile, closed resolutely and was wearing down the first two.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600: second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $25.

SPARTAN LADY, taken in hand for the early racing, gained gradually after three-quarters, came around the leaders approaching the stretch, took command inside the final eighth then took the drive gamely to outfinish EXPONENT. The latter raced to the front without need of pressure, set the pace under restraint, held on well in the drive, but could not withstand the winner. REPAID away slowly, was taken to contention gradually, but could not improve his position when urged.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse $1,000; Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

WILCO, slow to get going, moved up fast after three-quarters, came between horses in the stretch and was up to win in the concluding stages. MIGHTY QUICK drowned a field of 4 after the start, gained a slight advantage approaching the stretch where she came wide, closed fastest, and might have been best. BRILLIANT ROSE, on the inside most of the way, was taken out in the stretch and finished with good courage.

Dog Show at Lake Geneva Begins Today

BY BOB BECKER.

Hundreds of Chicagoland dog fanciers will assemble in Lake Geneva, Wis., today and tomorrow for the first annual dog show sponsored by the Southern Wisconsin Kennel club. The show will be held in the Horticultural building, at the corner of Wisconsin and Broad streets. The judging will commence at noon today [Chicago time].

The show will be brought to a climax tomorrow night when the best dog in the show is chosen by Louis Walther, Pittsburgh. Other judges who will officiate are E. J. Tyler, J. J. McCarthy, Stephen E. McPhee, and William R. Crawford, all of Chicago; T. H. Carruthers III., Glendale, O.; John C. Zimmerman, Birmingham, Mich.; F. L. Maytag, Lake Geneva, Wis.; Stanford Whittaker, Oshkosh, Wis., and William Z. Breed, Cleveland, O.

More Than $2,000 in Prizes.

More than $2,000 in cash prizes, as well as numerous trophies, are on the premium list. The kennel club which is sponsoring this event was organized just a few months ago.

One of the features of the show will be the children's handling classes, which will be judged by Mr. Maytag. This event will be held at 8 o'clock [Chicago time] tonight. Boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 16 will compete for prizes as handlers. In this event the awards are based upon the child's ability to manage the dog in the ring, not upon the quality of the dog itself.

To Judge Many Breeds.

Among the breeds to be judged today are pointers, all breeds of retrievers, springer spaniels, beagles, dachshunds, German shepherds, English and Irish setters, foxterriers, bulldogs, and Dobermann Pinschers. Breeds to be judged tomorrow morning and afternoon include Scottish terriers, Boston terriers, cocker spaniels, all toy breeds, and chowchows.

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT ASSAILED AS FAULTY PLAN

May Be Cruel Blow, Says W. W. Aldrich.

Charlottesville, Va., July 10.—[Special.]—The federal social security act was declared a "danger to aggregate security" by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank, in an address here tonight at the institute of public affairs of the University of Virginia.

W. W. ALDRICH.

Earlier in the day, at a business and finance round table sponsored by the New York Stock exchange, Arthur A. Ballatine, former undersecretary of the treasury, criticized the recently enacted taxation on undistributed earnings, and Colby M. Chester, chairman of the General Foods corporation, speaking as president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said "on behalf of American industry we ask the government for a truce to fault finding and indictment and a new day of tolerance, understanding, and mutual helpfulness."

Aged May Be Robbed.

After pointing out that the social security program will cost about 3 billion dollars annually in ten years and will involve a reserve balance in ten more years of 36 billions, Aldrich said:

"It may be observed that it is a strange proceeding to make plans running through fifty years creating insurance obligations and rights which run in terms of dollars and which are calculated with respect to present wages and present living costs, when so much has recently been done to make uncertain the future value of the dollar, and when the very plan itself increases that uncertainty. It may prove to be a cruel and pitiful jest to compel by law the great body of our working people to save for their old age dollars which our existing public policies could so easily rob of most of their value long before the time came when the worker was to get them back.

Would Consider Costs.

"In saving the good of the federal social security act let us drop the coercion of the states in the matter of unemployment insurance, though we should encourage the states to develop the system.

"Let us drop the old age insurance based on pay roll taxes and taxes on wages for special classes of workers, and let us concentrate on the system of grants in aid to the states for the assistance of all the needy aged in such a way and on such a scale that we shall do this thing adequately in our own time and generation to the extent that we can afford to do it. And let us do it on a current cost basis, so that we shall know what it costs and shall know whether we can afford it."

Assails New Deal.

Ballantine took the New Deal to task today for the heavy government expenditures and for permitting the federal budget to become so unbalanced. He took issue with the claim that the heavy expenditures were purely of an emergency nature. The depression, he said, began in 1929 and reached its peak in 1932, at a time when President Roosevelt was promising a reduction in federal expenditures.

The new financial policy of the President is fairly to be described as a speculative policy, Ballantine said. And like most speculation, he added, this new policy of government finance is carried out by borrowing.

"It is most significant," he said, "that the new loans have not been taken by the people as individual investors, they have practically all gone to the banks and to the insurance companies. The government has been engaged in a huge scale of financing with other people's money without their conscious participation. Even banking and insurance resources have their limit. Obviously the process of using them up cannot continue indefinitly."

Col. Roosevelt Speaks.

The shortcomings of American colonial policy as demonstrated in Porto Rico and the Philippines were discussed by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, in an open forum address. His conclusion was that with the best of intentions and despite much material improvement wrought in both Porto Rico and the Philippines, the United States had failed in a role for which the nation, he said, was "temperamentally unfitted."

"Being a republic and being on the whole parochially-minded, we will tend to fit our policies in the islands to our own in the United States," he said. "Island policies will be judged here at home, by their influence on votes in this country and each change politically may bring a change in leadership and policies."

Santa Fe Railroad Forms Public Relations Division

Topeka, Kas., July 10.—(AP)—Announcement was made here today by the Santa Fe railroad of the organization of a new department of public relations to be headed by M. L. Lyles, assistant to the president. Lyles' office will be in Chicago. Personnel of the new department will be announced later.

Reynolds Quits Banking Post; Report Clash

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Reports from San Francisco that Arthur Reynolds had resigned as vice chairman of the big Giannini controled Bank of America in California yesterday surprised even Reynolds' friends and former business associates in Chicago. Officials of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, which Reynolds headed prior to his resignation in May, 1932, said they had heard that all had not been well lately in the relations between A. P. Giannini, chairman of the California institution, and Reynolds, but there had been no definite news of the latter's leaving.

ARTHUR REYNOLDS

Inquiry in San Francisco disclosed that Reynolds' resignation had apparently been decided upon in great secrecy about three weeks ago. Reynolds left on a world tour with his wife, the supposition in San Francisco banking circles being that during his absence a likely reason for publicly announcing the resignation would be found.

Believed Result of Clash.

It is generally believed that Reynolds' departure was the result of another clash of personalities in the Giannini organization. Other officials of the big California banking concern have similarly come to the parting of the ways with the Gianninis after the development of discord over policies.

Reynolds' connection with the Gianninis dates from February, 1933, when the Californians took him from comparative retirement in Chicago to be a business getter for the Bank of America. Reynolds enjoyed a widespread acquaintanceship among bankers and business men. At the last convention of the American Bankers' association in New Orleans he represented the Giannini bank.

Severance of his connection with the California bank now comes at a time when bankers throughout the country are preparing to go to California in September for the 1936 A. B. A. convention. He had been expected to take an important part in the California welcome to out of town financiers.

"I've been in business too long and have been active too long to quit now," Reynolds said in February, 1933, when he announced his acceptance of the California job. "It isn't any loafing job or honorary title that I am taking. It's an executive job and I'm going to be on the job with my coat off and both barrels going every day."

WHY U.S. CREDIT 'IMPROVES'

Curious to discover the reason for the sudden "improvement" in the credit of the United States treasury as measured by the discount rates on treasury bills, market experts yesterday found the answer in the peculiar personal property tax situation in Cook county.

The treasury early this week announced that its July 8 offering of 50 million dollars of discount bills had met with such spirited bidding on the part of the banks that it was being sold at prices that would cost the treasury just about one-third the rate paid a week earlier on a similar issue. The average price paid by the banks is $99.949 per $100 par value, equivalent to an average of about 0.067 per cent per annum. A week ago a similar offering cost the treasury 0.191 per cent.

Caused by Chicago Banks.

Inquiry here disclosed that the suddenly increased popularity of these 9 month treasury bills was entirely accounted for by Chicago banks, who wanted this particular issue of bills because they mature April 7, 1937, just a week after the date for personal property tax assessments in Cook county.

Each year during the last few days of March Chicagoans, anxious to avoid too heavy personal property tax assessments, take a lot of money out of their banks and invest some of it temporarily in government securities, which are not taxable. Last year 308 millions were taken out of Chicago banks during the last week in March.

The nine months treasury bills maturing April 7 offer a convenient means of handling this operation. The banks will hold them until late next March, when they can be sold to the taxpayers. A week after the April 1 tax date the bills will mature and the holders can redeposit the cash in their banks.

The net result of this to the treasury is a saving of about $50,000 in interest on the current 50 million dollar offering.

Chicago Yellow Cab Co. Reports Larger Receipts

Gross receipts of the Chicago Yellow Cab Company, Inc., for the second quarter increased $230,284, or 22 per cent, over the corresponding period of last year, and in the first six months there was an increase of $641,183, or 28 per cent, Thomas B. Hogan, vice president, announced yesterday. Directors will meet on July 16 to take action on dividends.

E. A. Clifford Will Lead Railway Purchasing Group

Eugene A. Clifford, general purchasing agent for the Chicago and North Western Railway system, was elected chairman of the purchases and stores division of the American Association of Railroads at a convention held yesterday in the Palmer House.

Weather was all against the crops in '81. A severe winter and Mississippi floods had killed much winter wheat. Excessive temperatures and dry weather in April and May cut the yield further. Spring wheat and corn were hit by the August drouth, when rainfall in the heart of the wheat belt totalled a half inch, 1-6 of normal and less than in May, 1934. And there was rust and the Hessian fly. The wheat crop fell off to 383 million bushels from 498 million bushels the year before. It was the lightest harvest in 5 years. We needed about 275 million bushels for home consumption, and that left but a hundred million bushels for export. And Europe bid for that with the least wheat in a decade carried over from the previous year.
Wheat started up from 98 cents in May, to hit a peak of $1.43 in October and then settled back. The assassination of the President and occasional liquidation brought brief setbacks to the market, but the rise was fairly continuous. The farmers had no kick coming on the drouth. They received for the short crop of 1881 more than they had for the bumper harvest of the year before. But railroad freight receipts fell nearly fifty million dollars. And having less grain to export, our balance of trade fell from $259,700,000 to $26,000,000. Not having grain to send abroad, we shipped gold, more in a month than at any time since '76.
Leading grain trader of the time was P. D. Armour. Said he on June 23, 1881: "I think wheat is going to sparkle like diamonds for the next two years, and if you have a mother whose heart you wish to make glad, just buy her four or five barrels of flour and store it in your basement. I think that the crop in the country is short. The winter wheat is deficient about 125 million bushels, while spring wheat looks fair but the acreage is less than usual. I predict this next season's crop will average nearer $1.40 than $1.25 per bushel." Mr. Armour was right on crop and price and therefore sound on maternal care.

U. S. Steel's Shipments Set 6 Year Peak

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Finished products shipped from the mills of the United States Steel corporation during June reached a total of 886,065 tons, the report published by the company revealed today.

The outgo was 98,032 tons smaller than that reported for May, when shipments aggregated 984,097 tons, but it was far in excess of the 578,108 tons shipped in June last year.

Total shipments for the first six months of the current year aggregated 5,031,350 tons, by far the best for any similar period since 1930. At that level shipments showed an increase of 1,477,351 tons or approximately 41.6 per cent over the total of 3,553,999 tons reported for the first half of 1935.

Due to Price Situation.

The remarkably good showing made by the corporation, particularly in the June quarter, was due in part at least to the action of the leading producers in the industry in raising prices for third quarter delivery.

This move had the effect of stimulating consumers to anticipate to some extent their needs for the near future.

Despite the accelerated rate of steel production in the last half of June, market circles were prepared for some recession from the peak level of May. The corporation was said to have carried into July considerable tonnage on which June shipment originally was contemplated.

SEC Stock Probe Hearings Transferred to Los Angeles

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission today granted a request of its own attorneys to transfer the hearing on market manipulation charges against Charles C. Wright and eleven other New York brokerage firms' partners to Los Angeles. Counsel for the brokers, who are charged with manipulating the common stock of Kinner Airplane and Motor Corporation, Ltd., said yesterday they would not recognize validity of hearings in California.

OLD ROSENWALD HOME TO BE WRECKED; NEW RESIDENCE IS PLANNED

BY AL CHASE.

One of the north shore's noted residences, the home for many years of the late Julius Rosenwald on Sheridan road, at Ravinia, will be wrecked at once. The Goldman Wrecking company, which has the razing contract, expects to have it removed within sixty days.

Rosenwald, for many years head of Sears, Roebuck & Co., purchased the home thirty-two years ago and remodeled and enlarged it until it was one of the finest residences on the north shore. He died there in January, 1932.

There are two other residences on the fourteen acre estate; the home occupied by Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, the widow, and the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred K. Stern. Mrs. Stern was Marion Rosenwald, one of Julius Rosenwald's five children.

Mrs. Rosenwald will continue to live in her present house while the Sterns will occupy a new $100,000 residence to be erected about 200 feet from the old Rosenwald mansion. Designed by architects Samuel A. Marx and Ernest J. Grunsfeld Jr., along old English lines, the new Stern residence will be of brick and will be equipped with a year round air conditioning system. Work is scheduled to stand shortly.

The present Stern residence, at 1701 South Sheridan road, Ravinia, Highland Park, probably will be sold, according to Mr. Stern.

ROOSEVELT LETS MORRISON QUIT RESERVE BOARD

Resigned After Quiz on Texas Power Deal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt had accepted "with real regret" the resignation of Ralph W. Morrison of Texas, as a member of the board of governors of the federal reserve system.

R. W. MORRISON.

News that Morrison, a $50,000 contributor to the Roosevelt campaign in 1932, had sent in his resignation came on the heels of a revelation two months ago that he was being sought on a federal subpena to testify in Washington regarding the activities of the public works administration in Texas.

The summons was issued in a suit brought by private power companies in an action to enjoin the government from setting up a power authority in the Brazos valley, Texas.

Profit on Deal Questioned.

The attorneys sought to question Morrison on reports that he and a group of friends had made and were about to realize $825,000 in negotiating the sale of an Insull subsidiary, the Hamilton dam, to the Lower Colorado River authority, which had received PWA funds.

Morrison became interested in the Hamilton dam deal at the time the present administration came into power. He had contributed $25,000 to campaign fund and is reported to have lent an additional $25,000 to the party when railroad officials in New York refused to move the Roosevelt train out of the station unless paid beforehand during the campaign.

Sold Interests to Insull.

Morrison sold out his utility interests several years ago to Samuel Insull and subsequently engineered several deals through with former President Calles of Mexico. Appointed to the reserve board in February he attended only a few meetings.

Morrison's resignation was held up for several months, it was learned, because Vice President Garner and other Texas politicians wanted to find his successor in the home state. The vacancy on the reserve board will be filled from one of the six federal reserve districts not now represented on the board. There are six active members of the board and full membership consists of seven.

LAST OF CHICAGO 'WHALEBACKS' TO BE BROKEN UP

The Bay View, last of the "whaleback" steamers in Chicago, is being dismantled at her dock at 101st street and Commercial avenue, it was learned yesterday. The steamers were nicknamed because of their unique shape, resembling the back of a whale, and were invented by Alexander McDougall, who built 200 of these steel boats for sea-going travel and particularly for moving iron ore. They were built by the American Steel Barge company at Superior, Wis.

A. Miller McDougall, with offices in Tribune Tower and son of the inventor, looked up the record of the Bay View yesterday and found that she was the fifteenth of the whalebacks and was built in 1892, being one of the oldest in service on the Great Lakes, as the first one was built in 1888. Some of them are still used along the Atlantic seaboard in hauling coal.

Congress Committee Will Investigate Amoskeag Co.

Boston, Mass., July 10.—(AP)—Leo W. Hopkins, chief investigator in New England for the Sabath congressional investigating committee, announced tonight the committee had been ordered to investigate the financial structure of the Amoskeag company. Until the committee's report was made, Hopkins said, action would be held in abeyance on Special Master Arthur Black's recommendation that the giant mills liquidate. The investigation would get under way the week of July 13, Hopkins declared.

First National Dividend Put on $6 Basis

Stock of the First National bank of Chicago was placed on a $6 annual dividend basis yesterday when directors authorized quarterly payments of $1.50 a share on Oct. 1 and on Jan. 2, 1937. The distributions will be made to stockholders of record Sept. 30 and Dec. 31.

The lifting of the dividend rate from the $4 annual figure established with resumption of payments at the beginning of this year was in fulfillment of a promise made by directors in April when they announced the plan for retirement of all preferred stock held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. At that time the board said the rate would be lifted from $4 to $6 on Oct. 1 "if earnings are maintained at approximately the present rate."

Retires Preferred Stock.

The bank resumed common stock dividends at the $4 rate immediately after retirement of $10,000,000 of preferred stock in December, 1935. The balance of the $25,000,000 preferred sold to the RFC in January, 1934, was retired a week ago. Funds for eliminating the last $15,000,000 of preferred were obtained from sale of 50,000 new shares of common stock at $200 a share and $5,000,000 in internal reserves not shown on the balance sheet.

The June 30, 1936, statement of the First National showed $15,000,000 in preferred stock, $25,000,000 in common stock, $15,000,000 surplus, $5,000,000 special reserve, and $3,507,362 other undivided profits.

Dividend Requirement Higher.

Dividend requirements will be little higher at the new $6 rate than those which obtained before the preferred stock was retired last week. The $15,000,000 of preferred received 3½ per cent annually, or $525,000, while the $4 rate on the 250,000 common shares required an outlay of $1,000,000. The total of $1,525,000 is less than the $1,800,000 required at the new rate of $6 annually on 300,000 shares.

The price of First National stock jumped $7 yesterday on the dividend boost to close at $274 bid, $278 asked. Continental Illinois closed $4 higher at $162 bid, $164 asked. Merchandise Trust and Savings gained $2 a share to $235 bid, $245 asked.

GEORGE FULLER COMPANY GETS HOUSING AWARD

The George A. Fuller company of Chicago yesterday was notified by Secretary of Interior Ickes that its low bid of $2,533,300 for erection of the superstructure of Trumbull park homes, a Public Works administration housing project in South Chicago, had been accepted. The other two bidders, both from Chicago, were the Great Lakes Construction company, $2,628,262, and the Henry Ericsson company, $2,667,000.

According to Chester A. Inman, district manager of the housing division of PWA, the company will start work immediately on the structure. The contract calls for its completion within one year.

The Trumbull park project is at Oglesby avenue and East 105th street, and comprises 20.89 acres of land bought from the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad for $72,715. It will provide homes for 468 families, according to present plans.

Masonite Meeting Called to Vote on Stock Splitup

Stockholders of Masonite corporation will be asked to vote on a two-for-one splitup of common shares and the issuance of 5 per cent preferred stock to reclace the 7 per cent preferred outstanding at a special meeting to be held on July 22 at Wausau, Wis., where the largest holdings are located, according to a notice sent to stockholders yesterday.

Mine Closed Since 1925 to Be Reopened Sept. 1

Hillsboro, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—The West coal mine at Nokomis, which has been closed since 1925, will be reopened for production Sept. 1, by Nokomis Coal company, newly organized corporation with Rice W. Miller of Hillsboro Coal company at its head. Approximately 200 miners will be employed.

STOCKS CLIMB; MANY SET NEW HIGHS FOR YEAR

Trading Most Active Since April.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Stocks took their cue from the thermometer today and, moving upward as steadily as the mercury, many of them set new highs for the year. With the exception of the gold mining shares, the entire list took part in the advance and gains ranged from one to as much as 4 points.

Trading was broader than it has been in a long time and with substantial buying appearing the session was the busiest that has been witnessed since April. Total transactions for the session were approximately 1,690,000 shares.

There was little in the news calculated to influence the market to any considerable degree, but the financial community was cheered by further evidence that a steel strike is not likely to come about for some time.

Steels and Motors Lead.

As in the preceding session, steels, motors, and industrials were in the forefront of the advance. Utilities shares also attracted strong demand.

Allied Chemical was one of the most buoyant spots in the list, spurting 4¼ points across the 200 mark, and was closely followed by du Pont, which leaped ahead 3¼ points to reach a new high for the year. Columbia Carbon was another strong chemical. Optimistic predictions of earning for the June quarter was credited with being behind the rise in this sector.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were the rule for the steels, with Bethlehem setting the pace as it appreciated $2.25. United States Steel continued to forge ahead, recording a gain well in excess of a point. Youngstown, Acme, and Crucible each gained a point or more.

General Motors Reaches 70.

General Motors hit 70 on a rise of 2 points and at that figure was just a point removed from its best mark of the year. Chrysler did even better, leaping ahead to penetrate new high territory at 115¼ and closing with a gain of 2⅞ points.

American Can, American Telephone, Western Union, Johns Manville, and U. S. Rubber were in the class of stocks scoring gains of 1 to 3 points.

Utility shares led the market in volume. Consolidated Edison was a popular issue, spurting ahead in an active market to a new high of 40⅝ on a runup of almost 2 points. American Waterworks, North American, Electric Power, and National Power were other favorites.

Sharp gains were registered by New York Central, Atchison, Delaware and Hudson, Alleghany issues, Chesapeake and Ohio, Illinois Central preferred, Nickel Plate, and Louisville and Nashville.

Deere Leads Farm Implements.

Deere moved up in the farm implement section, while J. I. Case and Harvester held steady. Sears-Roebuck picked up a point in the mail order division.

Standard of New Jersey set the pace for the oils with a gain exceeding 2 points.

McIntyre and Dome Mines were conspicuous weak spots, the former losing over 2 points and the latter incurring a decline of 3¼.

Douglas Aircraft "rights" were dealt in for the first time and the stock dropped more than 2 points in the early dealings. It came back, however, for a net gain of about 3 points.

AM. TELEPHONE'S MAY OPERATING INCOME HIGHER

The American Telephone and Telegraph company reported yesterday May net operating income that was the highest for the month in four years. The income amounted to $1,793,040, compared with $1,218,938 in May, 1935.

Gross operating revenue for the month increased $841,917 over May last year to a total of $8,685,915.

Net operating income for the first five months increased to $9,311,219 from $6,325,449 a year ago. Gross for the period was $43,897,971, compared with $38,573,068 a year ago.

EAST COAST OIL WAR ENDS IN 6 MILLION DOLLAR DAMAGE SUIT

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—A six year war in the gasoline industry on the Atlantic seaboard was disclosed today when the Seaboard Terminals corporation and its wholly owned subsidiary—the Seaboard Midland Petroleum company, filed suit in federal court demanding three-fold damages of $6,000,000 against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, and the American Oil company.

The plaintif companies, independents, charged that after they had popularized California gasoline in the east the Standard Oil interests engaged in a conspiracy that virtually ruined their business and forced them to sell their properties.

The acts of conspiracy related in the complaint, which the plantifs assert, violate the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws, were price fixing, the buying out of one company to cut off the plaintif's supply source, and violations of contracts and of a truce brought about by government intervention.

Fears of Crop Disaster Boost Prices of Corn

Corn rose 4 cents a bushel yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade as the possibility of a major crop disaster in the corn belt became more imminent. The price advance was the maximum permitted under the market rules and trading came to a virtual standstill when the limit was reached because nobody in the pit was willing to sell corn at the prices quoted.

All corn contracts in the futures market sold at the highest prices of the season. September corn, the principal future contract, closed at 82⅞ cents a bushel.

Up to the time the market closed at 1:15 p. m. the intense heat and drouth through the principal corn producing states was unrelieved. The condition of the crop is becoming steadily more critical.

Corn Crop Failure Feared.

How much longer the crop can stand up without rain was a matter of doubt but the consensus was that a major failure is impending unless the drouth and heat are definitly broken in the next few days.

Other grains advanced with corn in yesterday's trading. Wheat rose more than 4 cents a bushel, with the September contract selling at a high price of $1.10 a bushel. The critical condition of the oats crop caused an advance in futures on that grain of 2½ cents a bushel. Rye gained 4 cents.

Corn has become the market leader for the time being, as it is the chief grain crop still in a position to be materially benefitted by rain. The winter wheat harvest in nearing completion, while cutting of spring wheat, oats, barley, and rye is under way in various parts of the major producing states. Only in Canada are small grains regarded as still sufficiently removed from maturity to respond to moisture.

Speculators and Farmers Buy.

Many speculators and farmers who believed rain would come in ample time to relieve the drouth situation in the main corn belt were said to have abandoned hope yesterday as temperatures again soared above the 100 degree mark. They were said to have bought December corn futures freely. No rain was indicated over the weekend and above normal temperatures were expected to continue.

Closing prices on the September delivery of leading grains with comparisons, follows:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Wk. ago.	Mo. ago.
Wheat	$1.09½	$1.06⅝	$1.01½	$ .85⅜
Corn	.82⅜	.78⅝	.71¼	.58¼
Oats	.40½	.37⅝	.34⅛	.25½
Rye	.75⅛	.71¾	.68	.55¾

Winnipeg wheat futures gained about 3½ cents for the day. All deliveries were in new high ground for the season, with the July delivery showing 7½ cents above the government guaranteed minimum price for No. 1 northern wheat.

Hedging Limits Wheat Upturn.

Hedging pressure alone was said to have prevented wheat futures in Chicago from selling up the full limit of 5 cents permitted for one day. Primary receipts of 4,344,000 bushels were the largest so far this season, while interests purchased 600,000 bushels of new crop wheat for deferred shipment from the country.

September durum wheat at Duluth closed a $1.23½, a gain of 5 cents for the day. It has been recently estimated the durum wheat crop in the northwest would be only 12,000,000 bushels, or about 50 per cent of normal domestic requirements.

Scattered thundershowers were forecast for the 23,000,000 odd acres of wheat in the prairie provinces. There was no rainfall of consequence there overnight.

Europe for the first time showed genuine alarm over the prospect of heavy deterioration in the Canadian outlook and was estimated to have bought 3,000,000 bushels.

A seat on the Chicago Board of Trade sold yesterday for $4,300, an increase of $300 over the last previous sale.

CORN HURT BY DROUTH

First reports of serious damage to the new corn crop were received by the grain trade yesterday from a wide area as the result of seven days with maximum temperatures of 100 and over at many points in the main corn belt. Messages expressed fears that the Oklahoma and South Dakota crops might prove to be a practical failure unless rains were received soon.

James E. Bennett & Co., had a report from their Iowa traveling representative saying there is little chance now for Iowa to raise in excess of 60 per cent of a normal crop even if rain should come immediately. Tasseling was said to be premature and the plant is no taller than it was a week ago, with the tops firing.

Reports from Nebraska asserted the crop was deteriorating daily and rain must come soon or irreparable damage would result. In southwest-

WINTER WHEAT THRIVES; SPRING CROP NEAR RUIN

U. S. Gives Estimate of Harvest Yields.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

While the spring wheat crop in the northwest was being destroyed during June by heat and drouth the condition of the winter crop in other parts of the country made substantial improvement, according the department of agriculture's monthly report released yesterday. The department estimated the winter wheat crop, now being harvested, at 512 million bushels, or 30 million bushels more than appeared likely at the beginning of June.

The estimated winter crop is the best since 1931, when the country harvested the largest crop in history of 818 million bushels. The government's report, based on conditions existing July 1, placed probable spring wheat production at 126 million bushels and the prospective corn harvest at 2 billion 245 million bushels.

Drouth Makes Estimates Obsolete.

These estimates are now obsolete because the spring wheat crop has undergone heavy deterioration since the first of the month and the corn crop prospects have declined sharply. The winter crop had matured by July 1 and the weather conditions prevailing since have been ideal for harvesting.

The major crop failure in the northwest means a better price for the producers of winter wheat. The advance of 20 cents a bushel in wheat since June 1 has added more than 100 million dollars to the value of the winter crop. The winter wheat producers have benefited at the expense of the spring wheat producers, who for five weeks have watched their crop wither under the combined blight of drouth and excessive heat.

On the basis of the government's figures this year's winter wheat crop will exceed the 1935 harvest by 79 million bushels. In 1934 the crop totaled only 406 million bushels. The crops harvested in 1933-34-35 were the smallest on record.

Corn Good Up to July 1.

Up to July 1, the government found, the corn crop had not been seriously affected by drouth. The estimate, based on conditions then, of 2,245 million bushels compared with last year's harvest of 2,292 millions and an average annual production of 2,553 millions for the years 1928-'32.

The government placed the condition of the spring wheat crop on July 1 at 45.7 per cent of normal, the lowest on record for that date with the exception of 1933, when the condition was rated at 38.4 per cent. In 1933 only 84 million bushels of spring wheat were grown. On July 1, 1935, the condition of the crop was placed by the government at 85.1 per cent.

Winter Wheat Production.

	July. 1936.	June. 1936.	Final. 1935.
Pennsylvania	18,018	16,056	18,816
Ohio	40,176	32,688	42,243
Indiana	27,600	24,806	28,458

Oklahoma	26,992	29,358	33,080
Texas	17,672	13,508	10,010

CANADIAN CROP DAMAGED.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 10.—[Special.]—Continued rapid deterioration in the western Canada wheat crop strengthened bullish feeling in the Winnipeg grain market today. Over 1,000,000 bushels of wheat were sold to United States mills, with Chicago houses acting for the mills.

The weather service recorded scattered showers and forecast mostly fair and continuing warm weather, with probably a few thundershowers. Eight points in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta reported temperatures yesterday of 90 degrees or higher.

AUTO OUTPUT DIPS, BUT RUNS ABOVE YEAR AGO

Production Near Weekly 100,000 Unit Rate.

Automobile production this week decreased slightly from a week ago, but continued considerably above the total for the corresponding week of 1935, according to estimates released yesterday.

Ward's Automobile Reports placed the total for the week at 100,648 cars and trucks, against 102,833 in the preceding week and 84,060 in the like period of last year.

The estimate of output for the General Motors group was placed at 43,948 units, compared with 45,398 last week. Chrysler's output was estimated at 23,400 units, unchanged from a week ago, as was Ford's estimated production of 24,310 units.

Cram's Reports, Inc., estimated total production for this week at 97,833 cars and trucks, compared with its revised estimate of 100,678 for last week and 83,450 for the corresponding week of last year.

The Chrysler New York company, special distributors in the New York area, reported that retail sales of Chrysler and Plymouth cars in the metropolitan area there increased 38 per cent during the first six months of this year over a year ago, amounting to 7,829 cars against 5,669, and the highest for any similar period in history.

Sales of Hudson and Terraplane cars during the week ended July 4 showed a gain of 53.5 per cent over those for a year ago, according to W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales. Sales for the two weeks ended July 4 at 5,461 cars were 40 per cent above a year ago and the best for the period since 1929, he said.

Willys Plans New Model.

Attorneys for the Willys-Overland company receivership yesterday filed an application in the federal court at Toledo, O., seeking permission to spend $400,000 on machinery for manufacturing a new model.

The money will be used to purchase dies and tools needed to make a new model, they said. In automobile circles the application was construed as indicating reorganization plans are about completed. It is understood that the new Willys model will be streamlined, four inches wider and six inches longer, with the price under $500.

The department of commerce announced that United States exports of automotive products this year "have been remarkably steady." May exports totaled $23,495,164, against $23,947,444 in April and $19,338,159 in May, 1935, the department reported. May exports of passenger cars at 17,570 units represented a decline of only 13 units from the preceding month. Truck erports were 10,806 units, against 8,258 in April.

COTTON PRICES ADVANCE AS MUCH AS $1.80 A BALE

Cotton prices advanced sharply yesterday, gains ranging upward to $1.80 per bale, which carried spot middlings in the New York market up to 13.65 cents, and New Orleans to 13.40 cents per pound, the highest with the exception of August, 1934, since July, 1930.

Trade and speculative interests were good buyers of futures and found offerings light except from operators who were taking profits on purchases made at lower levels. Closing trades were about the top with gains of 17 to 36 points [a point is equal to 1.100 cents] in leading markets.

A keen demand for spot cotton, both from domestic and foreign mills was reported in the south. The government is credited with owning around 3,500,000 bales of spot cotton which is not hedged by sales of futures and the market is regarded as extremely sensitive to any aggressive buying of futures. Prices follow:

DROUTH, HEAT BREAK LEADING HOG MARKETS

Chicago Prices Decline 15 to 50 Cents.

Another severe price break swept the nation's leading hog markets yesterday, which in the last few days have been struck by a combination of adverse factors. Liberal receipts of domestic stock forced off the farms by the drouth, extreme heat, a sensational rise in feed costs, the fear of a further liquidation next week, the competition of cheap beef, and the huge importations of foreign meats have weakend the position of the American hog markets.

Prices at Chicago fell 15 to 50 cents more yesterday, many of the underweights and pigs selling as much as 75 cents to $1 under the top best levels earlier in the week.

Heavy Sows at Low Levels.

The declines brought some of the heaviest of the packing sows below $8, a level where they cease to show a profit for the farmer with corn at its present high level. Some 500 to 600 pound sows brought $7.75 to $7.85 at the close, and with corn in the country worth 80 to 82 cents in some districts, farmers say they will show a loss on every bushel they feed to sows. Two weeks ago they were buying corn at 60 to 65 cents in the country and selling extremely heavy sows here at $8.25 to $8.75. Most of the better grades of hogs still show a favorable margin over corn costs, however.

The average for the day at $9.35 showed 20 cents loss and was lowest since May 18. Last Monday the average was $10.

Receipts Are Liberal.

Receipts continued liberal at most markets. The total at the eleven points was 44,000, an increase of 16,000 compared with last Friday and an increase of 12,000 over a year ago.

Offerings of cattle met a stagnant trade. The market came almost to a standstill when buyers demanded sharp concessions in live costs because of further declines in wholesale markets for drouth beef. Many loads of steers were taken off the market to be carried over for next week.

The limited supply of lambs brought strong to 15 cents higher prices, showing advances of 65 to 85 cents compared with Monday, despite the severe break in cattle and hogs. Packers paid up to $10.90 for closely sorted natives. Yearlings sold downward from $8.50. Ewes rose 25 cents.

RETAIL TRADE BRISK; SUMMER GOODS LEADING

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Hot weather requirements—white shoes, cotton dresses, men's summer clothing, electric fans, sun tan preparation—were in the lead as retail trade moved ahead briskly this week, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today. Paradoxically, as the temperature was soaring promotion of fur goods was in full swing in many cities throughout the country.

The number of visitors in the leading wholesale markets reached one of the largest totals for the year during the week, as fall buying made the most auspicious start in six years. Fall budgets ranged from 15 to 30 per cent above those of a year ago, with prospects of further upward revisions.

"Nearly all the buying," the review said, "was characterized by a preference for a more predominating share of the better grades of merchandise than has made up selections since 1921, with the so-called luxury goods particularly stressed.

"Reorders for summer merchandise were the heaviest for the season, demand centering around hot weather items, including electric fans, refrigerators, lightweight apparel, and touring and outing supplies.

"Encouraged by the brisk pace maintained during the closing month of the first half of the year, most manufacturers are of the opinion that any pause in the forward movement, as the result of seasonal influences, will be of shorter duration than usual."

TRANSUE & WILLIAMS FORGING PROFITS RISE IN SECOND QUARTER

The first June quarter report was issued yesterday when Transue and Williams Forging company released figures showing a net profit of $41,456, after taxes and depreciation, equivalent to 32 cents a share on the capital stock, compared with $33,515, or 26 cents a share, in the first quarter, and $21,556, or 17 cents a share, in the corresponding period a year ago.

Bridgeport Machine company reported for the first six months of 1936 a net profit before income taxes of $233,014. This compared with $85,070 in the corresponding 1935 period.

Chicago Yellow Cab company, Inc., and subsidiaries showed an increase in gross of $641,183, or 28.4 per cent, in the first six months over the like 1935 period. Second quarter gross income increased $230,283, or 22 per cent, and the first quarter gross income rose $410,900, or 33.8 per cent. The company announced that second quarter and six months' earnings and dividend action will be announced after the directors' meeting July 16.

Net profit of Twentieth-Century-Fox Film corporation for the 13 weeks ended June 27 was about $1,500,000, after all charges, an increase of 26 per cent from a year ago.

Standard Statistics company, in a survey released yesterday, pointed out that mid-year saw American industrial organizations operating at the highest rate since 1930.

Rise 4 Cent Limit; Wheat Advances.

ern Kansas the corn tassels were said to have been burnt.

Over 1,000,000 bushels of Argentine corn are reported to have been bought for shipment to the United States in the last few days as the result of the continued sensational advance in the price of the domestic grain. The purchases, it was said, range from July to September shipment and will go to Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coast ports.

Owing to the high price prevailing in Chicago, with No. 2 yellow corn selling around 88 cents per bushel in carlots, Argentine grain can be laid down at American ports, duty paid, at a figure which permits it being shipped about 100 miles from the seaboard in full competition with grain from the west.

Argentine corn so completely dominates the Pacific coast market that it is asserted there has been comparatively little American grain purchased for nearly two years. Canadian industries have been using Argentine and South African corn for about 18 months, finding it cheaper than the grain raised south of the Great Lakes.

American mills were credited in Winnipeg messages with having bought over 500,000 bushels of Canadian spring wheat yesterday.

Hedging pressure against the current movement has increased materially and has been a factor in checking the upturns in the market. Chicago elevator and milling interests are estimated to have purchased over 1,000,000 bushels of cash wheat for deferred shipment from Illinois and other states which are naturally tributory to the local market during the last few days at the highest average harvest price since 1929.

Condition of the Canadian spring wheat crop has been slipping downward day by day since July 1, due to heat and dry weather, and damage is still going on throughout fully 50 per cent of the seeded area, according to H. C. Donovan, crop expert, in a report to Thomson & McKinnon from Regina, Saskatchewan. While some sections are still holding their early promise there is urgent need of heavy general rains to halt deterioration.

BREAK GROUND NEXT WEEK FOR WIEBOLDT STORE

Elaborate ground breaking ceremonies will mark the beginning of construction of the $1,000,000 Wieboldt department store in the Oak Park shopping district, at Harlem avenue and Lake street, River Forest, next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Frank Knox, Senator William H. Dieterich, and A. F. Lorenzen will be guests of honor. John L. Brink, president of River Forest, and James A. Howe, president of Oak Park, will perform the ground breaking rites.

Other guests will include civic, business, and social leaders of Chicago and western suburbs. Preparations have been made for several thousand spectators. A 30 ton steam shovel will do the actual ground breaking. The new three story air conditioned store is scheduled for completion in February, 1937.

LARD TRADE ACTIVE, WITH GAINS OF 15 TO 25 CENTS

A fairly active trade was under way in lard futures yesterday with the close at net gains of 15 to 25 cents. Strength in grains and cotton seed oil more than offset the effect of weakness in the hog market. Clear bellies [salt pork], closed 2½ to 10 cents lower. Cash lard was quoted at $11.02½; loose, $10.42½; leaf, $10.21½ and clear bellies at $13.00 per 100 pounds. Prices per 100 pounds follow:

FRANC DECLINES AS 'BABY' BOND SALE IS STARTED

Other Gold Moneys Weaken Against Dollar.

A break in the French franc, which at one time amounted to 2½ points, the widest setback in several weeks, and sympathetic weakness in other gold currencies compared with the dollar featured the foreign exchange market at New York yesterday.

The downturn in the franc, which came at a particularly inopportune time, as the French government began the sale of a new issue of baby bonds, was believed due to pre-holiday nervousness. After the market's close today there will be a holiday in Paris until Wednesday in observance of Bastille day.

The fall of the franc brought renewed weakness to the Netherlands guilder and the Swiss franc, but the pound sterling and the Belgian belga were stronger, which seemed to indicate that once again capital was moving out of the gold-bloc countries and seeking refuge in England and Belgium, as well as in the United States.

Franc Recovers Part of Loss.

Selling in New York, originating principally from France, forced the franc down to 6.61 cents at the day's low. The unit later recovered to close at 6.61⅝ cents, off 1⅜ points for the day. At this level the dollar was worth 100.26 cents, compared with 100 cents on Thursday.

It was said some Frenchmen became nervous over the combination of the baby bond sale and the extended holiday and, as a consequence, converted francs into dollars and pounds.

Guilders dropped 3 points to 68.09 cents and Swiss francs lost 4 points to 32.72 cents. All of these gold bloc currencies, however, still remained well above the level at which gold shipments from the countries became profitable. The pound sterling gained ¾ cent to $5.02¾.

Bank of England Buys Gold.

The Bank of England made a fresh purchase of £1,406,045 in gold bars yesterday. A dispatch from London said £1,800,000 of bar gold arrived there yesterday from Paris.

Although an air of mystery surrounded the transaction, it was believed the shipment represented repatriation of part of the metal acquired recently by the British exchange equalization fund in supporting the French franc.

There were no engagements of gold abroad yesterday but the New York federal reserve bank reported as additional for Thursday the receipt of $1,311,500 gold from India and $4,900 gold came in yesterday from Guatemala and was placed under earmark.

NORMAN SAILS FOR U. S.; RUMOR MILLS ARE BUSY

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Montagu Collet Norman, whose longevity record as governor of the Bank of England is only approached by his flair for taciturnity, left Southampton, England, today on the S. S. Bremen for the United States. Immediately rumor mills in Wall street stepped up their operations to capacity as the banker was reported to be coming here to discuss varied problems of world finance.

Living up to tradition, Norman declined to reveal the purpose of his trip to this country, but did say that he was going to Maine. On the basis of the meager information which had come out of Southampton, it is assumed that the distinguished head of the Bank of England will stop at Bar Harbor, Me., on an estate aptly called "Retreat."

Norman's trip to this country at this time, in the opinion of some bankers, is propitious for preliminary conversations concerning international stabilization. In this connection, it was pointed out that on several occasions recently, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. has discreetly tendered an invitation to England to discuss money when the time was ripe.

Predict Two More Days of Severe Heat—Banker Reynolds' Son Denies Suicide Pact; Bride Critically Ill

BABIES KEEP COOL ON ROOF OF ST. VINCENT'S ORPHANAGE AS TEMPERATURE RISES ABOVE 100— Three year old children at the La Salle street institution yesterday made use of a garden hose on top of the building. The official thermometer at the University of Chicago weather observatory registered 102 at 4 p. m. It was 106 at the airport. Fair and continued warm is the prediction for today and tomorrow. (Story on page 1.)

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

HEAT GETS THE WEATHER MAN—J. R. Lloyd in his office in the federal building yesterday afternoon, going over the maps for further hot weather reports. He said it would be fair and continued warm today.

ANOTHER WAY TO RELIEVE THE HEAT—Two children playing with garden hose on the roof of St. Vincent's orphanage yesterday. Thousands of Chicagoans sought to cool themselves on beaches and in park pools.

BANK BANDITS SLAIN BY POSSE—Peter Samuloff (left) and Joel L. Poole, who held up bank at Bethany, Ill., and escaped with $1,000, only to be shot down in gun battle with posse which cornered them on a dairy farm.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

DUNKIRK, N. Y., MAYOR SLASHES COST OF RELIEF—Mayor W. L. Roberts, a former millhand (facing camera), who turned down state aid as too expensive, with Marguerite Smith, his secretary, hearing application for food order. In cutting the relief list from 700 to 150 names he expects to save at least $7,500 a month.

[Associated Press Photo.]
